Wall Street's Wail and Roosevelt to the Rescue.

Secretary Cortelyou having deposited an enormous sum with the New York banks to prevent the depreciation of Wall Street's watered stocks, now proposes to issue a hundred and fifty million dollars of Panama bonds in order to avoid the necessity for withdrawing the government deposits from those favored banks. What is this? "Bonds in time of peace?"

There is something strangely familiar about the sound of those words. "Bonds—interest bearing bonds in time of peace"—when did we hear of such a thing before? Oh, yes, it was during the Cleveland calamity administration. How indignant grew the Republican orator; how the Populist patriot raged! "Interest bearing bonds in time of peace—PRO—FOUND peace." The voice of denunciation swelled on the gale. The furnaces drew their fires and the Democrats were responsible. The mills shut down and the Democrats were responsible. Thousands of workmen were thrown out of employment and the Democrats were responsible. Strange to say the orators and editors who raged and roared over the Cleveland, free trade, Democratic panic of 1893, are mild as "sucking doves" over the Roosevelt, high protection Republican panic of 1907. The men who frothed at the mouth because Cleveland issued bonds, interest bearing bonds in time of peace, show no symptoms of rabies when Roosevelt does what they cursed Cleveland for doing.

The friends of the former were all ready with their howl about Cleveland and five cent cotton in 1893. Mr. Roosevelt's Secretary of the Treasury rushes millions into the New York books to keep up the price of watered stocks and refuses to deposit a paltry ten millions on gilt edged security to save the cotton farmers of the South and get the professional patriots, who in denouncing the Democrats, exhausted the language of abuse, have not one word to say against the Republicans when they discriminate against the South ten fold worse than Cleveland ever dreamed of doing. Suppose a Democratic, instead of a Republican president had loaned money to Wall street gamblers and refused it to Southern cotton farmers?

Suppose the panic had occurred under a Democratic, instead of under a Republican, administration? Suppose a Democratic, instead of a Republican, secretary of the treasury, had issued interest bearing bonds in time of peace? Oh! What a howl there would have been, my countrymen. As it is the howlers of other days' assure us that the panic won't last long; that the worst is over; that there is no law allowing the deposit of government funds in Southern bonds to help the cotton farmers. That is all well enough for those who hold or expect a federal job; for those who have a political pull and gather draft under the name of "fees" from prospective appointees; but is it not about time for those who vote the Republican ticket from principle to realize that their party cares nothing for the South and despises even the few renegades whom it puts into office.

Friends Desire to Know Why Mayor Cilly Resigned.

Many citizens who voted for Mr. Cilly as Mayor desire to know the reason why he resigned as Mayor of the City of Hickory. As we stated at the time of the election and also in our last issue, he was elected by an overwhelming majority. His many friends desire to know his reason.

Tragic Death of Hunter Near Newton.

Mr. James D. Carrier, of Asheville was accidentally killed by the discharge of his own gun Saturday night, at a short distance from the clubhouse. He had gone out after supper, "for a little hunt," he said. His friends became alarmed at his long absence, search was made, and he was found by the side of a gully, having been dead for hours. The ball had entered his chin blowing away the right jaw and a part of the nose. A verdict of "Accidental death" was pronounced by the coroner's jury. The body was taken to Asheville.

Death of Capt. Rheinhardt

Capt. Robert Rheinhardt, for many years post-master in Newton, and, a well-known citizen, died early Sunday morning. He had sustained a stroke of paralysis two days before his death, and did not rally. Captain Rheinhardt was an old Confederate soldier, and those who knew him will remember his interest in anything relating to the Lost Cause. He was also a Mason, and the writer remembers him "dressed in all his best" and eager as a child starting on a long-promised holiday, the day of the Masonic picnic last August.

Capt. Rheinhardt was probably one of Catawba's oldest citizens. To many it will seem a strange thing to go to Newton and not see "the old Captain" in his accustomed place.

Outline Sketch of Hickory.

Prof. J. E. Barb has one of the best blue prints on exhibition in a drug store window that we have ever seen. It is a sketch of the town, every building, dwelling-house, etc., being so located that you can't get lost if you want to. The Professor is "bad to beat" at his own work.

The Southern Presbyterian, the Northern Presbyterian, the Dutch Reformed, and the United Presbyterian churches having at the meetings of the highest judicatories of these denominations adopted the articles of agreement sent down from the Charlotte meeting for close relations, the first meeting of the council representing these denominations is called to meet in the Marble Collegiate Reformed church of New York City on December 3, 1907. Dr. J. L. Murphy of Hickory is a member of this council and in all probability will attend the meeting.
