An Incendiary Does His Dirty Work.

Between nine and ten o'clock last Thursday night, the barn and its contents of Mr. J. D. Pope were destroyed by fire. The farm is about four miles from the city, and Mr. Pope spent a great deal of his time on the farm; however always returning to his home in the city at night. Mr. Huffman, a young man was employed to look after the stock; but slept at home, so there was no one there at the time of the fire. Yet the stock was turned out, which would not have been the case if the barn had not been fired purposely. The officials are working hard on the case, but as yet have discovered no clue that will lead to the capture of the villain.

The barn was filled with fine pea hay and the loss was between $2,500 and $3,000, partly covered by insurance.
