SPORTSMEN HERE

George Gould, owner of Furlough Kennels, spent Saturday and Sunday on his estate, having come here on account of the killing of Jack Armstrong by Lert English. Mr. Armstrong was in charge of Mr. Gould's hunting preserves. While he deeply deprecates the unfortunate affair which ended the career of his faithful employe, Mr. Gould felt like not saying more in regard to it. He will put a brotber of Mr. Armstrong in charge of Furlough Kennels.

Mr. J. Holden, of New York, one of the owners of the Archdale shooting club of which Lert English was manager, was here Monday on business.

"BOB" PHILLIPS DEAD

We are shocked to learn of the death of R. M. Phillips, associate editor of the Greensboro News, which occurred Wednesday afternoon at 6 o'clock at his home near Carthage where he went hoping to regain his health. Death was due to heart failure caused by chronic gastritis. We have known Bob Phillips for years, having worked with him on the Greensboro Telegram during the Spanish-American war. He was a most estimable gentleman and his sudden death will bring sorrow to countless hundreds who knew him. May he sleep well, as he deserves.

The Red Men of this district will take part in the big parade here July 4th and expect to add at least one half a mile to the parade. Great preparations are being made already and several of the tribes of Red Men are already writing about it. Some 600 will be in the line of march. Sensational stunts will be pulled off and after the parade a big barbecue is planned.

The Bridge of Arta
(From the London Chronicle)

It was by the bridge of Arta that the Greeks on the west side entered Turkey.

"The Bridge of Arta" one of the most pathetic of Greek folk songs, tells of the sacrifice of a human victim at the building of a bridge to appease its demon. In the version translated by Mr. J. C. Lawson, 60 apprentices and 45 craftsmen have toiled for three years at the bridge, and every night their day's work falls in ruin. Then the demon's voice bids them sacrifice the master craftsman's wife as she comes to supper. They induced her, with a false story of a ring to be fished up, to let herself be lowered, and her husband himself hurls a stone down upon her.

CLAUDE ALLEN'S FAREWELL LETTER

The Richmond Evening Journal printed the following:

"From his silent prison cell, close guarded and gloomy, Claude Allen has written The Journal a letter expressing his appreciation for The Journal's fight for justice.

"From the hills of Pulaski his sweetheart, Miss Nellie Wisler, has written a letter telling The Journal how deep is her gratitude. His letter is little short of a dying declaration. Miss Wisler's (his sweetheart's) letter expresses in ungarished words her terrible grief. By strange coincidence both letters were written on the same day Monday.

"Richmond, Va., March 24, 1913
Editor of The Journal:

"You have worked hard that justice might be given my father and myself, and I write this to thank you for your great kindness.

"Words fail to express my thankfulness of heart to you for your efforts to save our lives. As time passes I feel sure that the world will learn the true facts.

I have a few days to live and I want to assure you that your efforts have been for justice. As I will say at the bar of God, so I can say to you—I know of no conspiracy and I did not fire the first shot in the court room at Hillsville March 14, 1912.

Again thanking you and praying God to bless you for your kindness, I will say farewell.

"CLAUDE ALLEN."

WELCH SCHOOL CLOSES

The Welch School which has been under the management of Delos Hammer as principal, and Miss Maude Satterthwaite and Mrs. Bertha White, assistants, closed with appropriate commencement exercises on last Saturday.

The address was delivered by Rev. A. G. Dixon, pastor of the North Main Street M. P. Church of High Point. Music was furnished by the Blind Boys' Orchestra of High Point. Many prizes were given by the teachers for attendance and excellence of scholarship, also a handsome gold pin was given by the principal for the best recitation in a contest by a number of girls. This prize was awarded by the judges to Miss Leona Guyer.

It was an ideal day, and many people from High Point and surrounding country were out to witness the closing exercises which, in the morning, consisted of songs, recitations, dialogs, drills and plays together with the excellent music furnished by the band. Special mention is made of the "March Wind Song," by a number of girls, the "Flag Drill" and the "Ring Drill" also by the girls. The little boys and girls each spoke their pieces well. The plays, "Mirth-Provoking School," and "Jumbo Jum" received most favorable comment. Both were very entertaining. Dolph Welch acted Jumbo to perfection. There were requests for a repetition of these plays, but owing to the lack of time they could not be given.

The afternoon was taken up by the girls' contest, delivery of prizes, and Mr. Dixon's address. The judges in the contest were Mr. Dixon, who also delivered the prize with most appropriate and well chosen words. Miss Hughes, a teacher in the High Point City schools, and Mrs. Ila Horney who has much experience as a teacher.

The committee had a hard task, as it was almost a tie with three of the girls, and the others came close behind. Besides Miss Leona Guyer, who won the prize, Miss Delphia Payne and Miss Gladis Kivett, were given special mention.

The exercises of the day were most creditable and indicated a competent management of the school by efficient instructors which should be a source of pride to the community.
