(BY MISS LOUISE JONES.)

Presbyterian Philatheas.
The Philatheas class of the First Presbyterian church held their monthly business and social meeting at the home of Mrs. A. J. Bradshaw on Eighth avenue last evening. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Mary Hendley. The different reports from the different committees were very encouraging. Four new members have been added to the roll within the past month. The class gave $9 (which was entirely a free will offering) to home mission work this month—half of this amount to help build churches in the mountains or other places in North Carolina where the people are not able to build churches themselves, and the other half to buy blankets for the orphan children at Barium Springs. It was also decided to take $1 out of the treasury and to take up a free will offering to help Miss Bessie Lappley to take a course in the assembly's Training School, Richmond, Va. as she is in the home mission work, and when through with her course will work in the mountains of North Carolina. A plan was suggested and approved as to how the class could get some new members for the church library. This plan is to be carried out later.

After the business part of the program was over, the class entered into the social part of the meeting, in which several interesting games were played, and then came the delightful part of the meeting—refreshments, consisting of hot chocolate, cake and fruit.

Every one went home announcing the fact that the Bradshaws were delightful entertainers.

PRaises Attraction

Greensboro News Thinks Well of Six American Girls.

The Greensboro Daily News yesterday printed the following highly complimentary article about the American Girls, the first of the Redpath Lyceum attractions that will appear in Hickory next Friday night:

"Six American Girls, the attraction at the Grand opera house last night, proved to be one of the best Lyceum offerings of the season. These girls play a variety of different musical instruments, sing and give readings, all of which was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present. Although all the numbers were of a high order, possibly the best from a comedy standpoint was the one in which several of the young ladies imitated the leader of a country band. The different positions into which she is able to throw her body makes her a worthy rival of Creator, especially so in calisthenic exercise. The finale in which they represent the different types of American girls, illustrated ingeniously by song and pose, was a clever idea and made an excellent closing to an enjoyable entertainment."

This company portrays the American girl of today, and the American girl of the days gone by. The program is given in the form of a musical sketch. Six bright, smiling, talented girls captivate the audience and furnish a delightful evening. Musically, the program of this company comprises: An orchestral sextet, a singing sextet, vocal, violin, cornet and saxophone solos, vocal and instrumental duets, a quartet, a trio, a piano trio, heavy classical music, popular song medleys, readings, original songs, words and music written especially for this program portraying American girls.

Among the many special features presented by this company which have been strongly pleased that they are sure to be used again the coming season are: The original songs, words and music of "The Girls of Yesterday"; and "Our American Girls," in which is introduced the Southern Girl, with Dixie, the Western girl with "Tony Boy," the Eastern girl with "Reuben, Reuben," the Co-Ed, with real College yells, and the Suffrage girl.

The program introduces six historical types of the American girl, namely: The Indian girl, the Puritan girl, the Colonial girl, the Pioneer girl, the Grandmother as a girl, and our Modern Day girl. Each historical girl is in correct costume and manner, her contribution to American life and American history stated, and the music appropriate to her period played or sung.

ARCHITECT A CLOWN

Buffon With Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Has Interesting Career.

From the life work of an architect to that of a circus clown is a long jump, but one which was made by Harvey Johnson, principal clown with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which comes to Hickory Wednesday, November 10, for two performances. For fifteen years Johnson was a draftsman of the blue prints in his Chicago office. He was very successful and he drew the plans and superintended the construction of many buildings. One day a circus came to Chicago, and like hundreds of others, he thought he would have to go and carry the children. He watched the clowns and underneath their make-up he saw the seriousness with which they worked. It impressed him.

Leaving the show grounds Johnson began to think about the clowns. He went to the circus and bought up books as far back as those which dwell in the days of the circus in the Roman Coliseum. He read about Grimaldi and other ancient buffoons. Then he began to work out stunts and tricks. He placed them on paper and developed them as stage acts. He found a veteran clown who assisted him in his work. Finally he got a job with as small circus at a still smaller salary.

But Johnson liked the work; that of making others happy. The stunts he developed were really marvelous. They were totally different from ordinary clowns' stunts. A scout of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus saw Mr. Johnson and immediately gave him a contract. For eight years he has been "clownin' for al ivin'," as he tersely expresses it, and, apparently, he is in love with the fun.

It is a very difficult act that Mr. Johnson can not get a burlesque of some kind on. Some of his stunts for this year are: "The Suffragette Parade," "Mutt and Jeff," "The Atlantic City Boardwalk" and "Broadway Afternoon." Mr. Johnson has forty-nine clowns assisting him in his work.

BEAUTIFUL BOOKLET FOR LYCEUM COURSE

The lyceum course committee is putting into the hands of the public today one of the most beautiful little booklets ever gotten out in Hickory. Advertising in these days must not only be effective, but should be pleasing to the eye and appeal to the artistic taste of the people, and this booklet certainly does so. The average man or woman will judge the class of the thing advertised by the class of advertising offered and judged by that standard alone the lyceum attraction will no doubt be the best ever presented in Hickory.

In this booklet you will find complete information as to all the different numbers, the price of admission, press notices from many of the larger city papers, pictures of the artists and all other information necessary for full understanding of this wonderful course. If you have not gotten one of them better call up one of the committee at once.

PLEASED WITH BULLETIN

Mr. T. M. Cornelius, representing the Redpath Lyceum Bureau, is in the city, looking after the success of the local committee in getting the attractions before the public. He complimented the local committee upon its organization and work, and bespeaks a successful issue for the season. He was particularly well pleased with the large bulletin in front of Lutz's drug store, and said it was the best he ever saw and that he would like to get a picture of it for the benefit of other committees.
