

HICKORY DAILY RECORD

VOL. II. NO. 78

HICKORY, N. C. WEDNESDAY EVENING NOVEMBER 29, 1916

Price Two Cents

ANOTHER INJUNCTION IN TENTH DISTRICT AFFAIR

Britt's Attorney Secures Restraining Order From Judge Carter at Salisbury and Proceeds to Raleigh, Where He Will Appear Before Judge Bond Friday.

(By Associated Press.)
Salisbury, Nov. 29.—Thomas Settle of Asheville, attorney for Congressman J. J. Britt in the celebrated tenth district election contest case, appeared before Judge Frank Carter in Rowan county superior court today and secured a temporary injunction and restraining order against the state board of canvassers, the secretary of state and the governor to prevent action being taken on the election returns from Buncombe county until the courts pass on them.

This is returnable before Judge W. M. Bond at Raleigh on Friday December 1, when a permanent injunction will be sought.

Immediately after securing the temporary injunction Mr. Settle left for Raleigh.

FUEL IMPROVEMENT IN EASTERN CAROLINA

(By Associated Press.)
Rocky Mount, Nov. 29.—There has been a decidedly more hopeful turn in the fuel situation throughout this section within the last two weeks, according to manufacturers here. A partial solution by the railroads of the car shortage problem coupled with a change of policy on the part of the coal companies in supplying domestic needs first and curtailing foreign shipments is held responsible for the improvement in conditions. Manufacturing concerns report that they now are receiving shipments of coal for their immediate needs and they are promising early deliveries to replenish depleted stocks.

Coal dealers who three weeks ago declared there was not enough coal here to last a month if a severe spell of cold weather set in now state that they have normal supplies. The price of coal here has increased as in other sections of the country. Anthracite is quoted at $10 per ton and bituminous coal at $8.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH LOCAL HIGHS READY FOR SPENCER TEAM

Rev. J. G. Garth will give a lecture tonight at prayer meeting entitled, "The Dreamer's Dream," illustrated with pictures by the stereopticon, telling the story of Bunyon's Pilgrim Progress at the same, explaining the pictures on the screen. At the close of the lecture an illustrated song, "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," will be shown on the screen. An offering will be taken to defray the expenses of the pictures.

The Thanksgiving service and annual offering for the Barium Springs orphanage will be held at 11 a. m., instead of 10 a. m., as announced last Sabbath.

Three Governors to Speak to State Teachers' Assembly Which is on in Raleigh

(By Associated Press.)
Raleigh, N. C. Nov. 29.—With two governors, one elect and several noted educators to deliver addresses, the fifteen hundred or more teachers here for the opening session tonight of the thirty-third annual meeting of the North Carolina Teacher's Assembly anticipated one of the most successful meetings in the history of the organization. Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania, Governor Locke Craig and Governor-elect Thomas W. Bickett of North Carolina, are to speak Friday night. An address by Dr. W. C. Bagley of the University of Illinois was on tonight's program and Dr. T. H. Briggs of Columbia University and Dr. D. Y. Dykema of the University of Wisconsin, are expected to speak Thursday evening. The concluding session will be held Friday night.

A reception tonight at the governor's mansion, under the auspices of the Woman's Club and the Chamber of Commerce, is expected to feature the many events arranged for the entertainment of the visitors. Many also will attend the football game between Washington and Lee University and the North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College tomorrow, and because of this there will be no afternoon session of the assembly Thursday.

The alumnae and alumni association banquets Friday night between six and eight o'clock were held at the... by the visitors.

WATERWORKS TO BE IMPROVED SHORTLY

City council Tuesday night practically decided to overhaul the waterworks with the expectation of increasing the supply and reducing the cost of production, and engineers have been employed to work out the plans. This matter has been under contemplation for a long time, was considered by the last board, but action was deferred pending the settlement of other questions of importance.

Council received a letter from Mr. J. J. Willard in behalf of himself and other Kenworth citizens requesting lights and it was decided to give that pretty suburb all the lights it needed.

The other business before the board was of routine nature.

DR. DEW IN HICKORY HOLD UNION SERVICE

Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Dew arrived here today on No. 11. They have just closed a great meeting in High Point. While in this city, they will stop with Mr. and Mrs. J. Worth Elliott.

Dr. Dew will preach his first sermon tonight. Tomorrow at 11 a. m. he will preach to the Methodist and Baptist congregations, the sermon to be in the Baptist church. Everybody is cordially invited to these sermons and others to follow.

Hickory will have an opportunity Thanksgiving night of seeing a spicy basketball game when the Hickory high school quint will meet the strong Spencer high school quint in the armory at 8:15 o'clock.

The Hickory boys have been playing good basketball this year, having played four games and coming off victorious in three. The admission price, to defray expenses of the visiting players will be 10c for all school children and 15c for adults.

LOCAL HIGHS READY FOR SPENCER TEAM

Hickory high school girls will play the Lenoir College girls basketball team tomorrow night at the armory. The boys will play the Spencer team, thus making a double header for the evening.

Three Governors to Speak to State Teachers' Assembly Which is on in Raleigh

Among the graduates who have arranged for these are those of the Greensboro College for Women; University of North Carolina; Oxford; Trinity; Elon; Meredith; State Normal and Industrial; Wake Forest and North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges; St. Mary's School; Peace Institute; East Carolina Teacher's Training School and Peabody Teacher's College.

At the opening session tonight the visitors will be welcomed by Professor W. C. Riddick, president of the North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College. The response by H. B. Smith, of New Bern, is to be followed by the address of Dr. Bagley, of the University of Illinois. The reception at the Governor's Mansion will take place later in the evening.

SOME EGGS HIT FINAL FOOTBALL GAMES IN EAST SOUTH

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Nov. 29.—The price of cold storage eggs wholesale was one and two cents lower than yesterday morning when the egg boycott began. Eggs sold 34 to 38 cents a dozen, according to grade. The price of fresh eggs showed no change from yesterday. Some of the wholesale dealers asserted that the boycott will play into the hands of foreign buyers. They said exporters were only waiting for the price to drop.

The Housewives League today continued active missionary work to discourage the use of eggs. One method was an endless chain of telephone calls. One woman called 25 women friends and requested her to call 25 of her friends soliciting them to curtail.

A canvass of the big public market showed that almost every item of the Thanksgiving dinner will cost more than last year.

AUSTRIAN BOAT RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 29.—Latest dispatches to the state department say the submarine which sunk the American steamer Chemung on November 26 flew the Austrian flag and that the vessel was both shelled and torpedoed.

They repeat there was no loss of life and that the crew was given a chance to escape.

PROVING CHARACTER OF THOS. E. WATSON

(By Associated Press.)
Augusta, Ga., Nov. 29.—Thomas E. Watson's character as a writer and his general character as a man were allowed to be put before the jury in federal district court which is trying him on charges of having sent obscene matter through the mails.

As a writer the Thompson man's character is exceptionally good and as a man it is good, according to M. C. Barnes, former postmaster of Thompson. As the character witnesses began to testify, it was evident their evidence could be given today and Judge Lambin, it was said, would hold court tomorrow.

TRABUE ACQUITTED OF STOKES' MURDER

(By Associated Press.)
Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 29.—Charles Trabue, who has been on trial here since October 31 charged with the murder of Harry Stokes, was acquitted of the charge in the Davidson county criminal court today. The court room was crowded when the verdict was rendered, but there was no demonstration.

GREEK COUNCIL WILL SUPPORT THE KING

(By Associated Press.)
London, Nov. 29.—The Greek crown council has voted to support the government in opposing the allies' demand for the surrender of arms and ammunition, according to a Reuter dispatch from Athens under yesterday's date.

BRITISH REPULSED IN FIGHT NEAR LENS

(By Associated Press.)
Berlin, via Savville, Nov. 29.—British troops attacking near Gavinchy, southwest of Lens, last night were repulsed, the war office announced.

Mr. Myron Whitener of Lenoir spent the day in Hickory.

For the promotion of Christian work among school children, the Piedmont Council has presented a bible to every school district in Catawba county.

GAMES IN SOUTH

(By Associated Press.)
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 29.—The southern football season closes tomorrow with practically every eleven engaged in annual battles, some of which have been features almost from the time the game has been played.

Two games will have a direct bearing on the southern championship and prospects appeared good for both Georgia Tech and Tennessee to complete their schedule with clean records. Other annual battles include Virginia vs. North Carolina at Richmond; Vanderbilt vs. Sewanee at Nashville; Georgia vs. Alabama at Birmingham; Mississippi vs. Mississippi at Jackson and Washington and Lee vs. North Carolina A. and M. at Raleigh.

SELECTING A JURY TO TRY EPSTEIN

(By Associated Press.)
Goldsboro, Nov. 29.—250 veniremen were summoned from which to select a jury in the trial of Hyman Epstein in Wayne superior court today. Epstein is charged with the murder of Leonard Edwards last spring.

The first trial of Epstein about three months ago resulted in a mistrial because of the failure of the jury to agree on a verdict. Only 66 men of a special venire of 200 was examined before the jury was drawn before the first trial, but because has been so much interest in the case it is believed the special venire will be exhausted.

CHIHUAHUA CITY IS UNKNOWN AS YET

(By Associated Press.)
Juarez, Nov. 29.—Denying published stories that General Gonzales last night officially announced in El Paso the fall of Chihuahua City to Villa, Carranza officials declared Gonzales was in Dagua last night and would not return until late today. They added that nothing definite had been learned as to the fate of Chihuahua City.

The Hickory high school girls will play the Lenoir College girls basketball team tomorrow night at the armory. The boys will play the Spencer team, thus making a double header for the evening.

MARKETS

COTTON FUTURES
(By Associated Press)
New York, Nov. 29.—The cotton market had a somewhat irregular opening today, first prices being three points lower to five points higher after yesterday's steady liquidation and prices soon advanced. January and May advanced to 23 to 24 points above last night's closing figures.
The market closed steady.	Open	Close
December	20.20	20.23
January	20.35	20.39
March	20.53	20.60
May	20.75	20.82
July	20.76	20.80

HICKORY MARKETS

Cotton	20c
Wheat	$1.70

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO WHEAT
(By Associated Press)
Chicago, Nov. 29.—Wheat prices today showed decided power to rally. Opening prices, which ranged from two cents decline to 1 7-8 cents advance with December at 1.76 and May at 1.76 1-4, were followed by a reaction and then an upturn to well above yesterday's finish.
December	1916	1915
Maximum	53	65
Minimum	33	43
Close	41	51

THE WEATHER

For North Carolina: Local rains this afternoon and tonight. Thursday partly cloudy and colder; moderate, variable winds.

COMPARATIVE WEATHER

THANKSGIVING IN HICKORY TO BE QUIET

Thanksgiving in Hickory, judging from the weather today, will be more or less disagreeable if the elements have anything to do with the way in which one observes the day. Services are announced for the various churches, the banks will be closed, the postoffice will observe holiday hours, and the stores in the Merchants' Association will be closed for the day.

Quite a number of persons had planned to go hunting tomorrow, but the hard rain of Tuesday night, unless it should be followed by fair, warm weather, will cause the ground to be so soggy that walking will be bad and very few sportsmen will venture forth.

Only a few will go from here to attend the football games, though the interest in the Carolina-Virginia contest at Richmond is as keen as in former years and the usual number will follow the game as reports simmer in through the Western Union in the afternoon.

BAPTIST SCHOOL DISCUSSED IN HICKORY

The committees of three Baptist associations, Caldwell, Catawba River and South Fork, met here Tuesday to discuss the advisability of consolidating and building up a first-class denominational school somewhere within the bounds of these Associations.

The general consensus of opinion was that such a school was needed, and could be made a grand success, the state and town high schools, notwithstanding. With this view, a sub-committee of three from each association was appointed to receive bids from different localities and report the same to the general committee in a meeting called for the purpose. The sub-committee is as follows:

For South Fork—Osborne Brown, W. C. Barrett and T. J. Ramsey.

For Caldwell—L. W. Thomas, Victor Epach and J. W. Swanson.

For Catawba River—R. B. Moore, H. S. Izard and C. S. Berry.

All the associations were well represented here yesterday. These associations have a membership of at least 15,000, and are financially able to maintain a school second to no local high school in the state, and any community will be fortunate in securing it.

Several localities have indicated a bid for it, ranging from Gastonia to North Catawba and Lenoir. From what we could gather, some definite action relative to it, will be taken in the next few months. The Record wishes them much success in this very praise-worthy undertaking.

TEXAS QUARANTINES AGAINST DISEASE

(By Associated Press.)
Fort Worth, Nov. 29.—Texas was closed today to all live stock imports from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois. The embargo went into effect this morning upon order of the livestock association and will remain in force until the foot and mouth disease is eradicated.

BERLIN ASKS FOR SOME INFORMATION

(By Associated Press.)
Berlin, via London, Nov. 29.—The German foreign office has asked the American embassy for further details as to the place and sinking of the British steamer Marina.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON SOMME FRONT

(By Associated Press.)
Paris, Nov. 29.—Increased activity on the Somme front south of the river is reported by the war office. During the night there were spirited artillery engagements.

MRS. BOURBONNAIS'S BROTHER DIES IN OSCODO, MICHIGAN

Mrs. A. Bourbonnais Tuesday received a telegram from Oscodo, Mich., apprising her of the death of her brother, Mr. James Barlow, whose death followed a long illness. Mrs. Bourbonnais returned last week from Oscodo, where she had assisted in nursing her brother.

RUMANIA'S SITUATION SEEMS MORE CRITICAL

Germans Sweeping Ahead in Enveloping Movement—Russians Make Gains in Carpathians and Serbians, French and Italians Progress in Balkans.

HOLLAND AFRAID OF A GERMAN PRINCE

(By Associated Press.)
The Hague, Netherlands, Nov. 29.—Only two lives, those of the reigning queen and of her seven-year-old daughter, Princess Juliana, bar the way in the natural order of things to the accession of the throne of the Netherlands of a German prince. It is true that, so far as health and age are concerned, those lives may be described as "first class," but the potential slenderness of the thread was illustrated not long ago in the Hague woods, where the royal automobile carrying Queen Wilhelmina and the little Princess was the victim of a collision that might under less fortunate circumstances have cost the lives of both.

This question of the succession gave Dutchmen some concern before the war, and much more now. Several well-known public men have drawn public attention to the matter in the last few days, and what looks like a strong agitation, enjoying widespread sympathy, has been started for a revision of the Constitution declaring null and void all potential rights of succession of foreign princes, leaving the choice of a new sovereign, in such an unhelped-for and unexpected circumstance as the failure of all direct heirs to the throne, entirely to the States General or Parliament of the country. For every Dutchman, practically without exception, whatever be his sympathies in the present war, would regard the accession of a German prince as a calamity, threatening the so dearly-cherished independence of the nation.

In the House of Orange, Holland is blessed with a dynasty bound to the throne by a long and glorious tradition. It is not surprising that the council chambers of the States General are accessible to other than purely Dutch interests. But if that were left without living issue, the claims to the throne would be found among the collateral princely houses of Europe. We may follow or be accompanied by those of Saxe-Meiningen, Hohenzollern, another branch of Reuss-Kostritz, Schleswig-Holstein, Norway, Scheum-burg-Lippe, Sweden and Wied—one and all equally foreign to the Netherlands.

Professor J. A. Van Hamel, a distinguished authority on law declares in the Amsterdamer: "This game of interests with German royal relations on foreign thrones must teach us that small powers should beware if they do not desire to see, in their highest government circles, foreign aims that might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place of their national interests. Is the fact sufficiently reckoned, with that, according to the present constitutional regulation of the succession to the throne, the successive princes called to the throne after Princess Juliana are of German families, mostly officers in the German army, naturally all attached heart and soul and bound to the German policy. Monarchical coupling of this country to another, by a prince who could hardly be anything but an imperialist, might be pernicious to them in place