WITH A SPIRIT

In the still, star-lit night
By the full fountain and the willow
tree,
I walked, and not alone—
A spirit walked with me.

A shade fell on the grass;
Upon the water fell a deeper shade:
Something the willow stirred,
For to and from it swayed.

The grass was in a quiver,
The water tumbled, and the willow
tree,
Sighed softly; I sighed loud—
The spirit taunted me.

All the night long I walked
By the full fountain, dropping icy tears;
I tore the willow leaves,
I tore the long green spears!

I clutched the quaking grass,
And beat the rough bark of the willow tree
I shook the wreathed boughs
To make the spirit flee.

It haunted me till dawn
By the full fountain and the willow
tree,
For with myself I walked—
How could the spirit flee?

RECALLS OLD DAYS IN DURHAM COUNTY

Rev. R. A. Yorke was in Durham several days ago, and the Herald obtained from him the following interesting story:
Thirty-eight years have elapsed since Rev. B. A. Yorke of Hickory, a Methodist evangelist who is spending a few days with friends in this city, had charge of a one-room 20x30 log cabin school ten miles south of Durham in Patterson township, near the present site of Patrick Henry school, but those old days when he sought to impart instruction to seventy-five country boys and girls made such a forcible imprint on the former pedagogue's memory that he is still able to recall vividly many interesting experiences in that connection, and he appears to cherish such reminiscences very fondly.

Two of Mr. Yorke's pupils in the good year 1879, at the old log school house were Lucius S. Massey, Rev. L. S. Massey is now editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate, while his brother, Professor C. W. Massey, is Durham county superintendent of public instruction. In the little log school these two men acquired much of the knowledge which later aided them in shaping their careers. The famous "blue back speller" was then a standard textbook and Mr. Yorke still has a great deal of faith in the efficacy of the book, although now it has been relegated to the shelf in most institutions.

Mr. Yorke is a son of the late Dr. Kantley York, founder of Union institute, out of which Trinity college grew. Dr. Yorke was the author of Yorke's Series of English Grammars and other textbooks. Union institute was founded by Dr. Yorke in 1838 and was the principal school until 1842, when he was succeeded by the late Dr. Braxton Craven who served as principal until 1842, when the name was changed to Normal college. In 1851, under the supervision of Dr. Craven the institution was officially designated Trinity college. At that time it was located at old Trinity, in the western part of the state, and nearly half a century later Durham became the home of the institution.

The primitive school building where Mr. Yorke taught in the late seventies was then in Orange county, Durham county not having been formed at that time. Before the young schoolmaster could obtain his monthly stipend of $30, he was forced to drive to Hillsboro, a distance of twenty miles, the route leading to Chapel Hill. Some of his pupils walked three and one-half miles to and from school and the sessions lasted practically all day.

The school term began in late July and continued about four months, the limitations of the public school fund rendering longer terms impossible. There were no grades then and Mr. Yorke states that there were about as many different books as there were pupils. Such a system of necessity entailed a great deal of labor. Among the textbooks which Mr. Yorke vividly remembers as being used then were Robinson's Higher Arithmetic and Robinson's English Grammar. The most advanced pupils performed work about equal to that of the present seventh grades, according to the evangelist.

The Patrick Henry school building located near the site of the old log school taught by Mr. Yorke, is one of the finest rural schools in Durham county and the latter asserts that the educational development which has been witnessed in this county in the past four decades is truly marvelous. "I think," he said, "that you have one of the finest public schools in Durham county to be found in the entire state, in fact I am sure that there is not a school system in North Carolina superior to yours." Mr. Yorke also spoke admiringly of the Durham county court house which he characterized as "the best in the state."

CATAWBA SOLDIER IS A CHAMPION HUNTER

Down on the border the regulars in the United States army are having great sport these days in rabbit hunting. It is great fun and they add lots of meat to their company mess. Among the North Carolinians in the twelfth infantry is Corporal Garland Winebarger of Conover, who holds the record of being the "champion rabbit hunter of Company I, 20th infantry." Corporal Winebarger has been in the service several years, having re-enlisted at Fort Bliss Texas, March 17, 1915.

THIS STOPS HAIR FROM FALLING OUT

Ever count the dead hairs in your comb and brush? They are nature's warning of future baldness and proof that the dangerous dandruff germ is busy on your scalp.

Dr. Sangerband, the famous Paris specialist, first discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe. Then came the discovery of the value of the real Parisian Sage (liquid form) in destroying the dandruff germ and promptly preventing the farther loss of hair. The effect of only three days' use of Parisian Sage is simply marvelous, and the American people have now awakened to the fact that they can be quickly rid of dandruff and save their hair by using Parisian Sage.

Hotel Proprietor Given Up By Doctors.

"In a conversation with a representative of your company today, I could not help expressing my feeling of gratitude at the good your medicine had done for me. For three long years I suffered untold agony with what they said was a severe case of Rheumatism. After the best doctors had exhausted their knowledge in regard to my case, I consulted an osteopath and after an examination he said the hip joint had become irritated and it would take a long time to cure it, if it could be cured at all. I felt so discouraged over my condition, for I had spent hundreds of dollars in the vain pursuit of ease for my suffering was terrible. Hearing of the good effects that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy had on others, I decided to try it. I bought a dozen bottles, thinking that I took it at all, I would go at it right. And wonderful, yes it is wonderful, the cure it made of me, as my friends can testify. I began to improve on the first bottle and by the time I had finished the course I was a well, strong man and have had no symptoms of the disease since.

I would feel that I had neglected my duty to my fellowmen if I did not tell them of my wonderful cure and I advise any sufferer to give Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy a trial.
