ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS
SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1917

POSSIBILITY OF AIRSHIPS

Thirty-five thousand airships heavier than the types employed by the allies, and therefore not as speedy, probably will be turned out by the United States for service on the western front.

The airships will be used not only in assisting the allies to retain control of the air on the battlefronts, but will be used in the hunt for submarines as well as to be effective destroyers.

If it were possible to construct a sufficient number of planes, an army, with the exception of artillery, could be transported by air to the rear of the German lines; it would be possible to place any number of men in the rear, from 60,000 to 150,000, could they occupy a strategic position, and could they dig in, they could threaten the lines of communication or execute a flanking movement against the enemy.

They would have to be watered and fed by airplanes, but assuming the allies had control of the air, this would be easy until the heavy artillery was brought to bear on the army and airships.

Only a surprise movement could be executed successfully and a large army equipped only with rifles and machine guns might be valuable in the rear of the Germans until it encountered artillery of a field type.

Nobody has advanced this idea and it undoubtedly is impracticable except as a surprise maneuver, but the Germans before the war thought the Zeppelins would furnish the conveyance for an army to attack England.

HO FOR THE PICNIC

The picnic proposition advanced by the merchants at the meeting of the other night is one that should not be allowed to drop.

Aside from the social feature, which is certainly worth while, the picnic will give the retailers an opportunity to see what jolly good fellows all are when they are not considering business.

The sentiment Thursday night was to have a grand time. A committee has been appointed to make arrangements and it is up to this committee to see that every detail is provided for in advance.

The arrival of the Rumanian mission in the United States should serve to acquaint the American public with the reasons for that little nation's entering the war.

A strong voice raised in any land is bound to be heard and the voice of El Universal, published in Mexico City, pleading the cause of the United States and the allies and urging Mexico to sever diplomatic relations is sounding around the world.

The senate finances committee may not work out a war revenue bill entirely unobjectionable, but we may thank heaven that its members were not content to frame up any sort of measure and "gulp it down with their eyes shut."

The tendency to pat one's self on the back sometimes needs to be suppressed. It is not good always to be thinking of what one has done or the community has achieved—it is the first cousin of vainglory.

Our European allies are depending on the United States to protect them from grafters and gamblers and the food control bill is the measure desired by the administration in order to protect the American people, the American army and navy and the military civilian populations of our allies.

It is good to know that the government is to act in the coal production and distribution matter. The coal deposits really belong to all the people; they were not placed in the earth for the benefit of a few and government should strain every resource in order to place the coal within reach of all.

LUKE HAHN GOING TO FRANCE
We received a letter this morning from our young friend and former towns boy, Mr. Luke P. Hahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Hahn.

Since November 1915 he has been with the University of California, holding the position of supervisor of advance register. In June, he received an appointment as state dairy inspector of California, which he could not accept.

RED BLOOD AND COURAGE!
By Dr. W. C. Lucas
What drives the men right up to the trenches in this war is courage, and it's red blood that "puts the heart" in the men.

It's time to take an alternative extract and blood-purifier taken from nature's forests. Such a one is made up of Golden Seal, Blood and Stone root, Oregon Grape and Queen's root—retracted with glycerine and made into sugar-coated tablets or liquid, and this has been sold by druggists for the past fifty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

THE HEALTH HABIT
By Dr. L. C. Bowers
The late Elbert Hubbard once said: "Most people go through life on a short allowance of good air and oxygen and too much food. Life is combustion. The digestive tract is the boiler. The value of exercise in the open air lies in the fact of getting a goodly draft of oxygen through your system and this forced draft is both eliminating refuse and building up slag."
