THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

An Ambition and a Record

THE needs of the South are identical with the needs of the Southern Railway; the growth and success of one means the upbuilding of the other.

The Southern Railway asks no favors—no special privileges not accorded to others. The ambition of the Southern Railway Company is to see that every dollar of interest that is born of cooperation between the public and the railroads, to see that the public and the railroads are treated alike in the management of railroads which involves the confidence of governmental agencies, to realize the liberality of treatment which will enable it to obtain the additional capital needed for the acquisition of better and enlarged facilities incident to the demand for increased and better service, and finally—

To take its niche in the body politic of the South alongside of other great industries, with no more, but with equal liberties, equal rights and equal opportunities.

Germany's "Last Card" is Germany's Last Hope

Newspapers from Berlin make it clear that all agencies of the German government are engaged in an effort to hypnotize the German people into the belief that the U-boat is winning the war. The U-boat cannot win the war, but it is Germany's only effective weapon for prolonging the war. The kaiser accurately pictured the war situation when, in a recent speech near Arras, he spoke of the submarine as Germany's "last card." It is Germany's last hope.

The kaiser has no other weapon to turn against the United States. His surface fleets have been driven into hiding by the British navy. His armies are impotent for anything else than self-slaughter. Only the submarine remains. The highest duty of the United States to herself and to her allies is to solve the problem of the submarine. It can be solved.

The air furnishes the one battle ground on which the United States—by the expenditure of money and in a short time—can place itself on a footing of equality with the nations of Europe. It is in the power of the United States to become the factor which will deprive the armies of the kaiser of their "eyes" by driving Germany out of the air. It is in the power of the United States to provide the seaplane service which will draw the fangs of the submarine. When every ship is protected by a quadrilla of hydroaeroplanes the submarine will cease to be a menace for it then will be on the defensive.

Leaders of the country's business life who are giving their brains and their time to the national cause have perfect confidence in the ability of America to develop an air service capable of meeting the nation's great opportunity. A beginning toward the development of such a service has been made by the government at Washington. The American people must do their part by increasing upon congress the wisdom of going to any length with appropriations needed to bring into being the vast air force which will assure early victory over Germany.

MARKET VS TAX VALUES

University News Letter.

The Appalachian forest reserve has been still further enlarged by 1,748 acres in McDowell county, and the government check in payment was for $19,211.72.

The average paid was $11 an acre. In 1915, the average tax value of land in McDowell was $6.24 an acre. In 1910 farmland in McDowell was listed for taxation at 39 per cent or a little less than two-fifths of the census value; and the average for McDowell was exactly the average for the state at large.

Fifty counties returned land at higher ratios of the census value, and 19 counties at smaller ratios; five of them for a fifth of the census value or less, and one county for less than an eighth of the census value.

On the other hand, Dare, New Hanover, Graham, Durham and Swain listed their lands for taxes for more than the full census value, in ratios ranging from 109 to 153 per cent.
