

Do You Have Headache?

If you do, very likely it comes from your eyes and can be relieved with properly fitted glasses. Eye strains, headache and nervous troubles, the result of optical defects can be relieved.

My examinations are made by the most modern methods and greatest care exercised in the selection of the proper formula for the lenses in every instance.

Bulletin No. 841 on drying fruits and vegetables is proving of much benefit to Hickory ladies who have sent to the state department of agriculture, Raleigh, for copies. Mrs. Karl B. Patterson, who is drying vegetables under the direction of the bulletin, says the work is not only simple but easy, comparatively speaking.

Roosevelt-Gompers

Statesville Landmark.
"At this juncture the colonel brought down on Mr. Gompers' shoulders his open left hand, which he had raised above his head," is a sentence from the account of the debate between Mr. Gompers and Col. Roosevelt, in a meeting in New York, in which the colonel fiercely denounced the East St. Louis riots. The New York Times' report says the colonel shook his fist in Mr. Gompers' face. Several spectators jumped to their feet, evidently fearing a personal encounter.

Mr. Gompers was trying to say that organized labor wasn't responsible for the riots. He blames the employers of labor. Doubtless both were to blame and there were other contributing causes. The employers were glad enough to get the negro labor. They got it for lower wages and it was used to prevent the organized white labor demanding higher wages. What the employers had to do with inducing negroes to flock to East St. Louis in such large numbers we don't know, but there can be little doubt that some of them had a hand in it. Organized white labor naturally resented this invasion.

It would have been resented had the invaders been white, and the race prejudice added fuel to the flame. Many southern negroes presume on social privileges when they go north. The people of the north are generally speaking to blame for that. With this in mind, a southerner can easily understand how the East St. Louis riots started, and once begun, all negroes—the innocent who conducted themselves properly and those who may have helped to provoke the trouble—suffered alike.

Mr. Gompers is wasting breath if he expects the country to believe that organized labor is entirely innocent. It may not be, probably was not, responsible for the conditions that brought on the trouble, but it has a part in the awful consequences. The exodus of negroes to the north and west the past few years has seriously affected industrial conditions in the south. For this exodus the south has its share of blame.

The negro is fairly well treated in the south on the whole, but it would be foolish to contend that he is always fairly or justly treated. Naturally he wants to better his condition and the idea of big wages and social and educational privileges along with white folks, has lured him to the north and west by the thousands.

This exodus has not been without its benefits. It has taught several things that could only be learned by experience: (1) The northern and western people have learned that dealing with the negro at first hand is more difficult than dealing with him in theory; and from the many and loud complaints made by newspapers and people who have heretofore devoted much of their spare time to telling southerners how to treat the negro, they have found him, on the whole, an undesirable citizen. (2) The negro has learned that the country outside the south isn't a place where he can live high and do as he pleases; that while he may have privileges he can't have in the south—association with white people in churches and schools, etc.—the northern white man is a hard taskmaster, who doesn't understand him, his weakness or his virtues; and that a northern mob is worse than a southern mob, in that, when once aroused, all negroes look alike to it; the sensible, thinking negro who went north and has met such experience as that at East St. Louis and in less degree disagreeable experience elsewhere is likely to conclude that whatever its shortcomings the south is the best place for him and the southern white man is his best friend for so long as he conducts himself properly the southern white man is his friend, protector and defender. (3) And the southern whites should be impressed with the fact—a fact we hope the great majority of them appreciate—that there should be a liberal policy toward the negro industrially and educationally; that he is the best laborer they can get—far superior to the lawless foreigners with which some sections of the country are cursed, that with all his shortcomings he serves the south as no other class of laborers will, and that he cannot be expected to endure unfair or unjust treatment and remain contented; that from the standpoint of policy it is wise to be just to these people; and from the higher standpoint of right it is demanded because we cannot be unjust to the weak and helpless and not suffer the consequences.

WON'T SELL BEER TO STRANGERS AT PLACES

By the Associated Press.
Liverpool, July 14.—Owing to the shortage of beer certain saloonkeepers in the Liverpool district are refusing to serve strangers, declaring that they are reserving supplies for their regular customers. The courts will be asked to decide whether this is permissible under the terms of their licenses, which require them to provide reasonable refreshments on request.

DIZZY SPELLS

Relieved After Taking Two Bottles Of Cardui, Says Tennessee Lady.

Whitwell, Tenn.—Mrs. G. P. Cartwright, of this place, writes: "About four years ago the dizzy spells got so bad that when I would start to walk I would just pretty near fall. I wasn't past doing my work, but was very much run-down."

I told my husband I thought Cardui would help me, as a lady who lived next door to me had taken a great deal, and told me to try it. This was when we were living in Kentucky.

My husband got me a bottle and I took it according to directions. It helped me so much that he went back and got me another bottle. I got a whole lot better and just quit taking it. I got over the dizzy spells... I took no other medicine at that time nor since for this trouble. No, I've never regretted taking Cardui. I felt just fine when I finished the second bottle."

Purely vegetable, mild and gentle in its action, Cardui, the woman's tonic, may be the very medicine you need. If you suffer from symptoms of female troubles, give Cardui a trial. All druggists. NC-123

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

An Ambition and a Record

THE needs of the South are identical with the needs of the Southern Railway; the growth and success of one means the upbuilding of the other.

The Southern Railway asks no favors—no special privileges not accorded to others.

The ambition of the Southern Railway Company is to see that unity of interest that is born of co-operation between the public and the railroads; to see that fair and frank policy in the management of railroads which invites the confidence of governmental agencies; to realize that liberality of treatment which will enable it to obtain the additional capital needed for the acquisition of better and better facilities incident to the demand for increased and better service; and, finally—

To take its niche in the body politic of the South alongside of other great industries, with no more, but with equal liberties, equal rights and equal opportunities.

"The Southern Serves the South."
