NUX for NERVES IRON for BLOOD PAW-PAW For the Stomach

3 Powerful Forces in 1 Read What Mr. McIlveen Says

Mr. William McIlveen, a well-known salesman, residing at West Bate street, Norfolk, Va., in an interview with the "Iron Man," said: "I have been troubled with indigestion for the past year, I was nervous and dizzy and in constant misery. I had taken many different medicines, but never got any real benefit until I was advised to try your Ironized Paw-Paw. I can only say I am delighted I did so, because since using your wonderful New Remedy every symptom of indigestion and nervousness has disappeared. It gave me almost instant relief, and I consider it a God-send to me. I only hope that my experience will convince other sufferers to try your great remedy. They can take it from me, there will be no disappointment. I thank you, Mr. Iron Man, for all your kind advice."

Now is the time—the advent of spring—to begin taking a tonic—tone up your system and prevent your vital organs from becoming disordered or badly affected.

Your druggist probably keeps it, but if he doesn't, it is sold by the Hickory Drug Store.

Ironized Paw-Paw, price, $1.00. Formula on every bottle. Mail orders attended to. Interstate Drug Co., Inc., New York.

MADE "BOOKIES" LOOK SILLY

Visitor From Dublin Turned Neat Trick on London Sharks Who Had Boasted Too Loudly.

A Dublin man, being on a vacation in London recently, patronized a hotel resorted to by two English bookies and, being continually and unmercifully twitted by them, decided on revenge. In the smokeroom one evening the trio were discussing the dexterity of pickpockets, when our friend, who had adroitly introduced the subject, declared that there was nothing wonderful about their work at all. Any ordinarily smart man could do what they do.

"I could easily lift any man, if I so wished," he declared, "no matter who or how alert he might be."

"Bet you fifty to a tanner you don't lift that toff over there, Mr. Mick or Pat, or whatever your name is," snapped one of the bookies, at the same time indicating the only other occupant of the room—a gentleman standing at a distant window.

"Done," said our friend, and the money was taken. He approached the gentleman and spoke to him, at the same time relieving him of his watch and chain, the pin and pocket-book. The gentleman didn't apparently notice anything wrong, but the bookies could distinctly see the operation. Our friend won his bet and the bookie lost his temper next day on discovering that whom he had lifted were bosom companions who had arranged the little matter between them.—London Mail.

DIDN'T QUITE GET THE IDEA

Library Patron Evidently Was Not Strictly Up to Date in Knowledge of Modern Literature.

A student assistant, engaged in reading the shelves at the public library, was accosted by a primly dressed, middle-aged woman, who said that she had finished reading the last of Laura Jean Libbey's writings, and that she should like something just as good.

The young assistant, unable for the moment to think of Laura Jean Libbey's equal, hastily scanned the shelf on which she was working, and, choosing a book, offered it to the applicant, saying, "Perhaps you would like this 'A Kentucky Cardinal.'"

"No," was the reply; "I don't care for theological works."

"But," replied the kindly assistant, with needless enthusiasm, "this cardinal was a bird."

"That would not recommend him to me," said the woman, as she moved away in search of a librarian who should be a better judge of character as well as of Laura Jean Libbey's peers.—Harper's Magazine.
