WEDNESDAY, SEPT 26, 917 REPLY OF EVASIONS

The German war lords must be pat ting themselves on the backs at their adroit replies to the pope's peace note, which they were so anxious to receive. The German people are told by these war loards that the masters are anxious for peace and in proof, the masters have told the pope so in many oily words. As a matter of fact, however, the answers I'm a Different Man Since of both kaisers have been in general terms, with never a suggestion of what their war aims are. The Springfield Republican summarizes the replies as follows:

"The gist of the whole matter is If the explicit word of Germany cannot be trusted still less can merits of Ironized Paw-Paw call on we trust its evasions. When it wants me," says Mr. J T. Mr. Charles M. Deal writes from Camp Jackson that he likes camp life better every day. The dust, sun and sand are the principal objections he says, but the sun will not be an objection in a few months. All the Catawba boys are getting on to army life and the first men who went down have done some good drilling. The Record is sending papers to Catawba boys in the various camps.

It was an error about attorneys for Gaston B. Beans applying for a writ of habeas corpus, but it was so obviously the next move of the defense that the bright young men handling the case at Concord can be pardoned for the mistake. If Means is committed to jail without bond, his lawyers will apply for the writ.

Persons who have visited the army camps say the soldiers are impatient to leave for France. Like the soldiers who have crossed the Atlantic, they want a crack at the kaiser. It is this spirit that bodes ill for the minions of the war lords.

Those who have not been to the fair yet should go out tomorrow. The attractions are worth while.

We cannot agree with Gaston Means' lawyers that anybody is trying to prosecute him. The state wants him held for murder and it does not care to show more of its hand than s absolutely necessary.
