HIS WORK WILL LIVE

How deeply Hickory people will miss Dr. Murphy they themselves will not realize for months and years, as poignant as their grief is today. He had become an institution in this section, this agent of God, and all of us felt that we could call on him for any service.

To be identified with every forward movement, to take a positive stand for the right and yet retain the friendship or respect of everybody—surely that shows character. Of that Dr. Murphy possessed in abundance.

That Dr. Murphy was an informal bishop in his church, there is no doubt. In the classes and synods he towered among the leaders and in any church where an individual minister is picked out for leadership, he would have been head. He was an honor to his profession.

Yet we in Hickory did not appreciate his lofty character and his sterling qualities as we should. All of us loved him, but he had been with us so long, had been able to place himself on a level with the bluntest of us, and we were wont to think of him not as the great soul that he was, but as merely better and finer than us. He was so affable and lovable that we could not appreciate his many fine qualities during his life.

Now that we will see him no more on this earth, we will miss him more each passing day. And in missing him, we should think of what his life stood for in this community, and whenever we are tempted not to do the right thing, we should ask ourselves what Dr. Murphy would have done. All of us cannot be like him—indeed, there are none to fill his place in this community—but we can approach him, and make his life a blessing 50 years after he has passed away. That would please him.

WHY YOU SHOULD BUY

If one of your neighbors were to ask you for a loan, you would not hesitate to accommodate him if possible. If a member of your family should ask for help, you would strain to meet the request.

The United States government is our good friend. Through it we receive our blessings—which are protection from a foreign enemy, and a chance to pursue our ways under ordinary conditions as we desire. The United States is good to us, protects us, gives us a chance. It is our government.

Well, the United States wants to borrow money on good collateral. It will give you four per cent on the investment and the bonds it will sell you are as good as gold—in fact better than gold unless this gold was backed by a good government.

You want to help. You want to win the war quickly, so that the boys who have gone away and the other boys who are to go away, may return promptly. So that business may proceed as usual, so that you will not always be thinking of the war.

Then buy some Liberty Bonds. The banks of Hickory or any town or city in the country will be glad to assist you in buying, and they will not charge you a cent. They will do it freely, and charge it up to patriotism.

JUDGE CLINE

Hickory will be glad to have Judge Edward B. Cline return home when his term as superior court judge expires on December 31, 1919, and this community will give him a hearty welcome. He has been away so much that we have almost got out of touch with him and he with us, but a few weeks of the old associations, and it will be like old times. Of course Hickory people regret that he is to retire from the bench, because they are appreciative of the honor conferred on him and their town.

Judge Cline has made a record on the superior court bench of which he and the state may feel proud. His service has been characterized by fidelity, and it is known that he is careful even as to details. He has given the state the best he has.

Hickory is proud of Judge Cline, and it will welcome him home gladly. He and his friends can feel that the honor conferred on him was well placed, and the people of the state know that it was returned to them invested with as much honor as when bestowed.

THIRD ANNUAL DOLLAR DAY

Hickory will observe on Thursday its third annual Dollar Day. Each year the occasion becomes more notable, and it will be even more notable Thursday. Everybody is invited to be present, whether the mission is to buy or to visit.

Without regard to cost the local merchants will put on values Dollar Day that will appeal to every class of buyer. In many cases the goods and articles offered could not be purchased wholesale at the price they are sold retail, and here is where the purchaser wins.

Our merchants, however, are not expecting to make money out of this big trade day. They want to show an ever growing list of customers that they appreciate their trade and to make new customers come back. It is a good advertisement.

The Record extends on behalf of the Merchants Association and the community an invitation to visit Hickory Thursday. Be sure to come then to trade, and come when you merely want to pass the time of day. This is a good town and we want you to like it.

WAR SERVICE AMERICANIZES

Hartford Times.

President Luther said wittily that the roster of our new army "resembled the payroll of the tower of Babel." There are certainly a good many Polish and Serbian and Russian names on it, but they will be borne by loyal Americans before the war is over. There is nothing like service in the army to consolidate a man's patriotism. The high spots on the names will be rubbed off in daily life of the camp. Private Deponatowski will be christened Dupont, Czsesanowitch will find himself known as Charles Sandow, and Corporal Philandropolis will be dubbed Philip Andrew.

In dropping their old names and becoming units in the army of freedom they will take on the character of American soldiers. Let them keep their family names if they like the sense of having served in a United States regiment will never leave them.

The MEHLIN Piano --CONTAINS-- Seventeen Exclusive Features The United States Patent office has granted seventeen different patents to the makers of the Mehlín Piano. Which means that the Mehlín—while possessing all the advantages of other pianos offers the pianist seventeen added features—deemed worthy of recognition, as improvements in piano constructed by the United States government. The making of a Mehlín Piano is an exact science—a science that has taken a century and a half for its present development. But with it is blended the art of the Mehlín family of piano makers, which combination has achieved "the piano with a perfect scale"—scientifically and musically perfect. We solicit an inspection of these beautiful instruments. C. M. HARDIN HICKORY, N. C.
