

Buy Your Bond Today

The campaign for Liberty Bonds closes the 27th of October and all subscriptions should be turned in before that time.

All your lives you have heard the expression "As safe as a Government bond," and now is the time to get them bearing a higher rate of interest than ever before and upon easier terms.

This Bank makes no profit directly or indirectly in the sale or purchase of these bonds, but we have given a great amount of time and labor to the work of distribution, at a large actual loss to ourselves, because we feel as every American must feel, that the interest of the Government comes first.

You Must Pay or Fight--Take Your Choice

Get in behind this bond issue and do your part. If you have not the ready money on hand, the bank will loan it to you so you will not be cramped. These bonds are not to be considered as expense, but as an investment of the soundest nature. If there is something about them that you don't understand, call in and talk it over with us.

Answer This Question:

"How Can I Help?"

An old-time writer, Dryden, once said, "Behold the fury of a great peaceful people."

That old lesson must be retaught. Uncle Sam is about to strike. The world will soon feel the militant might of a great peaceful people. The kindly sympathetic uncle of the world will soon unloose his power in defense of human rights. We, the people of the country, are behind him. His force will be our force. His ability to help mankind will be measured by our promptness in helping him.

How Can You Help? You Have A Chance Today!

Uncle Sam—the same Uncle Sam who for decades past has guarded over the happiness and prosperity which have stood as models to the world, now asks you to loan him money.

He cannot knock at the door of each of us. But his request for a loan as personal, just as individual as it would be if he rang your door bell tomorrow morning and personally said, "Please lend me money."

The money that Uncle Sam borrows will go for food for your army (and it must be fed); it will go for uniform, ammunition and equipment; it will go for ships and construction; it will go toward putting a support behind our flag which will be worthy of the stars and stripes upon it.

Every dollar of the money will go for something which, in Uncle Sam's judgment is necessary for your protection, or for human welfare.

We are asked to loan money in amounts of $50, $100, $1000 and up. In return for each loan Uncle Sam will give us an I. O. U.—an engraved slip of paper called a Government Bond—on which he promises to pay back the loan, and to pay us in the meantime interest of 4 percent per year.

So high does the credit of Uncle Sam stand, that should you at any time be pressed for funds, any bank will loan close to the full amount which you loaned Uncle Sam. You merely deposit Uncle Sam's I. O. U.'s—your Government Bonds—as security.

If you feel that your Uncle Sam is worth a loan of $50 or more, you can quickly arrange by going to any bank.

We will explain the payment of interest, or anything else in connection with the loan which you want to have explained.

TAR HEELS MAY SOON LEAVE CAMP

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 20.—The six training battalions of the 55th depot brigade, formerly the first, second and third battalions of the first Tennessee infantry, the second and third battalions of the first North Carolina infantry, and the third battalion of the second South Carolina infantry, are to be incorporated with the regular regiments from their respective states, and all their commissioned officers of the rank of captain and above are to leave for France as soon as transportation can be provided, according to unofficial information here. "The first inkling of the war department's intention to move the training battalions came in an order issued this morning to cease improvements on their camp site. The soldiers had just finished providing their tents with floors and sides.

According to information available, Brig. Gen. L. D. Tyson, commanding the brigade, together with one of his two colonels, both lieutenant colonels, and practically every major and captain will leave at once for France, while their men will be transferred bodily into the 117th, 118th, 119th and 120th infantry regiments, formerly the third Tennessee, first South Carolina and second and third North Carolina, respectively, troops being assigned wherever possible to organizations from their own state. All non-commissioned officers will retain their grades. The training battalions will not take up their camps with the organizations to which they will be transferred until after the departure of their officers. Col. Charles B. Rogan, former adjutant general of Tennessee, commands the first provisional regiment, composed of troops from that state, and Col. Julius T. Gardner the second, from the two Carolinas. There is no information as to what use will be made of the camp site vacated by the brigade, but it is suggested that those of the South Carolina selectmen sent here who had already been formed into regiments may be encamped there. The lieutenants of the companies probably will be transferred with their men, as the full complement of officers is now one captain and five lieutenants per company.

There are about 3,000 men in the depot brigade, and even after these are transferred to the division proper, it will still be short some 1,000 men. Any surplus of men from any of the three states after filling the infantry regiments or regiments from that state will be assigned to separate organizations, such as the engineers or signal battalion.

WILL CELEBRATE 400TH ANNIVERSARY

The Women's Missionary societies Hickory will hold a union service Monday October 22nd in commemoration of the church's recovery in the reformation era of the precious doctrine which are the common heritage of Protestants. There are differences that divide Protestant denominations, but this quadri-centennial year emphasizes the blessed fact that after four centuries of history there are many things that still unite us, and will unite us to the end of time. The following are the great foundation stones which are the common possession of all Protestants everywhere:

The Open Bible, Justification by Faith, the Universal Priesthood of all Believers, The Right of Private Judgment, The People's Part in Public Worship, Schools, and Christian Hymns, The Protestant Pardon, Civil and Religious Liberty.

The women in Hickory who are members of Protestant churches are invited to attend this union meeting of the missionary societies at the Presbyterian church, Monday, October 22, at 3:30.
