Local and Personal

Have you purchased those Red Cross Christmas seals? Soon it will be too late to help a good cause.

Mrs. H. E. Chandler of Long Beach, Cal., after spending a few days with Miss Josie Perjon, left today for her home.

Mr. Claud S. Abernethy, son of Mr. J. F. Abernethy, is in training at Princeton, N. J., for the aviation service, United States army. He enlisted two weeks ago.

The Red Cross drive for new members and the renewal of old began in earnest today, the booths in the drug stores reporting good progress. The big drive will begin Monday.

Mr. W. Mike Buchanan of Rural Retreat, Va., is visiting his niece, Mrs. F. G. Morgan. Though he lives but 80 miles directly north of here, he reports that the temperature reached 10 degrees below zero Tuesday morning on the Virginia mountains.

Henry Peterson, colored, left his horse in a creek below Brookford a few days ago, according to information reaching the police today, and the animal froze to death. The horse was driven out by his children after chips and it fell into the creek. It was abandoned and allowed to die in the cold. The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals could do some work here.

SOMEBODY WILL PLEASE WRITE TO THIS SOLDIER

To the Editor of the Record: I have been some time wanting my home town paper, and I do not know the rates on it. If it is not putting you to too much trouble, please send me your price list and oblige. I will be very glad to correspond with some one that would like to hear from a soldier. Have been in the army two years and seven months, and like it better every day. If you will please find space in your paper for this and oblige.

HOOVER KNOWS

"And Wilson Knows That Hoover Knows What Hoover is About"

William Herbert Carruth, author of "Each in His Own Tongue" and professor in Leland Stanford University: The world is full of flounders who flop this way and you. Who get in other people's way, and ask what's to be done? So the thankful world is ready to toss its hat and shout For the man who always seems to know just what he is about

And in this fearful crash of war all we who cannot fight Yet want to for our honest bit, we're looking for the light. A Joseph rose, and Wilson chose the loyal heart and stout, For Wilson knows that Hoover knows what Hoover is about.

We don't pretend to understand the chemistry of food; We only know that victuals taste--some bad and others good. We read the Hoover bulletins as fast as they come out. Assured that Herbert Hoover knows what Hoover is about.

We cannot join the allied drive against the German ranks, And, since we cannot risk our lives in cruisers, planes and tanks, We'll diet on to victory and force a German rout, For we believe that Hoover knows what Hoover is about.

If wheatless days and meatless days and sweatless days as well Are followed up by eatless days we swear we won't rebel. If these are not too numerous for we will never doubt That Wilson knows that Hoover knows what Hoover is about.

This nation swears by Hoover and will join the hymn of praise For wheatless, meatless, heatless, sweatless, treatless, eatless days. Prepared, if need should be, to live the whole year through on kraut, For the nation knows that Hoover knows what Hoover is about.
