The New Year

The new year we predict will be happy and prosperous for those who will go after thesethings as if they really wanted them.

The coming year and the years to follow look good to those, who, with resolution and industry, work for their future rather than dpeend on luck.

The coming year we believe will be one in which the wise will exercise prudence in the management of their income and conservatism in their basiness undertakings.

Among good resolutions which any one may adopt with profit is the resolution to give greater attention to thrift by a 'budget" arrangement of personal or family income,
