Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carpenter and baby of Lenoir were visitors in the city today.

Mr. J. H. Fincher of Greenville, S. C., is visiting his aunt, Mrs. J. H. Elliott, on Ninth avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Warlick and Mrs. A. A. Cline of Granite Falls were among the out of town shoppers in the city today.

Mrs. John Lentz and son, John, Jr., left this morning for Roanoke Va. to visit her sister, Mrs. Eugene Long.

Mrs. Louis Stevenson returned yesterday afternoon from Mocksville where she spent some time with relatives.

Mrs. Bob Thomasson returned yesterday afternoon from Charlotte where she spent several days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Martin, who were guests yesterday and last night of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Walton, left this morning for Lenoir.

On account of illness in the home of Mrs. E. B. Menzies the Travelers' Club will meet with Mrs. W. B. Menzies tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Marion Seigler who is attending school at Winthrop college Rock Hill, S. C., is the guest for a few days of her sister, Miss Mary Seigler, at the teacherage.

Mr. and Mrs. Durant Abernethy of Washington arrived last evening to spend until tomorrow with his sister, Mrs. Geo. L. Lyerly. Mr. Abernethy is president of the short line railroads of the Southern Railway System.

The Buttercup Tea Room, where lunches and dinners will be served, will be formally opened soon, the date being held pending the arrival of the steps for the outside of the building. The tea room will be located over the Pastime theatre and will be under the management of Mrs. R. C. Love.

WITH MRS. SEAGLE

Circle No.4 of the Missionary Society of the First Methodist church met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. B. F. Seagle.

Mrs. C. R. Watson was in charge of the devotional after which the business for the meeting was transacted. Two new members and one visitor received cordial welcomes. After adjournment to meet next with Mrs. Watson the hostess served dainty refreshments.

MRS. ELLIOTT HOSTESS

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. J. H. Elliott was hostess to the Bonniwell Circle of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church at her home on Ninth avenue.

The circle will take up for study this year "The Wandering Jew in Brazil" in connection with the women of the Bible. Mrs. Elliott gave a splendid reading on the life of Mary of Nazareth.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. A. F. Wagner on Ninth avenue.

MRS. HULL HOSTESS

With Mrs. J. O. Hull as hostess and with four tables arranged for bridge the members of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club and a number of additional guests enjoyed a most delightful party yesterday afternoon.

High scores were made by Mrs. Weston Clinard and Mrs. Walker Lyerly and they were presented with the club and visitors' prizes. A tempting two course luncheon was served after the game.

Those playing were Miss Edith Pink and Mesdames Hazel Aiken, Weston Clinard C. A. Jordan E. A. Herman, Loy Bolick, Gordon B. Crowell, Richard Ballinger George N. Huton W. N. Martin, J. H. P. Cilley, Walker Lyerly, E. B. Cline, Ruth Blalock, Frank Henderson and Norwood Bass.

ADA JONES, FAMOUS SINGER TO APPEAR HERE

Ada Jones the famous phonograph artist and her company will appear in person at the City auditorium Wednesday evening, April 5, in an evening of fun and melody.

The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Rotary Club for the benefit of the boy's work. Miss Jones' company includes Beth Hamilton, violinist, Armstrong, the man of mystery and Mabel H. Loomis, soprano and pianist.

Millions have laughed at Ada Jones' clever character impersonations on the phonograph in the home and a splendid opportunity will be given to see and hear her in person.

HICKORY PLAYERS

GET A BIG HAND

Newton, March 22.—Never before in the history of Newton have the good citizens witnessed a theatrical performance by either amateur or professional talent, which came within the distance of a country mile to eclipsing "The Arrival of Kitty" as staged by local talent from Hickory in the auditorium of Catawba College, on Monday night last.

Notwithstanding that publicity ran at a low ebb, due to certain conflicting circumstances, the play was exceptionally well attended, and all present gave conclusive proof of their unanimous and exotic acclaim by hand-clap, smile, laugh, chortle, grin, giggle, chuckle and every other known method of inward and outward manifestation of merry approval over the transpiring scenes. Grouches were checked at the door for safe keeping.

Before the curtain rose, an impromptu orchestra rambled through several outbursts of popular composition, which acted, as it were, as a shock absorber for the main attraction.

In the role of William Winkler, the much-traveled and much-bought habitue of Broadway and the gay life, Mr. Gus Self stood high up the dramatic ladder. In his graceful, smooth and characteristic manner he delighted the audience time and again through his witty and appropriate repartee, not overlooking the apt manner in which he exorcised himself from a perilous predicament.

Mrs. T. F. Stevenson, as "Aunt Jane," unmarried and alone was old enough to dictate concerning the follies of youth, yet young enough to want the leading part of a veritable Venus in Youth's maddening and wildest extravaganza. Love.

Miss Mary Stuart Menzies as "Jane" Mr. Winkler's niece, exhibited all the charm and attractiveness which is hers in forming the first, and principal, 50 per cent of the loving couple around which the plot is woven.

Mr. Worland Eaton, as "Bobby Baxter," the other, and much-confused, 50 per cent of the aforementioned couple, played the dual role of captor and captive first male then female, with all the courage of a man and the grace of a "lady." His antics were the occasion for more than just a few outbursts of applause.

Mr. Connelly Gamble, as Benjamin More, proved conclusively that sideburns, canes, high hats, and monacles are first-hand requisites of oldachelors desiring matrimonial alliances through the media of exchanges operated for that particular purpose.

Ting, the bell-boy at the Halcyon House hotel was played by Mr. Richard Shuford with so much earnestness and effectiveness that all present are thoroughly convinced he meant it. His persuasiveness in obtaining and keeping a pleased clientele notwithstanding the constantly occurring unpleasant incidents should be a helpful hint to the brotherhood of hostelry-keepers throughout the country.

Mr. John H. P. Cilley, arrayed in all the gorgeous raiment of Sam, a colored porter, convulsed the assemblage with his wonderful dandy dialect and humor. He propelled a trunk-laden truck in and out amongst the mahogany and birch-brace of the hotel office with all the combined precision of a practiced geometriician, and a skilled baggage smasher. It is decidedly doubtful as to whether or not the owner of the trunk was ever located or ever will be for that matter, but there is one outstanding fact, to wit, Mr. Cilley, as a black-face comedian, was fine, this being something he wasn't nothin' else but.

The main thrill of the evening was occasioned by the arrival of Kitty, the actress, which was so ably enacted by Miss Annie Killian. Her entrance into the scene of activities was a signal for general acclaim to break loose, during which the conviction of certain M. Winkler as a lover of champagne suppers—to say nothing of his concern over-actresses—was established beyond the shadow of a doubt to the temporary chagrin of the Old Boy, and the happiness of Bobbie Baxter over his hard fought victory, which carried with it the hand of young Jane as the spoils of battle.

Miss Helen Springs, as Suzette, Aunt Jane's maid, was winsome, graceful and attractive in her dainty part. There is good reason why some people (ladies) object to keeping maids (such as Suzette).

A resume of the play would be incomplete without due mention of Jiggs, the little brown dog-spider, who obeyed the coaxing of Suzette with marked precision, snubbing

There will be a box supper at Lail school house on Saturday night, March 25. The public is invited.

The many friends of Col. M. E. Thornton will regret to learn that he is confined to his home on North Seventeenth street with illness.

CALL MEETING COMMUNITY CLUB

The Community Club is called to meet Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in the court room of the municipal building to consider an urgent proposition in regard to the amusements at the fair this fall and also to consider whether or not to sell some shares of building and loan stock.

MRS. W. B. RAMSAY, President.

Mrs. Glenn Long, accompanied by Mrs. Will Cochran, and Mrs. Vera Schien, accompanied by Miss Marion Wolfinger, rendered delightful vocal solos at the intermission between acts.

Through the courtesy of the Garvin Furniture Company the stage was attractively furnished. Other agencies, too numerous for mention, lent additional and valuable assistance.

The production was given under the auspices of the Woman's Club of Newton, and all agreed heartily that for the space of two hours, or three scenes, the Halcyon Hotel in the Catskills, together with the impersonated characters, was admirably and most pleasantly transposed to a Newton stage.

SCHOOL LUNCHEONS

(By Laura A. Koch, P. H. N. Red Cross Chapter).

Can it be that the people of this nation are actually suffering from lack of adequate food?

There are some disagreeable statistics in circulation concerning undernourishment. More than 100,000 of the men drafted for war service were rejected because of physical disabilities resulting from malnutrition; quite a good-sized army to be sent back home because they lacked strength to fight.

Also 15,000,000 school children in this country are below par physically, and 6,000,000 more are almost disabled from lack of adequate food. Now you are probably thinking, "How distressing to think that we have so much poverty in our midst." But poverty is not the only cause. These undernourished men and children come, and continue to come, from the homes of the rich as well as the poor, and from the country as well as from the city. In fact one survey showed that of all examined, the highest percentage of undernourished children came from a neighborhood of wealthy farmers.

A serious problem presents itself when we consider the great number of school children who depend on the lunch box for one-third of their food supply. Too often food left over from breakfast such as fried meat, biscuits or crackers are wrapped (perhaps in newspaper) and given to the children as they hurry to school.

School authorities have found that a good luncheon is a valuable aid to the child in his work. A simple lunch of good sandwiches (filled with ground meat, egg, cream cheese, peanut butter, figs, dates, raisins mixed with nuts, lettuce and chopped celery should be added). Fruit and milk is not difficult to prepare. Arrangements may be made to have milk furnished to all at the school building.

The value of hot lunches is so well recognized that the Red Cross is stressing the importance of having at least one hot dish for the child at noon, consisting of soup, cocoa or hot milk, which can be managed by teachers, older pupils or parents. Many parent-teacher associations arrange for preparing and serving of these hot dishes, (in addition to the lunches which the children bring from home) and find the results well worth while.

HICKORY'S DONATION

Mr. E. L. Shuford, chairman of the Jewish relief fund has received the following letter from Lionel Weil, State chairman: "I am just in receipt of your registered letter of March 15th, enclosing check for $471.70, subscribed by the citizens of Hickory to the Jewish Relief fund."

I want to take this opportunity of thanking you for this very generous contribution which will certainly contribute its share toward the relief of this stricken people. I appreciate the fine service you have rendered us in this cause."

With best wishes,
