STRIKE BACK AT CAN'T FIX POLICY FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

Chicago, June 17.—Majority members of the United States labor board who yesterday ordered another $27,000,000 slash from wages of the nation's railway workers, today replied to criticism of minority members of the board with the charge that the dissenting members presented "incendiary arguments in a strained and exaggerated effort to inflame employees to strike against the decision of the board."

By The Associated Press. Washington, June 17.—Determination of a fixed policy for the development of Muscle Shoals before congress adjourns was asked today by Senator Underwood, Democrat of Alabama. Senator Underwood said he believed there would be an opportunity for the senate to act on the Muscle Shoals matter in the period intervening between the passage of the tariff bill and the passage of the tariff bill. Inasmuch as the government had invested to Mr. Ford to make his proposal the country was entitled to know what disposition congress would make of it.

Yesterday's decision, which affects wages of 325,000 railway clerks, sign men and stationary firemen, brought the total reductions effective July 1 under the board's orders to $15,000,000. Approximately 1,100,000 railway employees are affected by several wage reductions.

Senator Norris declared he did not believe the senate would be able to fix a policy for Muscle Shoals at this session. Prizes for the best floats in the Fourth of July parade and committees of entertainment features have been announced as follows: Base ball games, Lenoir college park; W. N. Bass, chairman; Joe E. Gilley.

The supreme court cannot crush the labor movement without endangering the foundation of society, declared the report. "The workers will not accept slavery. Therefore they will not accept that which makes slavery either likely or possible. They will find a way to preserve those liberties which they have and to gain more as time passes."

COTTON

By The Associated Press. New York, June 17.—The presence of overnight buying orders in the hands of commission houses seemed to be accountable for an opening advance of two to 10 points in the cotton market today. OVER FOUR MILLION ON RUSSIAN PAYROLL

Moscow, May 15.—Over four million and a half people, exclusive of the red army and navy, draw their living direct from government sources in Russia, and this in spite of the recent dismissal of 3,000,000 such employees. Nor do these figures cover the Ukraine, with its 30,000,000 people; the Far Eastern Republic, with perhaps 10,000,000; and the governments of Trans-Caucasus, Bokhara and Turkistan. These statistics mean, says the newspaper "Economic Life" that one out of every 20 persons in Russia has a government job, not counting soldiers and sailors. The new budget will reduce the number of governmental employees still further to 3,300,000.

FOUNTAIN YOUTH HUNTED YEARS AGO

By The Associated Press. Chicago, June 17.—The restoration of youth to the aged, attempted recently by means of animal glands, was also attempted at least 3,000 years ago, according to Dr. James H. Breasted of the University of Chicago. An "Incantation of Trans-forming an old man a youth of Twenty" is set forth in the Edwin Smith papyrus, the Egyptian document which Dr. Breasted has declared contains unparalleled evidence of advanced knowledge and scientific spirit on the part of Egyptian physicians of 1800 B. C. or earlier. The incantation, on the contrary, he said is characterized by reliance on homeopathic. Dr. Breasted's theory is that an extraordinary book on surgery and external medicine fell into the hands of a quack who was more interested in charms for making old men young, and who had the incantation texts combined in the same roll. Thus in the papyrus magical formulas jostle an exposition of delicate surgical operations heretofore believed to be decidedly modern. The handwriting indicates that it was probably written about 1800 B. C., and it is thought to be a copy of a manuscript that is at least a thousand years older. The original may have been written as early as 3400 B. C., it is thought by some of the words which appear in the manuscript and which were long out of vogue in 1800 B. C. The manuscript also contains "The Incantation of Expelling the worm of the Years of Feet." This shows the widely prevalent notion which has persisted to the present day that the winds carry malignant plagues. The last two parts of the papyrus are written in a very different handwriting from the front page. The column in front of that of the head, than the lower head, the mouth, the neck, and the spine. Here the papyrus state but it is evident that the remainder treated the lower body. The first group of ten cases which are described treat of wounds of the head of which seven are knife and sword wounds. The surgeon is instructed how to probe the wound and in case of a severe knife wound told: "You should have made for him a wooden brace padded with linen (and have) the head fastened to it. His treatment should be sitting, placed between two supports of brick until you know whether he is making any progress." Case eight deals with a fracture of the skull under the skin. The surgeon is told to operate to open at the point of contusion, and "to elevate the depression outwardly." It is possible trephining is involved here, so, it is the earliest mention of it in history. For a cut in the forehead, physicians skin, a kind of linen bandage, is to be used or a double bandage applied so as to cause "the tips of the wound to join one another."
