MUDANIA MEETING MAKING PROGRESS

Agreement Practically Reached as Delegates Begin Consideration of Thrace Today--Greek Delegates Cause Worry in Conference--Turks Invade Neutral Zone Again.

By the Associated Press.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—The Mudania conference was reconvened at 10 o'clock this morning with Thrace the chief subject for consideration.

GREEKS DISSATISFIED

Smyrna, Oct. 5.—The agreement which has been reached at the Mudania conference between the allied and Turkish delegates, according to a Mudania message received here, has been communicated to the Greek delegates, who expressed themselves dissatisfied with the terms and said they could not act without referring the questions to their government.

The messages state the agreement provides that the allies and Turks are to evacuate the neutral regions of the Dardanelles; that the allies are to continue in Constantinople during the peace movement, and that they accept a new disposition of the neutral zone at Chanak.

TURKS BUSY AGAIN

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—British general headquarters reports the appearance of Turkish national cavalry at Kanza in the Constantinople neutral zone.

Kanza is approximately 65 miles east of Constantinople near the Black sea coast of the Ispahan peninsula. This is the first reported violation of the Constantinople neutral zone, although Turkish cavalry has repeatedly violated the Chanak neutral zones.

By the Associated Press.

London, Oct. 5.—The reports of the first few days' proceedings of the allied general conference with the Turkish nationalists at Mudania have produced an sanguine feeling here, some believing that an armistice clearing the way for a peace conference is ready to be signed.

It was even reported yesterday that a protocol establishing an armistice had been actually signed, but the confirmation of this was lacking. The latest information to the Associated Press contained in a dispatch filed in Constantinople shortly before midnight stated that notwithstanding the hopeful status, the question of Thrace was still barring the way to settlement.

While the allies have agreed to turn over Thrace to the Turkish army in 30 days, they have not acceded to the request of the Turks that the Moritza river be occupied by allied troops, as protection against a Greek flank attack on the Turks.

One hundred gallons of brandy was brought into Hickory this afternoon by Federal Prohibition Agent R. A. Kemp of Lenoir, assisted by Posseman W. E. Starnes. The liquor was captured at Harrison Stephens' place, ten miles south of Hickory, on the Burke county line. The brandy was in two barrels, one of which was buried in the ground, the booze will be poured out this afternoon.

FIRE DEPARTMENT RADIO GETS BASEBALL FIRST

Local baseball fans who flocked to the Record office yesterday afternoon for the world series details soon drifted over to the fire department, where the report was received by radio. The boys caught the results after the second inning and they came through in good shape. H. A. Latta, who installed the machine, said the firemen operated it in the afternoon without difficulty. The boys have a box in the department where their friends are glad to drop in a donation to help pay for it.

BIG REWARD OFFERED BY FORSYTH COUNTY

By the Associated Press.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 5.—Forsyth county has offered a reward of $500 for the capture of the party who last week shot and killed Howard Mabe, a farmer, while he was hunting squirrels near Walnut Cove. At the same time friends and relatives are raising a fund to make the reward $1,000.

Hickory, N. C., Oct. 3.—The erection of the municipal building here may be said to be the high water mark of Hickory's faith and progress. It is rare that a city of Hickory's population invests so much money in a municipal building. It shows that the people are confident of both their present and their future. It may be said to be the hall-mark of a development that has just reached the stage of enlargement based upon industrial prosperity, for Hickory boasts (no, that is not the correct word—it claims and does not boast) of eighty manufacturing plants, ranging from a new toy factory recently put in operation to the nearly two-year-old Howard-Hickory nursery, furnishing employment to thousands in and out of town, with the largest dairy and poultry products to the annual value of $600,000.

Its industries are varied. It does not depend alone, or chiefly, as in the early days when the late Gaither Hall was manufacturing the Piedmont wagon which had reputation far and near, or on the big production of its cotton mills established mainly by the late Abel A. Shuford, whose mantle has fallen on his son, A. A. Shuford, or other industries that give large employment. All its industries began on a small scale and have grown steadily. Most of them are operated by local people—one plant following another. Thanks to the diversification of industries, the general depression was not felt much here. If one line was hit, another was moving along. Wealth is fairly well distributed—few millionaires and few dependents. I was particularly interested that Hickory has established a factory for the manufacture of toys. Now that is a new kind of industry for North Carolina. A hundred years ago our children made their own toys. Parents will buy toys at Christmas even if they have to economize on meat. Where do they get them from? Until 1914 more of them came from Germany. That country had almost a monopoly on the manufacture of toys. War necessity compelled us to try to manufacture toys in America. We found out we could do it, and make most toys as well as they were made in Germany. It was a by-product of war—one of the compensations, so to speak.

It is a singular thing how long we accepted the propaganda that "Made in Germany" was better than "Made in America." To be sure, there are some things that Germans make better than Americans. They have devoted themselves for generations to certain things that require proficiency just as other peoples have in other manufacturing. But as to most things, such as making toys and guns, it has been shown that there is no special or exclusive genius and talent possessed by Germans. Even if so, if the talent is a racial possession, the large strain of German blood in this country would enable Catawba folks to turn out as good toys as they produce in Nuremberg. But American skill, when turned in that direction, is as capable of making toys as German skill. Moreover, here at home if our minds are put to it, we can make toys to suit American children better than they can be manufactured anywhere else in the world. The war taught us that soldiers could be trained just as well in America as in Germany, and that it does not require three years in the goose-step to make a soldier.

North Carolina has made great strides in industry, but we have specialized too much on cotton goods and furniture. We should keep our lead there and go forward in making finer fabric and finer furniture. There is much development in both as also in our other big industry, the manufacture of (Continued on page 3)

SAYS DAUGHERTY ACTS IN BAD FAITH

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Appearing before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today, Donald R. Ritchberg, attorney for the railroad shop crafts, accused the department of justice with lack of good faith in agreeing to expedite the injunction hearing.

Mr. Ritchberg declared that he and associated counsel held a very unsatisfactory conference with Solicitor General Beck in Washington for expediting the final hearing of the interlocutory injunction handed down by Judge Wilkerson in Chicago September 25.

ANOTHER BIG DAY FOUR COUNTY FAIR

Little Prospect of Crowds Being as Large as Yesterday, Which Broke all Past Records, But People Were Thronging Grounds Early--Big Night Crowds on Hand.

Attendance records are being broken every day at the Catawba County fair, according to the officials of the association. Tuesday's crowd was larger by far than any previous opening day on record, and in spite of the dust and heat, it is conservatively estimated that fully 15,000 people were at the fair grounds on Wednesday. Owing to the fact that thousands of school children, who were admitted free, were among the crowd it was impossible to keep an official count of the attendance, but officers of the fair association state that the gate receipts were larger than any previous year by several hundred dollars.

Yesterday's crowd was a good natured, orderly assemblage, not a single mishap occurring to mar the day. This was due largely, it is believed, to the fact that the fair association officials had such a splendid system worked out for handling the automobile traffic and parking as well as the crowds themselves. Every concession apparently was doing all the business they could handle, while large numbers were attracted to the Dufour Shows.

The cattle exhibit and poultry show were pronounced by experts to be the finest ever shown in the county and are said to compare favorably with exhibits at state fairs.

Roland Turner, general agricultural agent of the Southern Railway Company, who delivered a talk to the farmers, declared he had never seen a finer exhibition of Jerseys anywhere in the country.

The health play in which a number of school children took part came in for much favorable comment from the spectators who showed their appreciation of it by sitting in the broiling sun for more than an hour while the play was in progress. The crowd also entered into the spirit of the occasion in fine style by joining in heartily in the community singing led by M. D. Schubert, of community service.

Today's program was fully as interesting as that of yesterday, and it is expected that the total attendance will be well up to that of yesterday when the final count is made tonight.

On the program this afternoon were a talk on South Carolina's fight against illiteracy by Miss Wil Gray, of Columbia, S. C., state supervisor of adult illiterate schools; a recitation of the health play by the Hickory school children and a number of athletic events participated in by the High school boys and Lenoir College students.

Some Prize Takers At Big County Fair

The agricultural building as has been the custom of years at the fair, was drawing a throng of visitors yesterday and while the display was not as large as usual the diversified nature of the exhibits more interesting. The Newton schools had an unusual good display of school work on one side of the building on the second floor and the fancy work department to the right was attracting the usual crowd of women. Canned goods and vegetables made a good display as did the notary work, the paintings and basketry work.

Mrs. Anna Harris, home demonstration class had a booth at the rear of the building which was hard to beat. Here were to be seen military, canned goods, basketry artificial flowers and other hand work that appeals so intensely to the women. The usual display by the Catawba community fairs was missed by Alexander and Caldwell counties, had booths in which was displayed to advantage the products of these two counties. The Pisgah-Preslar community fair from Alexander county won first premium while Virginia from Caldwell county won second place.

Owing to the drought of the past few weeks the agricultural display was not quite up to the usual standard but what was lacking in quantity was made up in quality. A feeling of good fellowship and informality greeted the visitors on every side and large printed signs saying "Smile" which were tacked everywhere added to the feeling of friendliness and put everybody in an unusually good humor. The "howdy" text at the side of the manufacturer's building added to the welcome the fair management was extending to the public.
