TO SPEAK AGAIN TO MAJORITY PARTY

By the Associated Press.
Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 27.—Senator LaFollette told him in a long distance telephone conversation from Washington that the people had spoken twice to the majority party and that they would speak only one more time. George W. P. Hunt, governor-elect of Arizona said here last night. He may send a representative to the meeting of progressive leaders called by Senator LaFollette at Washington December 2, but will not attend himself. Senator LaFollette said he would not attend as soon as both old parties scapular according to Mr. Hunt, pointing out that radicals had been elected in both states through cooperation of organized farmers and union workers, and that an analysis of returns would show Mr. Hunt's election by such a combination. Mr. Hunt said this was the reason for inviting him to the conference. Mr. Hunt will confer with Democratic leaders today on the question of sending a representative. "I feel confident that Senator LaFollette has the best interests of the people at heart in his effort to establish this bloc, but I can't get away from the belief that the Democratic party is the best agency through which to effect reforms."

MAN IS ACCUSED MURDER AND ARSON

By the Associated Press.
Bristol, Va., Nov. 27.—Ben Burchfield, 41, will be brought here today from the Blountsville jail and given a hearing on the charge of murder in connection with the finding of five charred bodies believed to have been slain and the house in which they were found set fire early yesterday. Relatives of James W. Smith, his wife, their two-year-old daughter, the wife of the man being held and their son, were today making final funeral arrangements for the quintet. Officers say the slain had evidently been beaten to death and the house set on fire to hide the crimes. Calmly chewing on a piece of gum, Burchfield viewed the charred bodies without emotion. According to the police, Burchfield and his wife were separated. They say he is alleged to have made threats against her after she contemplated getting a divorce.

GAME SANCTUARY IN OLD VOLCANO

London, Nov. 10.—An untouched Eden in the mouth of a burned-out volcano in the heart of Africa, providing a place of refuge for thousands of animals, many of them possibly extinct in other parts of the world, is to be explored by scientists. The land forming the mouth of the volcano has been purchased by an Englishman who will organize an expedition to probe into the secrets of the crater. The volcano is the giant Ngorongoro, the largest crater on this planet. The mouth is ten miles across, and a veritable paradise for wild animals. The Germans knew of it before the war, but kept its existence a secret. There is a wide range of possibilities as to what a thorough exploration of the crater may bring forth. Prehistoric animals, believed to have perished from the earth thousands of years ago, may inhabit its caves and scientists hope to find live creatures of which only the skeletons have been discovered in other parts of the world. The explorer photographer, T. A. Burnes, and Mrs. Frederick Blaziel, both of New York, were members of a party which recently made an expedition to this crater. They estimated that 75,000 animals inhabit this strange land. The animals which have lived there for centuries, safe from attack. The steep sides of the volcano make a natural barrier against the outside world and there are few men, white or black, who have dared to penetrate the surrounding forests even to look into this paradise for animals.

MR. CLEMENCEAU SAYS HE WILL SAY PEACE

By the Associated Press.
Abroad Clemenceau's Private Car En Route to Chicago, Nov. 27.—Deep in a campaign for France that already has brought attacks from the British government, Georges Clemenceau today declared he would "speak his piece" out in his own way, no matter whom he offended. The French war premier has received dozens of telegrams from well wishers of France urging him to tone down his remarks in the interest of expediency. One telegram urged him to say "things that America wants to hear and be expedient." "I did not come here to be expedient," he declared when he received this message. "I came to tell the truth. I did not come to say pleasing things, but to say the things which in my judgment would help France and Europe. "I have not been a compromiser. Now that I have one foot in the grave, least of all would I make a sacrifice to be expedient. I don't want to be expedient."

The money will be taken from the receipts of the parimutuel bettering machines operated under governmental concession at horse races.

WATER PROPOSITION MORE INTERESTING

Mr. T. L. Wolfe, a Charlotte engineer spent the greater part of yesterday with City Manager Ballew, Councilman Isenhour and Mr. A. P. Whitenor on Ginger creek, Caldwell county, where they went over the water situation there with a view to bringing a flow into Hickory by gravity and a preliminary investigation convinced the party that the proposition is entirely feasible. Mr. Wolfe estimated the elevation at the Ford as 350 feet higher than Hickory and the flow of water there as 1,450,000 gallons a day. Old residents said the stream was lower than it had been in 40 years. Mr. Ballew said it would require an expenditure of $50,000 to make needed improvements and enlargements on the present plant, with a corresponding increase in pumping the water. It is figured that the Ginger creek supply would be sufficient for many years, and Mr. Wolfe suggested that neighboring towns, including Granite Falls, could be supplied from the stream. All the information necessary is to be gathered and presented to Hickory people, together with figures on the present plant, so that the public may know just what must be done. Hickory's consumption of water would be doubled if it was not so costly and it would be more satisfactory coming from a pure mountain stream.

PROGRESS IS MADE FOR NEW PROGRAM

The question of leadership was not broached today.

ST PAULS CHURCH AT STARTOWN DESTROYED

St. Paul's Lutheran church at Startown was destroyed by fire yesterday at noon and in 11 minutes after. Rev. J. W. Boger the pastor announced that the building was in flames the walls and roof were falling in. The building was a complete loss, though practically all of the furniture, including some of the windows were removed. Built many years ago, the edifice was valued at $3,500 and was insured for $2,000. Mr. Boger had just read his text when he observed smoke around the flue. He announced that the church was on fire and the congregation started to bolt for the door. Mr. Boger urged them to go out quietly and the procession was orderly, with no injuries. The building was of pine and burned like tinder. It is believed that a crack in the terra cotta near the ceiling caused the fire to start. The congregation will replace the wooden structure with a modern brick building.

HERE IS REPORT OF CATAWBA POULTRY

The poultry club work in Catawba this year has been by far the best that it has ever been. We have 103 poultry club members enrolled and a large percent of this number has been doing excellent work. Poultry club work is a very popular subject in the county due to the fact that it does not require much capital to start, and it gives quick returns. It is very seldom that a member drops out once he gets started into the work, but instead he thinks he has the very best flock in the county and works all the harder. We have 38 breeds represented in club work this year, and we boast of having some of the very best birds to be found among any of our larger breeds. It is impossible to name the best club member in the county I would like to mention each one and tell just what they have done but space will not permit. Keran Love, one of the most experienced members, with her flock of 75 Barred Plymouth Rocks, and her flock of 75 S. C. White Leghorns has made a clear profit of $763.10 leading the entire membership of the county, but I might also say that she has the largest flock. Earl Poovey, who has only been in the work for two years, with his flock of 20 Black Langhans and a small flock each of Light and Dark Brahmans has won $73.00 in premiums which put him at the top in winnings. With three breeds that are not so common he has an advantage over the other members in the different shows and fairs which we have attended. This year, with the assistance of Mr. Oliver, our state poultry club agent, we have been able to show at the Central Carolina Fair at Greensboro, and the State Fair at Raleigh, and we are now working on our exhibit for New York. At our county fair at Hickory this fall we had 900 club birds on exhibition. Below is a report of the work for 1922.

RED CROSS CANVASS HERE ON WEDNESDAY

All canvassers in the Red Cross roll call will meet with Chairman L. F. Abernethy Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Consolidated Trust Company building for the purpose of arranging for the canvass. Those who expect to leave town for the holiday can secure their membership renewal by seeing Chairman Abernethy prior to the canvass Wednesday afternoon. Hickory must have at least a thousand memberships and heads of families may mail checks for the entire family direct to Mr. Abernethy. When considering the wonderful work the Red Cross is doing in this immediate community, it is felt that there will be a liberal response to the membership drive. Everybody should join.

KILL SECRECY IN SELLING OUR VESSELS

By the Associated Press.
Washington, Nov. 27.—Without a recent vote the house today eliminated from the administration shipping bill a section which would have enabled the shipping board to sell ships privately without advertising for bidders. The motion to strike out the section was made by Representative Graham, Republican of Illinois, after a three-day fight over amendments to the measure. As soon as Mr. Graham had finished a five-minute attack on the section of the bill, there were cries for a vote. There was no demand for a stand-up vote. Mr. Graham declared he wanted to support the measure, but insisted it had to be so changed in principle that he could not stand for it. Republicans, he added, should accept suggestions from their own side if they wanted it passed.

MUSICAL PROGRAM FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

When grown ups assemble at a community building or school for an evening social recreation one of the most popular features of the program is always the musical game. Old familiar songs are used with marching and hand clapping and frequent changing of partners until all feel for the evening at least that "everybody neighbors" is a good motto. Tomorrow at 7:30 all Hickory is invited to assemble at the American Legion hall to participate in an evening's fun. One of the games on the program will be Yankee Doodle which goes as follows:

Couples from large circles on the floor and march around the room during the singing of the verse. Chorus: Partners join hands and take four slide steps in direction that they were marching and four back. Turn partners around with six steps and inside partners advance one player. Repeat from the beginning with new partners. Most of the evening will be devoted to new games but a few of the old games will be played in order to keep them fresh in our minds. The games will be directed this week by Miss R. Marguerite Wilson, the new Community service director for Hickory. This will be Miss Wilson's first community-get-together and a large gathering is hoped for Tuesday. Recreation has been defined as the constructive use of leisure time. A strong mind in a strong body is the slogan of the physical education association. Athletics, games, plays, community choruses, celebrations of holidays, camping hiking and kindred activities are proving to be the best antidote to the jazz and ready made recreation of the present day.

STRONG SERMON BEFORE LOCAL JUNIORS

With the question, "Who is thy neighbor?" for a text, Rev. C. S. Kirkpatrick yesterday delivered a strong and helpful sermon to the members of Piedmont council, Junior order united American Mechanics, who attended the First Methodist church in a body. The minister emphasized the fact that Christianity, the universal religion, taught that men or brethren without regard to race or religion. The Samaritan did not even know the man, member of another race, who fell among thieves and was badly used up. Mr. Kirkpatrick sketched the development of the brotherhood idea. The most narrow view was held by the family. Later approval in the tribe was a brother and worth fighting for. Finally the members of a state cooperated against other states. The early tribes, as witness the American Indians, fought against each other, but not among themselves. Those in the tribe were brothers. They tried to kill off the Indians in other tribes in order that living might be easier for themselves. The Greeks, Jews and Romans divided the world into two parts—and those not members of the dominant race were without the pale and did not count. This conception has survived through a great many centuries.

TEXTILE STRIKE IN NEW ENGLAND ENDS

By the Associated Press.
Boston, Mass., Nov. 27.—The return to work of as many of the operatives of the Amoskeag manufacturing company in Manchester, N. Starting in Rhode Island in January, the strike a month later had spread to all parts of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, affecting mills in many towns. In some places it was called as a protest to reduction in wages, in others as against an accession of working hours from 48 to 54 and in others as in protest against both.
