CAROLINA TEAM PRACTICES AT LYNCHBURG

By the Associated Press.
Chapel Hill, Nov. 29.—The North Carolina football team, one of the four teams left in the south with a clean sweep of victories, was today ready for its game with Virginia tomorrow and with every man on the squad of approximately 25 reported in fine physical condition.
The team left here last night for the run to Charlottesville, Va., and after a light practice today at Lynchburg, will spend the night there and go on to Charlottesville tomorrow morning for its 26th annual gridiron match with the old Dominion.
The team that represents the Tar Heel state this year is a unique one, for every man on the squad is a resident of North Carolina, according to the records here, and in addition to that it is hailed as the greatest eleven that the university has turned out in many years.
The players are almost all veterans of last year's squad and are regarded by their followers as favorites over Virginia tomorrow.

NEGRO QUESTION WITH MOSCOW CONFERENCE

By the Associated Press.
Moscow, Nov. 29.—The negro question came before an open session of the third international today. President Colaroff proposed that detailed reports on the negro be submitted for clarifying the subject for European members who are unfamiliar with the problem in other countries.
One negro delegate suggested that the communist party support the negro movement everywhere and call a "conference at Moscow of all the representative negro organizations of the world to realize a united front of all workers against the capitalists and imperialism."
The speakers said the political ranks of the negroes in the United States were mere scraps of paper and that for a long time capitalists had been spreading propaganda among the negroes in favor of the white capitalists and against white workers. Until now, he said, the workers had nothing to counteract this.

America's Food and Medicine May Go for Naught if Russians Cannot Secure Clothing

"If Russia's children, and adults as well, are to be saved from death this winter from exposure—after the charity of America has brought them through the famine of last winter, they must be supplied with clothing." This is a consensus of opinion of the American Relief Administration staff in Russia, from Colonel Haskell down to the inspectors, according to their reports to Herbert Hoover, head of the A. R. A.
From every part of Russia where the A. R. A. has been feeding children and adults, and has been instituting sanitation and medical service and inoculations to save literally millions of lives, the story is the same—that the children lack even the barest essentials of underwear, shoes, stockings or outer wear, with which to protect themselves against the rigors of the Russian winter. And the need of aid in this direction for adults, too, is indicated by statements of recently returned workers, who state that in cases where Russian employees have been given a blanket for extra services the blankets have almost invariably been made into overcoats. Literally millions of children, say reports, have no shoes—an item which in itself may make it impossible for them to go to American Relief child-feeding kitchens. Five shoes and stockings have been provided for 250,000 children who are absolutely without footwear, but the whole problem is beyond the reach of any general funds now available.
The American Relief Administration, to meet this emergency, has put into effect a Clothing Remittance, functioning in every way as does the now world famous Hoover Food Remittance. For twenty dollars, sent to the A. R. A. at 42 Broadway, New York, the following articles, or their equivalent in value, will be delivered to any designated person in Russia: 4 2-3 yards fifty-six inch twenty ounce dark blue wool cloth; 4 yards of thirty-two inch black cotton lining; 8 yards of twenty-seven inch flannel; 16 yards of unbleached muslin; 8 large black ivory buttons; 16 small black ivory buttons; 2 spools No. 30 black cotton thread; 2 spools No. 40 white cotton thread.
One package will clothe one adult or two children all winter, and remittances ordered for general relief will be used for neediest cases, thousands of which are heart-breaking.

BRITAIN TO QUIT PROGRAM OF SCRAPPING

By the Associated Press.
London, Nov. 29.—Great Britain will scrap no more warships under the Washington disarmament treaty unless the other nations have taken action and scrapped their quota, according to an assurance given a questioner in the house today by E. Y. Monsell, financial secretary of the admiralty.
"IN THE LURCH"
Springfield Republican.
Clemenceau tells only part of the truth in saying that after the armistice America left France "in the lurch," and that includes our late enemies, the defeated central powers. We did not see through to the end what he had begun.
Our enemies changed radically and even dramatically the trend of the war. If we had kept our soldiers at home the settlement of European questions would have been a German settlement; but we made it a settlement by the victorious "allied and associated powers." That was another sort of settlement. Europe is up against it today. If it doesn't work, we cannot escape our share of moral responsibility for it—whatever the constitution of the United States says about the senate's right to reject treaties.
The Versailles treaty was severe in its terms—for more severe than many of us had desired or anticipated. Yet, even so, it was less harsh than the vociferous Hunhatters of four years ago, in France, Britain and America, demanded. Clemenceau successfully opposed Foch's demand for the permanent retention of the left bank of the Rhine. When Lloyd George began compromising on reparations at Paris, he was threatened with overthrow by the British house of commons. Wilson was assailed and branded as a pro-German even before the armistice and as one seeking a "soft peace."
Don't you remember that when Wilson came back with the peace treaty, not a single senator of the United States criticized its terms as too severe on Germany? Mr. Borah himself declared his willingness to ratify the treaty at once, if the covenant of the league of nations was stricken out. And that covenant was the one redeeming feature of the treaty.
Clemenceau depended upon the league with America in it and also upon the supplementary tripartite agreement with Great Britain and this country, as his justification against the Foch-Poincare scheme which demanded the German Rhine as the eastern frontier. He was left in the lurch when the treaty failed of ratification by the United States.
America made a complete job of it. After eliminating Wilson, the present administration could have still ratified the peace treaty with the league reservations which Mr. Lodge had fathered. There was nothing whatever in the Republican platform of 1920 or in Mr. Harding's campaign policy was concerned. He chose to make a separate peace with Germany, and made a virtue of snatching the benefits to be derived from the Versailles treaty while incurring none of its obligations and responsibilities.
Our government has consistently followed this policy, which began with leaving Europe in the lurch and has culminated at Lausanne with the ex-Gov. Lowden of Illinois sarcastically remarking: "An official observer is a person who borrows in to demand consideration for his own interests without accepting any responsibility." Woodrow Wilson's "too proud to fight" never aroused among the most inflamed and war-crazed people of Britain and France the contempt that our present policy arouses in Europe today.
If we had gone through with the job we undertook when we placed 2,000,000 soldiers on the western front, our influence should have tempered the harshness of the Versailles treaty as popular passions cooled and, in a series of international conferences if necessary, have brought about being conditions on the continent within a reasonable time. Lloyd George tried to do it without us, and he went from one failure to another until he fell.
We left civilization in the lurch—and that is what will cost us dearly in the end, even here in our remote North American stronghold. Economic isolation would mean ruin. If Europe should go down in conflict and misery, the economic reaction would break upon our shores like tidal waves for countless generations.
It is not France simply—Clemenceau's vision is narrow and oblique—it is all Europe as an economic and cultural entity that we should try to save, if our help can now avail to steady the old continent which cradled the ancestors of every white person in this new world.

LIVELY PROGRAM AT LEGION HALL

Miss R. Marguerite Wilson appeared for the first time before the recreation group in the Legion hall last evening in connection with the Community service program. A very enthusiastic crowd was in attendance to greet Miss Wilson who directed the entire program of games and stunts. It was decided by those present to hold the next community get-together on Thursday of next week.
A unique idea is to be initiated by Community service in the form of a "Gift Idea" exchange. This will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The innovation is causing considerable interest among the women and their clubs as it will aid everyone to exchange ideas of a helpful nature for the holiday season. Miss Wilson will on this occasion demonstrate the "Gift Idea" which is in vogue this season throughout the country. Samples of this work are on display in several store windows in town. Everybody is invited to the idea exchange.
In Brookford this afternoon Miss Wilson will have charge of a play program for the school children who have become very interested in recreation because of the community programs started there by Community service. The regular weekly adult program will take place there on Friday evening.
Community service already is receiving numerous calls for ideas, plans, material and the personal service of the worker in carrying out various forms of home, club and church programs. The office and the director is at the call of all groups and individuals at any time. Please call Miss Wilson at the Chamber of Commerce if her services are needed.

Napkins, it was stated, is still suffering from injuries and indications are that Arnold, Walp and Wilson will comprise the backfield. Virginia will go into the contest determined to avenge their seven to three defeat of last year.
It will be the 26th annual contest between the two universities, Virginia having won 17 times and the Tar Heels seven. The game in 1902 ended in a 12-12 tie.

MRS. TIERNAN NO. 2 TELLS OF HER BRIEF ROMANCE

Marshalltown, Iowa, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Blanche Hawn Rash Brimmer Tiernan late yesterday gave out a statement telling of her romance with Professor John P. Tiernan of South Bend, Ind., and told of having received another telephone call from him yesterday.
Mrs. Tiernan's statement disputes one given out by Professor Tiernan that they met in the court room in South Bend during the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case.
"I first met Professor Tiernan early in September 1922, in the Pennsylvania railroad station in Chicago," Mrs. Tiernan said.
"We talked of the Poulin case, and I expressed to him my sympathy in his trouble."
"After the divorce proceedings were started in the Tiernan case I wrote to Mr. and Mrs. Tiernan and told them I thought they were foolish to separate. Mr. Tiernan answered my letter, telling me that he was not living with his wife, and for me to write to him again. Further correspondence between us followed."
"About the middle of October Mr. Tiernan asked me to meet him in Chicago. I did so."
"We continued our correspondence. After he had been granted his decree for divorce, he wired me Thursday, November 23 to meet him in Chicago the next morning—on Friday—at 7 a. m., which I did."
"During our visit in Chicago, Mr. Tiernan proposed marriage to me and I told him I was not prepared to be married at that time."
"He insisted and I finally consented. I supposed at that time that all legal impediments had been removed and that we were free to be married if we so desired."
"Mrs. Tiernan No. 2 said she did not know whether Professor Tiernan was coming to Iowa for her. "Mr. Tiernan is a man of emotions," she said, adding that "he doesn't know what he wants to do."
One thing is sure, she said, and that is if he does come here it must be with the understanding "that I am Mrs. Tiernan."

OHIO'S JUDICIAL REVOLUTION

Ohio State State Journal.

FIRE CHIEF ASKS FOR MODERN ALARM

Fire Chief Harry Whitener last night appeared before city council in the interest of a Gamewell fire alarm system for Hickory and members of the board inclined their ears. It will cost about $14,000 to wire the town and put in 34 boxes, Mr. Whitener said, and he agreed to raise interest on this investment for three years if the board would order the installation of the system.
It has to come sooner or later, the chief said, in showing that confusion in sending in an alarm might result in immense fire damage. People make mistakes and a mistake made when a house or plant is on fire is costly.
Mr. Whitener said that he was sure the business men of Hickory would contribute the interest on the investment in order to get better protection. The manufacturing plants in and just outside the city would install boxes and it would be to their interest to have the best equipment available.
All members of council expressed themselves favorably, but it was decided to wait until next Tuesday night before taking final action.
The whetware question was discussed informally during a comparatively short session.
