SEVERE WINTER HAS NOT INTERFERED WITH CO. SCHOOLS.

Asked how the school children in the county districts were making it this winter, which has been rather severe, County Superintendent L. B. Beam, said, this is a remarkable school year with the Lincoln county schools. The average attendance has been fine. Interest on the part of parents and teachers has been unusually good. In many instances the schools of the county are taxed to the limit, and there is a real need for additional desks, but owing to the high prices prevailing, a surplus of desks had not been provided said the superintendent, but this, it is hoped will be remedied. The county superintendent feels very much encouraged over the remarkable showing being made by the schools and he feels sure this is to be the best year's work with the county schools in the history of the county's public school system.

PLANK ROAD PASSED HIS BOYHOOD HOME.

"I am 50 years old and still live in the house in which I was born," said R. W. Todd of Paw Creek. "The old plank road which used to lead to Lincoln passed right near my home. It was a good road, too, in its day. Of course wagons were about the only vehicles used 40 and 50 years ago. I remember quite well back in my boyhood days that virtually everybody traveled horse-back or in wagons and the early vehicles which looked something like our bargies of today were a novelty. My children often ask me if things didn't look queer in those days. I tell them they didn't look any more out of place than some of the popular things we have today will look out of place a generation from now."—Charlotte News.

BUICK AND 860 GALLONS TAKEN IN CATAWBA CO.

Sheriff Abernethy saw Catawba county officials in Lincoln Saturday, and learned that the officers of Catawba Friday night captured a Buick automobile loaded with 860 gallons of whiskey, which was being transported to Charlotte. Sheriff Abernethy thinks this was the car which he was on the trail of Thursday night. He ran on a car with a punctured tire just outside the city limits and learned by investigation that before beginning work on the disabled car—a Buick—that a number of jugs had been deposited in the bushes nearby until the puncture was mended. The sheriff was not known to the men in the car, and they became very friendly, asked him the best way to get through with a load of whiskey. They said they wanted to avoid Deputy Sheriff Baxter's territory. The sheriff told them it was best to go into Mr. Baxter's section. They car finally left and the men let it be known that they were coming back through Lincoln, but they failed to return this way according to the sheriff, for he and others were on the lookout for the returning liquor car. The men evidently went the Catawba route, and it is supposed the captured car was the one that passed through with jugs last Thursday night.

ANOTHER WHISKEY LADEN CAR CAPTURED BY DEPUTY W. D. BAXTER.

Thursday afternoon Deputy Baxter and Assistant John Leatherman captured an 18-model Dodge Touring car, with 2 1-2 gallons of liquor on board. The driver of the car, Frank Queen of Gastonia, was arrested and given a hearing before Esq. Leatherman who bounded him over to superior Court in the sum of $500, which he failed to give and was placed in jail over night, or until bond is made. There was another man in the car and he escaped. Queen stated that the man with him was from Charlotte, but that he did not know him, he having been engaged by the Charlotte man to drive to the source of supply to get whiskey. The arrest was made in North Brook.

WHEELER ASKS FOR CAMPAIGN AGAINST LIQUOR

Greensboro, Feb. 3.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, topped off the activities of the law enforcement advocates, ending a two-day convention here tonight, with a perverted demand that vigilant public sentiment compel team work between Congress and the states in enforcing the Volstead prohibition law.

These two, harnessed together and prodded on by organized sentiment of the good people of the nation, will insure perpetuation of the eighteenth amendment, the "greatest moral victory" ever won by a self-governing people, he declared.

The activities of the day were many and varied. Mayor D. M. Clark, of Greenville, started the convention in the morning session with a recital of "evil" conditions in the eastern part of the state.

Officers were elected; resolutions demanding stricter enforcement were adopted and the ways and means committee came out with plans to further Scotch liquor, calling for a state vigilance committee and for branches of the Anti-Saloon league in every county each with a sub-league.

The Greenville mayor turned himself completely loose. Stills in Pitt county are as thick as fleas on a lazy dog's back," he shouted. His horrified audience gasped. Thus encouraged, Mr. Clark went further. "Formerly cotton, corn and tobacco were the basis of prosperity in the eastern part of the state, but now monkey rum is the most profitable. Many of our leading church members, wealthy men and political chiefs cater to bootleggers," he asserted. He blamed "incapable judges bad laws and lack of public sentiment."

Tonight Mr. Wheeler told how the law could be enforced, but reminded the faithful that they must be eternally behind the law officers. "A great campaign for law and order is the immediate challenge," he stated. Let the officers and citizens who wink at violation of the law be taught that they are playing with fire, he urged. "Votes will teach them. I never saw a public official who would not prefer to do the right thing if he thought it safest."

DIVIDE IT UP

When a bit of sunshine hits you, Just after a passing cloud;
 When a bit of laughter gits you, And your spine is feeling proud,
 Don't forget to up and fling it At a soul who's feeling blue;
 For the minute that you sling it, It's coming back good to you.

HELP US TELL IT.

Morganton News-Herald. So often a newspaper is criticised for not carrying this or that item of news or making mention of the visitors in some home or some happening of news value when possibly the paper had no intimation of the event. So often we find that somebody has taken it for granted that someone else has reported the item that should have appeared. Just a short time ago a good woman who had recently moved away died in her new home, several of her friends attended the funeral and evidently those who knew of the death simply thought the newspaper would find out about it. The paper came out without it and afterwards several asked, "Why didn't you say something about Mrs. A.'s death?" We couldn't know about it by intuition or by some strange secret power.

This is told by way of example and to emphasize our desire to get all the news of the community. You can help us if you will. Won't you?

The resolution of Senator France of Maryland, proposing that all persons convicted under the espionage act be released from prison, naturally finds favor among the element which for any reason opposed the war or the measures to prosecute the war; and the German sympathizers and the aliens and their friends. Not a few good citizens, too, will be moved by the plea that seeing the war is over the folks who offended under the wartime regulations should go without further punishment. Possibly there were some convictions for technical violations where clemency would not be amiss. But in case where active opposition was offered to the war, or to measures designed to prosecute the war, suspension of punishment would mean the promotion of disloyalty and the degrading of patriotism. It is not only disloyalty to the country's cause but it is dishonoring the men, living and dead, who fought for that cause, to excuse those who did what they could, no matter if insignificant and unsuccessful, to hamper our prosecution of the war and to give aid and comfort to the enemy.
