MONDAY, JUNE 13, 1921.

The sudden and shocking death, in an automobile accident of Col. Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, on the eve of his departure on a speaking tour in behalf of legislation before Congress in the interest of service men, is most regrettable. As chief executive officer of the Legion, Colonel Galbraith had exhibited the qualities of courage and persistence which won him fame on the battle-field, and the sterling Americanism of his public utterance had endeared him to many who are not members of the soldiers' organization.

Other sections of this nation are beginning to see the negro question nearer their own door, and as they stack up against the negro the white people of the west and north occasionally have serious outbreaks against the negro, or negroes you might say. Other sections go at it wholesale when the occasion arises, while down south the white folks lynch one or two when the high crime is committed or as many as found involved, but the innocent negro is seldom disturbed.

Attention has been drawn to the greater breadth of vision so much in evidence now in President Harding as contrasted with some of his utterances made prior to taking office says the Chester Reporter. Whether Mr. Harding really believes in some of his utterances, or whether they were only a ploy for getting into office doesn't matter; it is very evident that he is getting off the platform constructed by Messrs. Lodge, Penrose, and others for him to stand on. Whether it will mean confusion and civil war in the Republican ranks, or whether the platform was a mere subterfuge with the whole crowd remains to be seen. At any rate the Presidency has seemed to have the usual effect on Mr. Harding. It has broadened and transformed his outlook; and he gives every indication of measuring up to the great moral responsibilities that the Presidency carries with it.

A New York woman hired "ghosts" to scare her husband. But now she is in jail, because it worked too well—they made him one.—Greensboro News.

WHY NOT?
Springfield Republican.

Bates College debaters have sailed for England to argue with representatives of Oxford on the affirmative of the question: "Resolved that this house approves the America policy of non-intervention in European affairs." If they know just what this policy is, why not tell the home folks?

Dr. Wiley tells the house judiciary committee that beer is not a medicine. As we understand it, that is not the point urged by those who want the beer prescription legalized. The point is, they want it called a medicine.—Kansas City Star.

PIEDMONT COUNTIES GROW.
ING IN WEALTH OF FARMS

Washington, June 7.—Census figures made public today show these increases or decreases in the number of farms and farm values in counties about Charlotte:
Mecklenburg, a decrease in number of 2.1 per cent and increase in value of 41.0 per cent.
Catawba, number decrease 8.8, and value decrease 48.7.
Lincoln, decrease 8.1 and increase 64.9.
Cleveland, decrease 0.4, and increase 98.6.
Cabarrus, increase 14.6 and increase 85.6.
Iredell, increase 3.7 and increase 99.3.
Alexander, decrease 0.2 and increase 74.5.
Rowan, increase 7.2 and increase 128.3.

The postponement of the Linney hearing will give further opportunity to ascertain who wrote that letter and signed Linney's name to it. When will that commission be appointed? And "who struck Billy Patterson?" and "who killed Cock Robin?"—News and Observer.

A COOLING-OFF PERIOD
It is very well for work to be given the news associations that the postponement of consideration of the Linney nomination was because of the absence of a Republican Senator, but the country knows better. The case was postponed indefinitely in order that meantime the rebellious negro element might become pacified and the way straightened out for the Western Senators who are fearful of the effect of the war on the negro vote might have on their fortunes. The situation had become so acute that action one way or another at this time would have surely precipitating trouble in the Republican ranks. The Linney matter has been side-tracked merely that it might undergo the cooling-off process.—Charlotte Observer.

The great need of the country just at present is something to make hoese as attractive as hose.—Marion Star.

Bandits lined up dancers in a roadhouse near Chicago early yesterday, or late the night before, and got away with jewelry and cash estimated at nearly $20,000. One woman saved diamonds valued at $15,000 by dropping them into her cup of coffee. As husband to a woman who can react to a situation as quickly and brilliantly as that, the average man would be but clay in hands of the potter.—Greensboro News.

SENSATIONAL DIVORCE ACTION
IN GUILFORD.

Greensboro News
Suit for divorce from bed and board and for custody and tuition for his four children was filed in Superior court yesterday morning by Mack B. Parrish, 39-year-old farmer of near Stokesdale. Among the sensational charges made in the complaint as grounds for the divorce is that for more than two years past the defendant, Annie Parrish, his wife, has "willfully, continuously, and repeatedly, and with studied maliciousness, offered such indignities to the person of the plaintiff as to render his condition intolerable and his life burdensome."

He alleges furthermore that she refused to perform the household duties of a wife and often stated, "she had got the man she didn't want, that there was mighty little she was going to do for him, and that she would get the man she wanted yet."

He alleged, also, that she "repeatedly cursed and abused plaintiff in the vilest terms in the presence and hearing of their infant children"; that for more than a year in 1919 and 1920 the defendant "kept a half of a buggy whip and a large stick or club at the head of her bed and stated she had them there for the plaintiff" so that the plaintiff feared the defendant might arise at night and endanger his life while he slept.

Article 11 of the complaint alleges that in 1920 the defendant "threatened she would get rid of him mightily easy so that she could get the man she wanted, said it wouldn't take but one match to destroy his property, and threatened to cut his throat while he slept."

"The defendant stated on several occasions in 1920," he continues the complaint, "that she had frequently stood by his bed at night while he slept, with a butcher knife in her hand tempting to cut his throat and get rid of him, and was restrained from doing so only by the fear of making a mistake and not finishing him." and that as a result he was forced to sleep in his feedbarn and away from his home during more than a month.

MRS. MOLLIE SHERRILL
IS DEAD AT AGE OF 81

Newton, June 10.—Mrs. J. W. Erwin received a message Monday telling of the death of her aunt, Mrs. Mollie Sherrill, which occurred at her home near Sherrill's Ford, this county. Mrs. Sherrill had been an invalid for a number of years, and was 81 years of age. Her husband, Woodford Sherrill, died in October, 1916. The deceased had been a member of Rehoboth Methodist church for many years, where she was buried Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Erwin, Misses Dorothy and Winnie Erwin, of this city, attended the funeral.

Mrs. Sherrill was a native of Newton, being a sister of the late William Serence. She was married soon after the close of the war, and made her home near Sherrill's Ford.

SUBMARINE GHEEN

In the game Wednesday in Charlotte between Columbia and Charlotte Gheen, well known here as the pitcher for Charlotte and won by the score of 8 to 2 Columbia getting only 4 hits off Gheen. The Observer's gossip writer said of Gheen, Thursday:

"Submarine" Gheen is fast developing into one of the best twirlers on the staff. At times he is a little unsteady with men on, but then he doesn't often let them get more than one at a time. He sure pulled himself out of a bad hole yesterday.

Gheen won his second game for Charlotte last Saturday, when he pitched against Charleston team. Pitcher Gheen spent the week end at his home in Lincoln.

MY PRAYER.

(Emma Ingold Bost.)
To keep the faith, though much I see of wrong;
To keep my heart serene, voice tuned to song;
To keep my steps aright—though ways are long—
This is my prayer!

To keep my eyes turned, steadfast, towards the light;
To walk with those whose feet tread paths of right,
In this way walk till "faith is lost in sight"—
This is my prayer!

To speak no unkind words to those I love;
Daily to watch for ways that love to prove;
This motto, "Kindness" placed my door above—
Then answered prayer!

TO A LITTLE GIRL.

The light of Maytime's in your eyes
Upon your brow her lilies fair;
They breath as flower-scented winds
That kiss the violets in your hair—
Thy voice the soft sweet melody
That floats from ev'ry budding tree!

Thy dimpled smile is like the morn
Whose light drives night's shadows away—
Thy lips as roses without a thorn,
Thy laugh rivals the songster's lay!
Ah, what were life without you dear,
To brighten and bless each passing year!

—W. Frank Boker.
