ABSENT 55 YEARS TAKES A LOOK AT NEW LINCOLN

Absent since 1866, Mr. D. C. Hallman of Warrenton, Ga., was on the streets of Lincoln today. He was enroute to Gastonia from Shelby, where he had been visiting his old home. He is now 75 years old and in good health.

Startled—He said that—when he landed in Lincoln this morning from the Seaboard train. The conductor told the confederate veteran it was Lincoln. He got off and moved up street and began searching for Lincoln of 55 years ago. He found no one he knew and the only evidence he found that it was Lincoln was the fact that each citizen he approached assured him he was in Lincoln. He finally consented to believe it was Lincoln when he found the old Robinson home on the south side of Court Square and the old Hoke house on the north, and the old Johnson house on the north end of the square, now the home of Mr. J. H. Rudisill.

Veteran Hallman visited Lincoln every two days in the years 1861 '62 and '63 carrying mail by stage coach from Shelby to Lincoln at the time. The thought "that one generation shall pass away and another shall take its place" occurred and re-occurred to the old timer, as he scanned the passing throngs of faces on the streets for an acquaintance, but no one was found that he remembered. Mr. John Cobb was as near a realization of his desire. Mr. Cobb was a lad in those days. Mr. Hallman however remembered Mr. Cobb's father who was a Lincoln merchant in those far back days.

Mr. Hallman told the News man that his grandfather Jim Love, late of Shelby, donated the land to Cleveland County on which the Shelby courthouse now stands and that his grandfather also gave 2 acres to Shelby for a school grounds, and also donated 4 lots in Shelby to various churches on which to build church buildings.

He said he expected to visit an uncle, Mr. Wm. Love, age 93 of Charlotte before returning to Georgia.

A TAX ON HOMES

Just as Schedule K of the Payne-Aldrich tariff shipwrecked the Republican party in 1910, the lumber schedule of the Fordney tariff of 1921 may "but" the G. O. P. next year. That schedule is full of dynamite. A big lumberman who is opposed to the schedule on the ground of public policy, though it would add materially to his immediate profits, declares that its effects would be to hasten the depletion of our own forests, and to greatly enhance the cost of building. Of course it will have the further effect of immensely increasing the profits of lumber manufacturers, which, since the war according to this manufacturer, "certainly ought to satisfy, and more that satisfy anyone."

But apparently there are some lumbermen not so easily satisfied as the reasonable gentleman just quoted, who is Mr. C. J. Winston, of Minneapolis, operating in Idaho and Mississippi. One of those who seemingly believe that lumbermen should have all the profit the traffic will bear is Chairman Fordney, of the House Ways and Means Committee, who is also in the lumber business as a sideline to statesmanship maybe it's the other way about.

The Fordney Tariff Bill takes lumber from the free list and imposes on it a high duty in protection of domestic lumber against the Canadian product. It is estimated that this tariff will add $250 to the average cost of every frame dwelling built—a pretty heavy tax on the homes of the nation for the enrichment of lumber barons who have been enjoying profits that "ought to satisfy, and more than satisfy, anyone."

The lumber tariff is a vicious, unjustified, wholly indefensible tax. It is without warrant on any other ground than the greed of certain lumber manufacturers, one of whom happens to be the Chairman of the Committee which prepared the tariff bill. If it does not arouse the wrath of the people they have lost that spirit which moved them to tangible and effective resentment of lesser outrages perpetrated in previous tariff bills.

DEATH OF MRS. KATE ANTES WADDELL

Following is an account of the death of the wife of Mr. Richard E. Waddell, which occurred on June 27. Mr. Waddell is a brother of Mrs. Hugh Jenkins, of Lincoln, and lived in Lincoln some years ago, and is remembered by many here. The following taken from the Sedalia, Mo., Democrat of June 28:

"Mr. Kate Antes Waddell, wife of Richard E. Waddell, died at 10:30 o'clock Monday night at the Antes home, 623 West Seventh street after an illness lasting several months due to cancer.

Mrs. Waddell was born in Sedalia Sept. 4, 1872, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Foster Antes, pioneer residents of Sedalia. She was reared in this city, having attended the public schools, after which she graduated from the high school and later from Miss Miller's seminary, then a private school for girls located on East Broadway.

A vocalist of much talent Mrs. Waddell, then Mrs. Antes, spent two winters in New York, where she studied voice under Edwin Meyer, New York's noted voice teacher.

Mrs. Waddell was married to Mr. Waddell in this city August 9, 1895, and spent her entire life here, with the exception of three months in Kansas City, where her husband had been transferred, and where he now holds the position of yard master for the Katy at that place. In March, 1921, she returned to Sedalia to be with her mother, who was ill, and who died three months ago. Owing to the condition of her own health she did not return to Kansas City, and several weeks ago her husband came to Sedalia and remained with her until the end came.

In the death of Mrs. Waddell Sedalia loses one of its finest and most brilliant women. Gifted with a splendid mind, and a charming personality, she was called on constantly to take part in all affairs of the city, both in social and civic life. She was never too busy to assist others who needed her, and it was said of her that often she was out, day and night caring for the poor of the city or those who had been unfortunate and her helping hand was felt by many, both white and black.

She was an active member of the Helen G. Steele music club and during the absence of Mrs. W. D. Steele, late president of the organization, Mrs. Waddell was director and conducted much of the community singings during the late war.

For several years Mrs. Waddell was one of the owners and editors of the Social Messenger, a local weekly publication devoted to society. She was a member of the D. A. R., Sorosis and Miss Miller's seminary club. She was a member of the Christian Scientist church.

Mrs. Waddell was one of the most loved women of the city, and it will be with the deepest sorrow that her friends and acquaintances learn of her death.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Waddell leaves two sons, Richard and John, two brothers, John and Maac Antes and one sister, Miss Florence Antes, all of Sedalia.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin chapel where funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Members of the Scientist church will be in charge, and the following friends will serve as pallbearers: Frank Monroe, Charles Bard, J. D. Donnohue, Elliott Stafford, Will Cloney and W. D. Steele.

Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

ATTY. A. L. QUICKEL NAMED AS MEMBER EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Charlotte, July 7.—John A. McRae of Charlotte, was elected president of the North Carolina Bar Association at the concluding session today of its 23rd annual convention. Henry M. London, of Raleigh, was elected secretary-treasurer. H. L. Stephens of Warsaw, E. E. Raper of Lexington, and J. W. Pless, of Marion, were elected vice-presidents while R. L. Smith, of Albemarle, and A. L. Quickel, of Lincoln, were named members of the executive committee.

The feature of today's session was a paper read by T. C. Guthrie, Sr., of the Charlotte bar, in which he advocated the creation of 24 Superior court districts divided into three rotary divisions to take care of supply and demand. The state now has 20 districts in two divisions. Mr. Guthrie protested against the advocacy of stricter requirements for admittance to the North Carolina bar, contending that some of the states greatest lawyers of today began the practice after three months study. He did not suggest the lowering of the standards favoring those now in effect, but he indicated his opposition to the stricter requirements which he said would keep many talented and capable young men out of the profession.

THE STRAIGHT OF THE MATTER. Charlotte Observer.

The Durham Herald makes observation that enemies of the Morrison Administration and of the last Legislature have been enjoying the announcement that the State is shy something like $600,000 of the sum needed to pay school teachers. Several shafts of criticism have been hurled at the last Legislature for not looking into this and there have been suggestions that the desire not to levy a State tax on real estate was responsible for the deficit. "It develops," says The Herald, "that the critics are all wrong in their conclusion just as they were about the Morrison Daniels 'debate.'"

Then The Herald, proceeding in truthful narration, says that as a matter of fact, the responsibility, if it may be called such, is upon the Legislature of 1919 and the special session of 1920. Then it was that provisions were made for school money. Nobody at that time could foresee that there would be an unprecedented increase in teachers qualifying for more pay. That there would be a deficit was not known during the session of the 1921 Legislature or steps would have been taken to remedy it. It was not until after the end of the school year last month that it was discovered by the State Department of Education. Governor Morrison knew nothing of it until told by the Department. The condition was upon them suddenly and without any warning whatever.

"The 1921 Legislature, states The Herald, "made ample provision for next year, and there will be sufficient funds for all needs then. But now there is a more embarrassing deficit and it is not due to the last Legislature, the present Administration, or the Department of Education."

SOME THINGS THAT RUB THE WRONG WAY.

The parade staged in New York city as a demonstration against the prohibition amendment was not the success its proponents hoped for, says the Statesville Landmark. Instead of the hundreds of thousands that were the line up in favor of greater liberty for John Barleycorn, it is claimed that by actual count the number was less than 15,000. It is also asserted that a large per cent of the protestants were of foreign birth, which latter may be accepted as a fact. There are a good many people who are not enthusiastic for prohibition and who have little patience with the hypocrisy that gives enthusiastic lip service to the theory and denies it in practice, who have just as little patience with this New York anti-prohibition demonstration. One reason is that it gives a real American citizen "that tired feeling" when he sees the foreign-born, some of whom are very young in this country and none of whom knew the real meaning of liberty in the land from which they came, conspicuous in denouncing what they call America's tyrannous laws demanding greater personal liberty.

free speech and all that—in short, undertaking to show Americans what liberty is, this bunch who don't know what it is themselves, and demanding that this country be run to suit them. We have had just a little more of that in this country than is good for the public health and real Americans are at the point, it is to be hoped, of showing in some emphatic manner that they have had more than enough. This doesn't mean that the foreign-born may not be a good citizen and hasn't a right to his opinion. Many of them are among the best citizens.

It is the fresh bunch who jump in and attempt to run the country or show how it should be run before they know the alphabet of American citizenship, and those who would use America solely for the benefit of the land of their birth, that provoke to anger; and causes their champion, or are conspicuous in championing, will suffer for that reason if for no other.

Another thing that does not help the anti-prohibition sentiment, aside from any claim to merit it may have, is the intolerant attitude and monumental conceit of the big cities. The urban centers, such as New York, think they are the whole United States, and with a provincialism that would put to shame a backwoods population, they demand that the country view the situation from their angle and act accordingly. This over-topping egotism and blatant conceit is characteristic of big cities, and the disease is in evidence in some of the small cities.

Whatever they want, or think they want, is what they think the country wants and should have. Real ignorance about some things, and a spirit of provincialism that should discredit a cross roads settlement, is oftentimes found in the most populous urban centers.

Bruce Craven has issued a bulletin to set out his contention that no special session of the Legislature is necessary to relieve the municipal governments of the State; that they have plenty of law to take care of the situation if they know how to use it. The muddled condition of municipal finances, Mr. Craven declares, is the result of the combined incompetence of municipal officials and the complicated laws governing the sale of bonds which New York lawyers have been allowed to write. It would save a lot of bother, not to mention a considerable sum in cash, if somebody who knows would show the municipalities the way out; and as Mr Craven is positive he knows the way the towns and cities of the State could afford to pay him a handsome fee for the service.

And this isn't suggested in any spirit of sarcasm, either. Mr. Craven is a lawyer and makes a specialty of dealing in bonds. He either knows what he is talking about or he doesn't. Why not put him to the test?—Statesville Landmark.

MORNING TONIC.

(Psalms 103, 811.) The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and plenteous in mercy. He will not always chide; neither will He keep His anger forever. He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is His mercy toward them that fear Him.
