It is not so much of a compliment to refer to one as a "man of mark" since marks have been marked down to four-fifths of a cent each.

One effective means to abolish long-winded speeches in Congress would be a rule requiring Congressmen to sit and listen to them.

The miners and mine operators of West Virginia should be invited to the disarmament conference.

Two Americans have been killed in Mexico. If Wilson were President what a fine frenzy of Republican indignation would be unleashed. But nobody seems to care.

Senator Lodge, who fought the Versailles treaty, now has a fight on his hands to secure the ratification of the separate peace treaty.

THE COURSE OF HONOR

The Democratic Senators take a broad and statesmanlike view of the German peace treaty. Many of them are opposed to it on principle and will vote according to their convictions. Others believe that the desirability of concluding formal peace outweighs all objections to the form of the treaty and they too will vote according to their convictions.

There is no effort on the part of the Democratic minority in the Senate to make a party issue of the treaty. What a contrast is this to the attitude of the Republican Senators when the Versailles treaty was up for ratification. Then it was a case of "fighting Wilson" regardless of the merits of the issue and in sacrifice of the old principle of honor in politics which made partisanship cease at the water's edge.

Whether or not the German peace treaty is ratified the Democratic Senators have adopted a course which will give them no cause for shame in future years. This cannot be said for the numerous Republicans who sacrificed conviction, ate their own words and gave no heed to the crying need of a war-torn world that a treaty transmitted by a Democratic President might go down to defeat.

The bombing tests off Tangier Island demonstrated within reasonable certainty that no warship is invulnerable to attack from the air. The battleship Alabama sunk within a few minutes when showered with explosive bombs from airplanes. The Alabama's armor plate was no protection and the test indicated conclusively that the heaviest armor-clad vessel can be put out of commission by aerial bombers. This is extremely interesting to all classes of citizens in view of the fact that it cost about $40,000,000 of their money to build a modern dreadnaught battleship. The Tangier bombing tests constitute a most impressive and convincing argument for naval disarmament.

OUR FIGURES TOO HIGH

In referring to the new courthouse cornerstone laying we stated that it was to be a quarter of a million dollar affair. Chairman Johnston of the courthouse building fund said we would have been nearer correct if we had said a fifth of a million dollar courthouse as that is what the architect is being paid for. Mr. Johnston says it is hoped to hold court in the new building next July, but we offered to wager that it would not be ready by then.

But Chairman Johnston stuck to it that it will be ready for next July court.

The work of placing the stone in the wall is progressing very rapidly just now and perhaps the building Committee, Commissioners, Superintendent and head pushers generally will win that banquet somebody sometime ago proposed to give them if a new courthouse was finished by July next.

DALLAS-GASTONIA ROAD TO BE COMPLETED BY CHRISTMAS IF GOOD WEATHER CONTINUES

Gastonia Gazette. By Christmas, if the ordinarily good weather of fall continues, traffic between Gastonia will be over a road exactly like that through the Camp Greene site, this side of Charlotte. This statement was made this morning by W. F. McCanness, contractor, who was awarded the job of building this road. Mr. McCanness states that he has already perfected arrangements with the C. & N. W. Railway for the building of a side track and the establishment of a base of operations for his construction outfit. His headquarters will be located midway between Gastonia and Dallas, just beyond Long Creek bridge near the C. & N. W. crossing. He plans to have all material and equipment unloaded here. There will be more than 800 cars of material. Work is to begin on this road right away. Mr. McCanness is confident that if good weather prevails he can finish this road by the last of the year.

The road will have a five inch concrete base with two inch Topeka top, 18 feet wide and will have the concrete curb that is a valuable feature of the Camp Greene road.

The distance of Mr. McCanness contract is 3.2 miles. He plans to begin work from this end of the road, working toward Dallas. It is presumed that with the beginning of actual work, all Dallas-Gastonia traffic will be detoured over what is known as the "lower road" to Dallas, going by the overhead bridge in East Gastonia and 3 miles West of Lincoln.
