

Tobacco Growers to Investigate Boycott In Europe Market

(By Associated Press)
New York, May 3.—Tobacco growers commission of southern representatives here of the largest tobacco cooperative marketing associations in the United States sails for Europe today on the Leviathan in an effort to lift the boycott said to have been imposed upon American tobacco and to study general marketing conditions abroad. The commission will study conditions abroad with a view to ascertaining the probable demand for the 1924 crop to arrange for undisposed surplus stocks of last year.

WILL BE GLAD THAT SHE HELPED THE COLLEGE

Wilmington, N. C., April 30.—Perhaps the youngest ardent campaigner in behalf of the student-alumnae building for North Carolina College for Women is little Miss Wilhelmina Gade Dock, of Wilmington.

Although less than ten years old Miss Wilhelmina is saving for her career. A student in her mother's alma mater, Miss Wilhelmina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dock. Her mother was before her marriage Miss Daisy Reid.

At present Miss Wilhelmina is in the fourth grade at school and is doing fifth grade work at home in order that she may enter the sixth grade next fall and thereby graduate from high school in time to enter the North Carolina College for Women when she is sixteen.

All the money that she has earned heretofore for good school reports has been placed in a bank to pay her expenses to North Carolina College for Women. This fund is always referred to by her as "my college money."

Over hearing conversation about the student-alumnae building campaign she said:

"Mother, I shall be glad when I go to college to be able to say I helped to build this."

INDIANA WILL HONOR HERO WHO DIED IN CIVIL WAR

Bloomington, Ind., April 28.—A shrine to the memory of General Lucien Greathouse, proclaimed by General William Tecumseh Sheridan as the outstanding hero of the Civil War, is to be placed in the $1,000,000 war memorial Men's Union building at Indiana University.

General Sherman declared the Hoosier soldier to be "the bravest of the brave" in an official report, which said: "Where all have been so brave, it seems invidious to mention one name, but we must speak of Colonel Lucien Greathouse. He is the bravest of the brave."

General Greathouse lost his life storming a southern stronghold near Atlanta July 22, 1864 in one of the closing campaigns of the war. He is said never to have given his men a command to "charge" but ordered "follow me."

When the Civil War broke out, the general gave up the study of law and entered the Union army as a private. At the time he was killed he had been promoted to the rank of Brigadier General, the youngest to hold that commission in the history of the United States army.

General Greathouse was born at Carlisle, Ill., in 1842.

ONA WILLIAMS COMEDY COMPANY COMING

R. E. Robertson, general advance representative of the Ona Williams Comedy Co., was in town today making arrangements for the appearance of his company here for one week, starting Monday, May 19th. This company has played here several seasons and always drew big crowds. Miss Williams is carrying the latest and best company this season she has even had, numbering 23 people and presenting all new royalty plays, among which is "God is My Judge," "The Balloon Girl," "Over the Hills to the Poor House," "Pollyanna" and several others.

In addition the "Blue Ridge Jazz Orchestra" is featured. The show will be located on the Leaksville Inn lot.

CONFLICT OVER PLANS FOR MOTHERS DAY

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 2.—Officers of the American war mothers have issued a spirited protest against the published attack by the mothers day international association on their plan to sell publicly carnations buttonaires on Saturday May 10th in a nationwide observance of Mothers Day which falls on the Sunday following. The international association denounced the plan as a "tag day game in which it charged war mothers were being used for the profit of others. War mothers denounced the attack upon their plan as "insulting and malicious."

A TALE OF A TOWN

(Series No. 11)

Many friends have commented favorably on these series of articles and it certainly is gratifying that sentiment is undergoing a change. Most of men are busy and its only natural that short articles like these help them to arrive at a definite conclusion.

Today's discussion has to do with the probable cost of putting over a project of Town enlargement, and some of the benefits to be derived. These two issues are the main ones involved.

By extending the town limits on Hamilton Street out as far as Dr. W. W. Matthews, and across by J. R. Perdue's and H. C. Pace's, and then back to the junction of the Boulevard and Glovenia, and on Glovenia to Early Avenue, would bring into the corporation that section sometimes referred to as North Leaksville, Anyhow it would not be taking in any part of Spray.

The addition has now a long stretch of asphalt streets and by asphaltting from 22 to 25 blocks cross streets, connecting lines, one could go most anywhere on hard-surfaced streets. The 25 blocks of asphalt, would be Early Avenue from Glovenia Street to Hamilton. This would give one good cross street, a thing much needed. Another would be from the asphalt on Bridge street out by P. H. Gwynn's to Dr. Matthews. Another on Byrd from Boulevard to Bridge Street, and possibly to Hamilton Street at Brewer Dyer's corner. Then it is only two blocks from this corner to the asphalt at Wood's Store at the junction of Hamilton Street and the King's Mill road, all told would not exceed 25 blocks of asphalt, but these several short distances, would give us a complete belt line of asphalt streets.

Other cross streets within the described limits, could be graded and some of them maybe gravel or topsoil at small cost, taking the whole section out of the mud, and possibly meeting all requirements of the Fire Underwriters in accessibility for fire trucks, etc.

Cement sidewalks could be laid on one side of some of the asphalt streets and in other places, board walks could serve for a few years. It will be noticed that this arrangement takes into account the location of the Graded School and furnishes streets and walks for the children no matter in which direction they come, and surely the man who would oppose this program, certainly can't care much for the boys and girls and their teachers.

We invite those who are interested to go over the streets named in this outline for after all, seeing has a more convincing effect.

In this plan there is two important things in mind. First, taking that section out of the mud and giving school children a sidewalk on all the main routes to school, also, fire protection and sanitation. Second, the placing of improvements such as are needed for free mail delivery service. The whole program can be carried out for a few thousand dollars.

Of course, it is understood that water would be carried into all this section. But this is a different sort of an improvement. There need be no tax as far as water is concerned, because the revenue from water will take care of this. In fact the water system is the only revenue producer we have.

It will be noticed that the asphaltting of the streets named in this program, there will be a complete belt line of asphalt around the entire city. Starting at Leaksville Inn, Washington to Hamilton to Dr. Matthews and returning to the Boulevard to Glovenia, Glovenia to Boone Road to the Inn.

It seems to us that if 25 or 50 of our best men inside and outside the town, but who are within this prescribed limits would take the time to meet and digest this proposal, they would be so convinced of the value of the project, that they would at once set about to accomplish it.

Everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Natives Seen Martin Over Chignik Lakes; Search Doubled

CUBAN PRESIDENT HAS REVOLT ON HIS HANDS

Havana, May 3.—President Zayas left Havana for Santa Clara province where armed men are in revolt against his government. He was accompanied by Secretary of the Interior Iturbe and General Herrero, chief of state.

False Pass, Alaska, May 3.—As a result of information from natives scattered along the barren Alaskan peninsula, that they saw Major Frederick Martin who has been missing since Wednesday headed northwestward in Chignik lakes and Bering Sea. Wireless calls were broadcast today to all vessels in the northern body of water, and additional parties were organized to search the rock shore. Meantime, Martins three companions were prepared to continue their journey if weather conditions permit.

NEW PLAY GROUND AND SWIMMING POOL

R. E. Price is pushing work on his play ground and recreation park on the Rag and place. The dam for the swimming pool has been completed with a foot path across the top of the opposite bank. Work on a refreshment stand is progressing and it is said will be ready for the opening. A loop road has been graded to the swimming pool for cars. There are good shade trees on one side of the pond and it can be made a popular place.

WOLVES INVADE DANCE

Bucharest, May 3.—Hungry wolves recently interrupted a masked ball at Brassloff. They made their way into the hall while the dancers were so engrossed with their merrymaking that they failed to comprehend for sometime what had happened.

PARKING SPACE COMES HIGH WHEN BOSTON PLAYS BALL

Boston, May 2.—On Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, lies a block of land thought to be unique in that its rental rises and falls yearly with the rise or fall in the league standing of a baseball club. The land is "Lowell Park" used as a parking space opposite Braves' field. The rental is determined each year by the position in which the Braves finished at the end of the previous year's National League pennant race.

If the Braves are fortunate enough to win the pennant, the lessee will pay an annual rental of $5,000 to pay the succeeding season. If they finish second, $500 is cut from that price. If they end the season in third place, the rent will be $3,500 and fourth place is $500 less. If the Braves conclude the season in fifth place or lower, the rent will be $1,800.

MAKING THE WORLD SAFE FOR THE BULL

(By Wickes Wamboldt)
Recently a well known writer graphically described a bull-fight in Mexico. He suggested that it was a natural a country that enjoyed such sport should be constantly in the throes of revolution.

I wonder if we really are much better than those Mexicans with their national sport of bull-fighting. Every now and then we witness the spectacle of thousands of Americans paying high prices for seats and fighting for places at the ring-side to see a couple of hang-overs from prehistoric days batter each other's faces into bloody pulp; and we howl ourselves hoarse with cheer at the sight. Of course this is not as bad as bull-fighting, because our pugilists are free agents and bulls are not. Neither are the horses they disembowel.

But does anyone imagine for a second if a genuine Mexican bullfight were staged in the vicinity of New York City that an arena could be constructed big enough to hold the crowd that would want to attend? People would go all the way from California, just as they did to our record prize fight.

Undoubtedly there are people in Mexico who are not in sympathy with bullfighting. They could not be induced to witness such a spectacle any more than could certain people in the United States. But here is the difference between the state of things in this country than in Mexico. There are more people in the United States opposed to pastimes in the bullfighting class than there is in Mexico. The preponderance of public opinion here is against it.

After all there really is not so much difference in peoples. And I doubt if the child born today is a bit better than the child born five thousand years ago. But here is the difference. Through centuries of experiments wise men have worked out rules for the development of mankind and through centuries of striving and propaganda these rules have come to be adopted. But more in some places than others.

The moral status of a country depends upon what percentage of its population believes in these rules of life. Civilization is, after all, but the commitment of the people to a policy of moral law enforcement.

As a result the child of today is brought up under guidance and regulations which tend to eradicate the worst in him and to bring out the best in him. But I doubt that the tendencies of the babe born today are better than the tendencies of the babe born five thousand years ago.

Fundamentally we are the same people we always were. I do not know that we have any better material in our players in the game of life now, but we are better taught now to play it. Our rules are more definite and refined.

After all it might seem that this planet is a place for certain grades of souls, who are here for certain kinds of instruction.

MR. HEDRICK MAKES SUGGESTION ABOUT DEPOSIT

Mr. Hedrick of the Hedrick construction Company has made a suggestion as to what the railroad company could do to improve loading and unloading of freight.

He suggests that the sidewalks on the depot side of Boone Road might be covered over in a substantial way so that trucks could use it in moving freight to and from the depot, thus giving the D. & W. as much room as walk.
