(By the United Press)

London, June 6.- The loss of Earl Kitchener, Secretary of State for War, England's greatest military organizer and conqueror of the Soudan, with his entire staff, when the cruiser Hampshire was sunk off the Orkney Islands by a mine or torpedo, is officially announced by the admiralty. The news of England's greatest personal loss since the war began today stunned London. The admiralty issued the following bulletin:

Admiralty Statement.

"The admiralty reports with deep regret that the ship Hampshire, with Lord Kitchener and staff on board, was sunk last night at 8 o'clock off the Orkney Islands by a mine or torpedo. Four boats were seen from the shore to leave the ship. There were heavy seas, but patrollers and destroyers proceeded to the scene. The whole shore has been searched, but it is greatly feared there is little hope of finding survivors. No report has been received from the search party on shore."

A later announcement by the Admiralty said searching parties in boats found only bodies of drowned men and one capsized boat. There is faint hope that some may have reached shore and proceeded in a search for aid. On account of the high sea this is considered unlikely, and the admiralty discouraged all hope for survivors.

It is stated that the Hampshire was on her way to Russia, where Kitchener planned to confer with officials in Petrograd. Herbert J. Savill and Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the home fleets, telegraphed the news of his loss.
