Our School.

It affords us pleasure to announce that arrangements have been about completed by which the services of Prof. A. O. Hottenstein will be secured as principal of the Piedmont Seminary. This will be especially gratifying to the former patrons and friends of Prof. Hottenstein who is unquestionably an efficient and successful instructor. The Piedmont Seminary buildings are a credit to the town. The Principal who is about to take charge of the institution is in every respect worthy of a liberal patronage. Now it remains for the people to take hold of this matter and fail not. Leave not a single word unspoken nor a single act undone that may tend to build up the school. We want more than a local school. We can have it if the people will take hold. We want to see the buildings filled from top to bottom with students from far and near. Let us not fear that we might aid a teacher to make a few dollars. The advantages of a live, thriving school are great. Any little effort that the town and county may expend will return to us all tenfold.

Winston-Salem.

The hospitality and attention given the editors at Winston-Salem last week is evidence that the people there have learned to appreciate the value of the press of North Carolina and are not loath to show their appreciation. The banquets given at the buildings of the female college on Wednesday night and at the balls of the twin city club Thursday night were royal. The drive over the city to the most interesting points was highly enjoyed by all. The electric street car company were especially courteous in extending the editors the use of their cars during their stay at the convention, and the railroads were not wanting in showing their kindness by giving excursions to different points. The writer is especially indebted to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rogers for their hospitality during our stay in their beautiful and christian home. We had the pleasure also of meeting, while there, Miss Sallie Dickson, who is stopping with Mrs. Rogers and who has a number of friends in Lincoln, having lived here some years ago. We will probably have more to say of that progressive city hereafter, but our space forbids more now.

Col. Tipton Sues The Telegraph Company.

A special from Shelby to the News & Observer says that a suit has been entered in the Superior Court of this county against the Western Union Telegraph Company by Col. John C. Tipton, of Kings Mountain. The amount of damages claimed is $10,000. The complaint recites that on September 4, 1888, at 3 p. m. while plaintiff was a resident at Salisbury, he filed a telegram addressed to Col. W. H. Michal of Lincoln, announcing the death of Mrs. Tipton and telling Michael to complete arrangements for her burial at Lincoln. When plaintiff arrived at Lincoln next day about noon he found the telegram had not been delivered to Col. Michal. The operator at that place stated he had received the telegram on the evening it was filed and sent it up town by a drayman. The drayman gave it to a little boy to deliver and the latter lost it. As a consequence no arrangements had been made and the body had to lie in a church overnight. For neglect and injury to his feelings the plaintiff sues for the amount above stated. His attorneys are Osborne and Maxwell, of Charlotte; D. H. Covington, of Monroe, and Gidney and Webb, of Shelby.

Prof. D. Matt. Thompson Elected Superintendent of the Graded Schools.

The graded school committee met on the evening of the 7th, all the members excepting Prof. Hill present. Prof. D. Matt. Thompson, was invited before the committee and interrogated on the general graded school work, with particular references to the schools here. Prof. Thompson having retired, the committee took up the matter of the superintendency and this gentleman was unanimously elected. He was again called before the committee, informed of his election, and matters of present detail discussed. It was agreed that the schools should be opened on Wednesday, September 9, the whole school to be conducted in the two public school houses (the one on Bell street, Academy hill, the other on Liberty street, near the cemetery,) and in the male academy if to be procured; the colored school in the colored school in the colored public school building and the colored Baptist church.

Prof. Thompson's salary was fixed at $1,000 per year and the board adjourned to meet Thursday night 20th.

The choice of Prof. Thompson for the superintendency of these schools is believed to have been a particularly wise one. He is an experienced and successful teacher and has fine qualifications for the duties of this position. He was for a number of years county superintendent for Lincoln county and principal of Piedmont Seminary, at Lincolnton. A year or two ago he was elected superintendent of the graded schools of Gainsville, Fla., but the health of his family at that place was such that he was compelled to resign. He then resumed his residence in Lincoln. We do not doubt that under his management the Statesville graded schools will be all that the warmest friend of the enterprise has ever hoped.—Statesville Landmark.

From the Gainsville, Fla. Sun:

In a single term, under the directions of Prof. D. Matt. Thompson, the Gainsville Graded Schools were raised to equal footing with the best school in the state. The Professor came highly recommended and gave universal satisfaction. During his residence in Gainsville, Prof. Thompson made many warm friends, and the regret is general, that the Florida climate so affects his health as to prevent his returning.

The Editors at Winston

Last week was a delightful time for the editors of North Carolina who attended the Press Association in the beautiful and hospitable twin-city of the South, WINSTON-SALEM. We have seen hospitality shown before, but we have never seen anything that surpassed that shown to the editors at Winston-Salem. We have seen manifestations of enterprise before, but where to find any more stir and enterprise than is going on at Winston-Salem, we do not know. In whatever direction you looked, you could see progress going on in the way of building and street improvement and all these things are done on a large scale. The eye of the visitor who goes to Winston certainly looks upon an object lesson of modern progress. The following address delivered by Hon. J. C. Buxton to the editors' association will give some idea of the twin-city's progress:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA PRESS CONVENTION: Ten years ago I had the honor of welcoming this body to this community, and again after the lapse of ten long years this pleasing duty has been assigned to me. I repeat what I said at that time—this community opens her arms wider, and bids you a heartier welcome than she could to any other representative body that ever assembled within her corporate limits, for the reason that the newspapers have done more towards making known to the outside world, what we are doing in contributing to the material development of North Carolina, than any other medium that could have been devised—and when we meet one of your body, we feel like shaking him by the hand and bidding him welcome to our town. The editor of a daily or weekly newspaper is a moulder and leader of thought in any community, and his power—either for good or evil is felt whenever he speaks to the public through his columns, and this being true—how careful and wise a man occupying such a responsible position should be. He should endeavor to make up his mind, first, what is right and stand to that, and not be driven from acting from principle, to the position of trying to catch the popular favor by advocating measures which he knows are not right, just, honest or practical.

When you were here in 1881 the population of Winston-Salem was 4191. In 1891 it will reach 15,000 an increase of 10,000. The taxable value of our property in the corporate limits of Winston-Salem 1881 was $900,000. In 1891 it is $5,320,433, an increase of $4,321,058, in ten years. In 1881 our banking capital was $250,000. In 1891 it is $500,000, an increase of $250,000. In 1881 our tobacco industries numbered eighteen. In 1891 they numbered fifty, an increase of thirty-two and the output is ten times as great. We had only one rail road in 1881, twenty-eight miles long. We now have three rail roads with two hundred and forty miles of track. In 1881 we had no Graded Schools, and only one or two small private schools with less than three hundred scholars. In 1891 we had not less than 15,000 white girls and boys at public and private boarding and day schools, within our corporate limits. Within the past ten years several of our old church buildings have been pulled down and magnificent structures, costing more than $60,000, have been erected. I might give you many other items of this character, showing what we have done towards building up this section of our State but these figures, which are not exaggerated, will serve to give you an insight into something at least of our progress. Without desiring to detract anything from the progress of some of our sister towns, but rejoicing in their continued prosperity, we differ from them in one or two particulars. Ours is neither an imported wealth, nor is it lodged in the hands of a few millionaires; but is very generally distributed, so that the failure, if such a thing should happen, of one or more of our largest dealers does not mean the ruin of any one else in the community. There are men, to-day, in our town, who are justly entitled to be quoted to be worth from a hundred thousand to a quarter million of dollars, who twenty years ago were plow boys, on their farms, not exceeding one hundred miles from Winston. We are proud to own such citizens. But gentlemen I will not detain you longer. I might allude to the formation and prosperity of several of our land companies. You will doubtless, visit their fields of operations while here, where you will see the wonderful work which they have accomplished in so short a time. We again bid you welcome, gentlemen, during your stay with us, to call upon us for anything that will contribute to your pleasure or happiness. We shall take pleasure in serving you. Mr. H. A. London, of the Chat-ham Record responded in a very graceful manner. His remarks were impromptu and pleasant to hear. He alluded to the welcome of Winston-Salem. That they never did things by halves. He felt that the compliment paid was to the Press of the State, in knowledge, to our enterprising citizens, and high tribute to the ladies, were duly appreciated, for its human nature to feel some degree of pride when compliments are bestowed from worthy sources. Though brief, the response of Mr. London was lucidly given and happily received.

Death of Mrs. Jas. K. Polk. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 14.—Surrounded by a few loving friends and relatives, Mrs. James K. Polk, relict of the eleventh President of the United States, departed this life at 7:30 o'clock this morning, peacefully and quietly, in full possession of her mental faculties. Mrs. Polk has been in perfect health until Wednesday, p. m., when on returning from a short drive was taken suddenly ill, from which she never rallied. Had she lived until the 4th of September next she would have been 18 years beyond the allotted time of three score and ten. The cause of her death was simply exhaustion resulting from old age. Bells throughout the city are mournfully tolling and sympathy and regret are heard from masses of people as they gaze upon the bulletins announcing the death of the honored and beloved lady, who spent her years among the people she loved so well, and who respected her as yet one of the noblest of her sex. As one no arrangements have been decided upon for interment.

If the ladies would abandon cosmetics and more generally keep their blood pure and vigorous by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, naturally fair complexions would be the rule instead of the exception, as at present. The Charlotte News says: President Polk made two speeches before the Maryland Alliance in Baltimore. Among other things he said: For twenty-five years I have been in public life. I have never found myself fighting in the front rank of God's noble men till I struck the Farmers' Alliance. Let us stand by our principles till the last man falls in the fight, and then the volunteers will come up and take our places. Men, citizens, farmers, stand together for every principle of our organization, and a glorious triumph awaits us. They told us there were divisions in our platform at Ocala. They who proclaimed divisions did not know us. There were no divisions. We do not know what they are, thank God; and in that spirit we will proclaim and fight for the triumph of our principles.
