The Extra Section.

The coming exita session of Conin at probability us a long one. it warm, and the tariff question will | mington Star. make it a long one.

The extra session was called to meet in August' for the especial purpose of dealing with the Shers man bill, but it was simply anticipating by a month or so the extra session which it was generally bethe ver hore in the First | heved would be called anyway early in the Pall, as early, perhaps, as September and not later than Ocmanner or presenting and of con- toher. Then the reason urged for the less meetings are the Mr. the early calling was to consider the tariff question, and to get to work as soon as possible to give the ofor it is as making a people rener from the operous burmyonely and o reful can dens imposed by the McKinley tariff. For the present this seems to and find its the year best and have been lost sight of, or been to the pulse to till the of overshadowed by the silver ques-The silver quest on is an important one and it is imperatively necessary that it should be settled in some way, but the tariff question is also an important one, even more so than silver to the people at large, and there are special reasons why the work of reform should be promptly enterred upon. That was the great issue in the compaign and was the issue on which Mr. Cleve. land was nominated. It was rung The resolution Bower was here on the forom and in the press, and Manday and celled on the every where the Republican campargners had to mest it and defend it as best they could. It was dis-TATED STATES DEPART | cussed five times as much as the silver question was and that accounts for the revolution which for the first time in thirty years put the Government completely in the hands of the Democratic party.

The Democratic Convention at Chicago in its platform denounced the Sherman bill as a "cowardly makeshiff," and pronounced in fas vor of a conditional free coinage of silver, but these were both regarded in the canvass as subordinate to the great, looming issue of tariff reform. So much in earnest were the people on that, that some papers arged Mr. Cleveland to call an extra session of Congress at once and begin the work then, and there was some disappointment because that was not done. Republican papers have been twitting us with the tardiness shown in dealing with the McKinley bill, and are endeavoring to create the impression that the Democrats, now that the responsibility of giving the country a better tariff than the to tackle the task. There are special reasons wby this work should not go over to the regular session. Delay will give color to the assertious of Republican editors and politicians that the Democrats are not anxious to begin it. The people expect it and will not be satisfied with dilatory move-

But there is another reason which will and should have weight among those who look ahead and keep their eyes on the political field There will be elections next Fall in about eight States, some of them very close States, and some of them now Democratic for the first time since 1860. In all of them tariff reform was the issue in the last election, and on that the Democrats carried some of them if not all, Congress ignores that question in the extra session how can it be an issue in the coming elections, and if nothing be done with it what reason have we to beleive that the Democrats can continue held those that are close? The voters who severed their connection with the Repubican party and acted with the Dem ocratic party for the first time may cenelude that a party which can take tariff reform so easy is not much interested in it, and tha they didn't gain much by their change of base. It is of vital importance that the coming Congress should turnish the Democrats of those States with the assurances that we were in honest earnest when we made tariff reform the in the last House have about the Congress may not finish the work before these Fall elections take pixes, but it can do enough to convince the people that it intends to carry out the party pledges in good faith and expeditionsly as possible. Enough should be done to at least to show the people what is contempiated and what they have to expect in the way of reform.

Whether the silver question. which may be given precedence, be disposed of quickly or slowly. the next thing in order will be theques gr as will be a warm one, and will tion of tariff reform, to which the party is solemnly committed and The salver men are going to make a upon which there is a mainty of hard light for silver, which will make | sentiment among Democrats .- Wils

War talk is again heard in Washington and, as usual, the naval officers are hoping that there may be something in it. It is not complimentary to the British government. which is pledged by formal treaty to abide by the decision of the arbitrators in the Behring Sea dispute, that so many people should be willing to believe that the massing of warships and troops in the Pacific indicates a disposition to dispute by force the decision of the arbitrators, should it be against England, as it is generally believed it will be, but more than one occasion in the past displayed some very queer ideas of the measing of international bonor-American arbitrators are concerned. thriving business. The commercial supremacy of the world les between the two nations, and that either of them will surrender the field peacably to the other is not probable. No man can mingle with the prominent and respective men from all sections of the country who come to Washington without becoming convinced that a war with Eugland would be very popular, particularly if England should be he aggressor. A centest over the House doorkeepership and Sergeant-at-Arms is beginning to get quite spirited. Strong claims are being made by the friends of several candidates for postmaster of the House, but only one for the clerkship, and so far none for chaplain.

There are a number of democrats in the House who are in some pars ticulars the peers of any men who ever served therein but if there is any one of them who possesses preeminently all the qualities of a good leader he is known at this time. It may be because there are so many able democrats in the House that no one of them has distinguished himself above a score of his cols leagues, this making it appear that the party lacked a leader, such as Sam Randall or Orpheus Kerr was Whatever the cause of this coudition of affairs may be it offers a splendid opportunity to the new members to come to the front.

Mr. Catchings has the same idea that most of the democrats who served necessily for the adoption of a rule by the next House that will prevent a few men tieing the House up whenever they are so inclined, and he agrees with Speaker Crisp in thinking that the proper way to do this is to adopt a rule giving the majority of the House the right to decide when a vote shall be taken upon any measure. That such a rule would expedite business carnot be doubted, and it would not be open to the objections raised against the obnoxious Reed rules. because it would place the authoristy for shutting off fillibustering in the hands of a majority of the House, instead of the committee on Rules, which was but another name for Reed in the last republican House. R. L. Abernethy in Morganton Herald: The first idea called up in the mind of a visitor when for the first time be looks upon the granduer and magnificence of the work of Mr George W. Vanderbilt, is that us the towering pyramide of Egypt, or the magnificent structure of Solomon's Temple. It would be folly in me to attempt anything like a plenary description and of that stupendons edifice, or even the faintest dea of its grand and beautiful surroundings.

To look upon its ponderous stones its massive pillars; its extensive and georgeous floral departments; 118 towering walls, cemented and covered with polished marble or grauite; its huge and pondercus wrought iron beams joist, and girders, some weighing near a thousand tous; its sculptured and decorated towers, its arched and figured domes, crowds the mind with such a sense of magniticence, grandeur and beauty that sickens the brain with the weight of its glory, and you instfactively turn to less stupendous objects for Trains, laden with material of every conceivable kind, ruu from Butmore to the fine building from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., every day about carry up the bundreds of workmen every morning from Biltmore where they board at night, and bring them back to the evening. The rock-cutters work 8 hours per day at 50 cts per hour. The head workman gets $10 a day. The painters and car. penters work 9 hours per day, and receives from $2.50 to $4 per day The whole cost per day to Mr. Van, terbilt is about $2,100. His treight bill at the depot, I learned from Mr. R msom the agent, averages monthiv about $60,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt has 100 milk cows. 100 carriages, and 100 horses, and he is now gone to Kentucky to purchase more horses. He bas just purchased 20,000 acres of forest ands to Transylvanie, which he inends to enclose with an iron fence or a game park.
