Fire At Ruckingham.

Rockingham. N.C., Mar. 6.-Fire night about 2 o'clock, but it was promptly checked and subdued by active workers.

The sad feature of the occurrence is the fact that a poor drunkman, Geo. Gardner, was suffocated in an upstairs room before help could reach him.

He had retired in a stupidly drunken condition, and a theory is that the lamp left burning by him on the table exploded, and the burbing oil soon penetrated the floor and spread rapidly between floors and walls.

When discovered the dense smoke was issuing from the apartment above and made access up the stairs impossible, but a thing and does not besitate to say ladder was prosure t, and ascent so.
