

Must Not Break Up Birds' Nest.

As this is the season of the year when birds are making their nests and laying their eggs, we wish to warn boys and some grown folk that they must not wantonly destroy these nests and eggs.

The birds not protected by this law are English sparrows, owls, hawks, crows, blackbirds, jacksnaws and rice-birds. Their nests and eggs may be destroyed, but you must not destroy the nest or eggs of such birds as partridges, turkeys, doves, robins, snipes, mockingbirds, etc.

Stolen sweets frequently upset a man's digestive apparatus.

Some candidates are like the itch—they set people to scratching.

Many a man thinks he is good at heart because his conscience troubles him.

The faith cure has no effect on love. Only absence of faith cures that disease.

THEIR REVENGE.

A firm of London engineers recently had a contract to put a heating plant in a country church. There was a local plumber who coveted the contract.

The same firm set up a complete heating apparatus in a big London store. These operations entailed, of course, derangements of daily life in the shop.
