Struck Court House and Opera House.

Preceding a good rain yesterday afternoon, there were several sharp cracks of lightning. One of these, a very heavy one, struck the spire of the court house, jumped to the telephone and telegraph wires that surround the square, and also ran down the metal water pipes on the court house. Several pieces were torn off the spire but no great damage was done. The same bolt, or one almost at the same instant, struck the opera house and knocked several bricks off the rear end.

Satisfied with Judge Cooke. Union county people seem to be well satisfied with Judge Cooke, who held his first term of court here last week. A member of the bar said this morning that Judge Cooke's knowledge of the law was exact, that he was a most quick and accurate thinker, and withal a fine judge. The people like him because he tries to put down crime. He comes back next court, and with the good help of Solicitor Robinson, who is doing fine work against law breaking, justice will not be slow.

Shooting Affair in Buford. Last Friday night two young men of the Altan neighborhood, W. T. Kizer and Charles Lowery, met at Altan and took up the discussion of some difficulties that existed between them. The talk resulted in a fight in which Lowery was shot in the thigh quite seriously. Dr. S. A. Stevens was phoned for and attended to the wound. Kizer was committed to jail by Esq. J. C. Lane, and Judge Cooke ordered him to be held until the doctor certified that Lowery was out of danger. He is yet in jail, but as Lowery seems to be getting on all right, it is probable that Kizer will soon be granted bail.

A Tribute to Miss Amelia Hurley. Prof. M. B. Dry, principal of The Wingate School, writes the following letter to The Gastonia Gazette, concerning one of his pupils, whose sad death occurred at Wingate on August first: "This sketch is written by her teacher in memory of Miss Amelia who was a student of the Wingate school and who died at Wingate Aug. 1st, 1903, just one week after having returned to re-enter school. Amelia was an ideal student— a kind hearted and sweet faced girl. She was loved by her teachers and school mates and by all who knew her. She was not only an ideal student but an ideal Christian. Often have I asked the question, 'Why should one be taken so young and so promising?' Invariably the answer comes, 'God only knows.' Death at any age is mysterious, but not more so than life itself. These laments of ours go throbbing on day after day, month after month, and year after year until sooner or later the mysterious mechanism stops and we call this death. We say the spirit has taken its flight. In the bright happy days of youth we don't expect death but sometimes it comes and we stand appalled before its sudden and awful work."

"Death is always sad, but when it comes to the young it is doubly so. Teachers and school mates are overwhelmed with sorrow, and parents and brothers and sisters give up their loved ones with bleeding hearts. "I never had a better student than the subject of this sketch. Her face we can never see again on this earth, but she has left a record that shall shine in the minds and hearts of those who knew her like the beautiful stars."

The Keely Institute. In another column in today's paper will be found the advertisement of the Greensboro Keely Institute. It was established in October 1891, and each year has witnessed a steady growth in the splendid work that it has done. For the last five years it has occupied the old Governor Morehead mansion—a picture of which accompanies the advertisement. Hundreds of eminent North Carolinians—well known professional men, merchants and farmers—who have been relieved of the drink and drug habits, bear testimony to the efficacy of this marvelous cure. Colonel W. H. Osborn, mayor of Greensboro, is the president of the Institute, and it does what it claims to do. If you need this wonderful cure or have a friend who is afflicted, a letter to The Keely Institute at Greensboro, N. C., might result in doing much good.

Cut Off the Heads of Her Children. Columbia, S. C., Special in Charlotte Observer. One of the most brutal crimes ever committed in South Carolina occurred yesterday in Collettsville, in so remote a district that not until tonight did the facts reach Columbia. Lizzie Aiken, a colored woman of about 40 years of age, killed two of her children by cutting off their heads with an axe. It is said that their heads were completely severed from their bodies, not a nerve, vein or other ligament being left to connect the two. It appears that an effort was made to dispose of the bodies, for a fire had been kindled around the corpse of the younger child. The woman has been committed to jail, and is thought to be insane. Both of the children were girls, one five years of age, and the other three.

From an Illinois exchange we get this story of the sickest duck we have heard of for many a day. A passenger on a Wabash train pretended to be ill. He opened his grip and took out a hot-water bag which he got the porter to fill with boiling water. Then he opened his luncheon basket, took out a piece of steak warmed it on the water bag. After he had eaten the steak, he unscrewed the stopper of the water bag and poured himself out a cup of coffee. He had the grounds in the bag all the time. We have been hard at work on a preparation that we hope will turn out all right. It has been a dull time in a dry town and we have become an inventor to keep from going crazy. We have invented a combination salad dressing and hair tonic which lays over any thing that ever came down the pike. It will cure baldness, and it's a delicious dressing for tomatoes, lettuce and cold meats. Besides that, it is a good shoe polish and will remove grease spots from old clothes, and is the best toothwash we have ever seen. Our fortune is made.—Hardeman (Tenn.) Free Press.

"Have you anything to say," asked the judge, "before the sentence is pronounced upon you?" "I have, said the woman, and she began. When the judge lay dying of old age they brought word that she was still saying it."

MONROE TITLES SHAKY.

If You Own Monroe Dirt You Had Better be on the Lookout According to a Stranger Who Says His Folks Own It. The news that there are claimants for 200 acres of land in the heart of Monroe may come as a surprise to the citizens of that attractive town, and the intelligence that the claimants are contemplating enforcing their demands through the channels of litigation may disturb some of the property owners who might be affected. It is a fact that there are claimants for about half the land inside the corporate limits of Monroe, and it is in the center of town, too. When Union county was cut off from Mecklenburg and Ason, about the year 1842, the Crump family owned a quantity of land upon which the town of Monroe, the county seat, was established. An impression prevails among the heirs of that family that they are to-day the rightful owners of the most valuable real estate in the town, and an investigation is now being made with a view to testing their claims in the courts. A descendant of the Crump family was in Charlotte today to interview the lawyers on the question but has not yet retained counsel, probably for the reason that he has not found a lawyer who shares his confidence in the validity of the claim. An occupant of the law building was this afternoon approached by a Union county farmer who said: "I want to talk to you about a case I've got. I wanted to see Mr. Neal Pifer, but I'm in a hurry and I guess you'll do. You're a lawyer, ain't you?" Upon being assured that he was conversing with a lawyer, the Union County man proceeded: "They, some of my folks, axed me to come to Charlotte and see a lawyer about some deeds our folks has got to about half the land in Monroe. The deeds are recorded in the court house in Monroe and the land is ours all right. What we want to know is, can we hold it?" "Who owns the land now?" asked the attorney. "The land belongs to the nearest heirs, of course. Ain't you lawyer enough to know that. If I have deeds to land, who else could it belong to? If it don't belong to me, I'd like to see who it does belong to. But what we want is for some sharp lawyer to take hold of it for us and show them fellers in Monroe that we're going to have our rights. Yes, sir, all them nice store houses and other big buildings, including the court house, is ours, and when we once get our hands on it, we'll show 'em a trick or two. Them fellers has been living off our family long enough, now we are going to take possession of what's lawfully ours, if we can get some keen lawyer to do the taking for us."

In their yearly meeting at High Point, the Quakers came to the conclusion that officers of the church should not use tobacco. A destructive storm visited Albemarle Saturday night. The Pope was crowned Sunday and great pomp and ceremony. You can get ice at Cadieu & Wallace's. Phone 36. Pure apple vinegar for pickling purposes at Flow's.

"Yes," said a Larcen Deacon, "the works of providence are manifold. The omnipotence of the Almighty is seen in all things, great small, high and low. The good Lord, who made the great mountains, made the smallest insect that creeps over them; the good Lord, who made the mightiest ocean, made the smallest fish that swims in it; the good Lord, who made the man, the greatest of His works, made the smallest flower of the field. The good Lord, brethren, who made me made a daisy!"
