

We Need the Negro in our Business.

To the Editor:—At the risk of being boiled in oil for heresy, I beg to submit that no writer on the negro question whose article has come to my notice has touched the real, vital and pressing negro problem which we of this good day have to face. That problem, as every man or woman who is put upon his voir dire will swear, is three-fold:

1. How to get a competent negro woman in the kitchen.

2. How to get and keep a kind and trustworthy negro woman in the nursery.

3. How to get and keep plenty of negroes in the cotton patch.

Now, as I am a lawyer and have never been a candidate, I have had no means of acquiring sufficient knowledge of agriculture to entitle me to be heard upon the cotton patch proposition, but on the kitchen and nursery question I can speak "as one having authority."

I am 42 years of age, and have had catarrh of the head for over half of my life, as a result of scarlet fever, followed by typhoid fever. I got so bad that I was almost constantly coughing and clearing my throat. The catarrh greatly impaired my eyesight, and the hearing in one ear, and reduced my weight to 110 pounds.

I tried nearly every catarrh remedy advertised, besides a great many different physicians' treatments, all of which failed.

I had heard and read of Peruna, and finally decided to try it two months ago. I have now taken seven bottles, and weigh 172 pounds. Never felt happier or merrier. Feel tip top.—A. E. KIDD.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

off for any other labor on earth. Mr. John Temple Graves is a brilliant orator; but I submit, when he talks about exporting my cook and your nurse, he is undermining the very foundations of society, and an injunction should be sued out against him requiring him to shut up. In a recent issue of your paper you said, speaking of the negro question, that "nobody's opinion is worth much."

You were absolutely correct, and why? For the very same and very sufficient reason that nobody's opinion would be worth much as to what sort of timber the North Pole is made of. The fruitful writers on this subject violate every principle of logic by assuming the existence of a condition in the South which is absolutely non-existent. I repeat, there is no political or social negro problem. These questions are res adjudicata. We have fixed the negro's bounds and determined his habitation in perfect accord with his nature and necessities, and in the place assigned him he is, as a race, content to dwell. The constitutional amendment put him out of commission politically, and there is no sort of trouble about his social status. It is as hard for a white man to get into a social pew for which he is not scheduled as it is for a camel to do the needle act, and there need be no fear about the negro's doing so.

I insist that North Carolina, and most of the Southern States, have settled these questions wisely and well; that we are in no sort of trouble about them; and if the penny-a-liners in the North persist in getting excited and turning red in the face and saying bad words about a negro problem down here, then they will simply occupy the ridiculous position of the man who went into convulsions because he dreamed that his neighbor had the colic.

The only way the negro can become a problem is for newspaper and magazine writers to keep on calling him one. If there is not a let-up along this line, the negro will after a while deny that he is a negro and insist that he is a problem. All men know that the press is all powerful, and I submit that if the Southern press will at once begin to deny vehemently that we have a negro problem in the South; if it will daily call sharp attention to the peaceful and harmonious relations which actually exist between the races; if it will publish in big headlines that the South are the best friends the negroes have in the world, and that ninety and nine of the negroes fully understand this and appreciate it—if the press will adopt this course I will go bond that in a year the negro problem, so called, will be no more heard of.

Every one at all familiar with the construction of political platforms knows that it is just as easy to "point with pride" as it is to "view with alarm." It requires no greater strain upon the conscience to "congratulate" than it does to "deplore." And I suggest the following plank to be incorporated in the platform adopted by the next Democratic State convention: "We point with pride to the peaceful and friendly relations which exist between the whites and blacks in North Carolina. We congratulate the people that the Democratic party has in its wisdom and virtue removed all cause for prejudice and had feeling between the negro and white races by eliminating the negro from politics, and we congratulate the negro for recognizing that this was done for his ultimate good and for quietly submitting to the new order of things. We view with alarm the growing troubles which an unjust Republican policy

FOR TWENTY-ONE YEARS Catarrh Remedies and Doctors Failed—Pe-ru-na Cured.

MR. A. E. KIDD.

ELGIN, ILL.—In a very recent communication from this place comes the news that Mr. Arthur Ernest Kidd, a well-known architect of that city, has made complete recovery from catarrh of the head from which he had suffered for nearly a quarter of a century. He writes from 18 Hamilton ave.:

"I am 42 years of age, and have had catarrh of the head for over half of my life, as a result of scarlet fever, followed by typhoid fever. I got so bad that I was almost constantly coughing and clearing my throat. The catarrh greatly impaired my eyesight, and the hearing in one ear, and reduced my weight to 110 pounds.

I tried nearly every catarrh remedy advertised, besides a great many different physicians' treatments, all of which failed.

is engendering between labor and capital in the North. We deplore the existence of so many strikes and so much strife and bloodshed in States suffering under Republican misrule, and we cite these, our unfortunate sister States, to the peace and order and contentment which prevail throughout the South as an example of what Democracy, triumphant, can and will do for a people."

In all sincerity, Mr. Editor, I say, let the doctrine of good will be preached, and verily every word that is written will come to pass.

This article is not controversial. It is a plea for peace and for the diffusion among all classes and conditions in our beloved State of that perfect love which "casteth out fear." Let a policy of this sort be adopted and the "sounding of joy" of Dinah beating biscuits in the kitchen will again make the men of this country thank God for the room that is inside of them. The voice of Aunt "Cindy in the nursery, crooning, soft and low,

"Does' you cry, my honey, does' you weep no more," will again sweetly lead the little ones to the "Land by the Lillipup sea."

The fields will again be full of happy coons, working joyfully and singing of the "coal black gal and the watermill hangin' on de vine," and those sentinels whose beat is the sky-line will report that there is perfect peace and all is well—in Dixie.

T. W. BICKETT, Louisburg, N. C., Sept. 26, 1903.

Drinkers Being Put to It.

The dram drinkers are put to their wits' end to get liquor this winter. They say they could always get a Christmas dram heretofore, and they can't get one that now. I heard of one even that was a fruitless effort all over town to get some "blind tip," and then sat down on a rock, gave a long sigh and said, "Hain't the d—d Democrats played h—? I can't get a dram of liquor." He was a Republican, I am told. If the Democrats had passed the stringent liquor law, it has saved thousands of dollars in the pockets of the people of Union county, enabling them to pay more on their debts and buy something more substantial for their families.

Mr. Malcolm Cox of Mississippi is visiting his relatives and will remain until after Christmas.

Mr. J. T. Laney of Rock Hill is visiting relatives.

The Companion as a Christmas Gift.

The Youth's Companion is one of the few gifts that are always appropriate and yet within reach of the smallest purse. It brings to every member of the family something of interest, something of value—a story that cheers, an article that carries the reader into far-off countries or among men who govern, a sketch that amuses, a poem that puts a bit of truth in a new and convincing way, a page of pictures that holds the children spellbound. It is America's home paper—a paper received weekly in more than a million households in the United States.

If you desire to make a Christmas present of The Youth's Companion, send the publishers the name and address of the person to whom you wish to give The Companion, with $1.75, the annual subscription price. They will send to the address named The Companion's Christmas packet, all ready for Christmas morning, containing the Christmas number. The Companion calendar for 1904, lithographed in twelve colors and gold, and subscription certificate for the fifty-two issues of 1904.

The new subscriber for 1904 will receive all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1903 free from the time of subscription, also The Companion calendar for 1904, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

Annual announcement number, fully describing the principal features of The Companion's new volume for 1904 will be sent to any address free.

RURAL ROUTE NUMBER ONE.

A Writer Tells All About It, and Also Puts in a Few Words About the Editors.

Rural free delivery route No. 1 is composed of parts of seven public roads. Its entire length is 30 1/2 miles. It crosses four creeks over five bridges, and one creek which has no bridge at present.

There are 95 mail boxes to be served, and an indefinite number of flag stations where the carrier is liable to be called down for various purposes. The patrons and carrier get along very nicely, and if you hear anything to the contrary you may just say that it is a mistake and must refer to some other route. In passing over route No. 1 you pass by six churches and nine school houses and a host of as good people as live anywhere. They may not have as much "book learning" as some folks, but they have ordered the books; and a man up in Monroe by the name of Beasley, or something like that, is doing all he can to help them catch up with the city folks. So you had just as well put us down in the front ranks for we are coming. The first month there were 1,300 pieces of mail handled; the last month about 1,000. So you see we are not losing ground.

Rural free delivery is the biggest thing that Uncle Sam has ever done for the country people, and the only people that do not appreciate it (that have common sense) are the ones that do not have it. All intelligent people in town and country are glad that the day has come when the hitherto isolated farmer has close connection with the city's business world. It makes country life less lonely. It is a great educator. There are boys on this route not more than "half an hour" high, that can order anything they want from anywhere; while their grandfathers, under the old regime, would have to go to a lawyer or merchant to do the same thing. Rural delivery has many strong friends. Business men and the intelligent men of all professions, and first of all the editors of our local papers, have shown a very commendable spirit in favoring rural free delivery. If the editors of local papers had been narrow and selfish, they would have opposed it, for fear the big dailies would crowd them out; but I am glad that it has had the contrary effect. Each of the three county papers that are distributed on this route have doubled their subscription lists since the service commenced. By the way, I reckon the editors are a right clever set of fellows both in and out of school. Sometimes a thing happens to a fellow that he would rather not know himself; but the first thing he knows the editor has got it and published it to the world. Some say you must not believe everything you see in the papers; but as to that I hope you will excuse me from expressing an opinion (in writing), for the editors and I are on mighty good terms, so far as I know. I think well of them, but if I were to tell my opinion of what they say about a man getting drowned and one thing and another, they might get mad and raise a fuss with me. And let me tell you, there are two classes of people that I want no fuss with. The first is a woman. I know she could not talk me so far it would not be a fair fight. The other is an editor, who I am told has a real live devil employed to do his dirty work! That's what they say, but don't tell them nothing about what I said, for we are mighty good friends, and I was only telling what the other fellow said, anyhow. ALPHIE.

Kills His Family and Himself.

Roscoe Derby, a machinist, about 45 years old, exterminated his family early today by shooting his wife, his three children and himself. The crime is believed to have been due to despondency over the impoverished condition of the family purse and the near approach of the Christmas-tide. The wife was killed first. She was sleeping by her husband's side in bed. Two of the children were killed as they ran through the house in the darkness of the early morning endeavoring to escape their merciless parent. The third child was killed in its bed, after his elder brother had been slain.

Fight Will Be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. R. Beall of Beall, Miss., has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her." Guaranteed by English Drug Co. Price 50c, and $1. Trial bottles free.

A New Cause for Short Crop.

Daniel J. Sully & Co., bankers and brokers of New York and experts in the cotton business, have published a long letter in which they admit that cotton is going to twenty-five cents a pound before many crops more have been made. But their reason for this, as for the shortness of the present crop, is a little out of the usual. They say:

"Paradoxical as it may seem, the curtailment of the cotton crop is a natural result of the growth of the cotton seed industry. A quarter of a century ago the cotton seed was the bane of the cotton planter. He had great difficulty in getting rid of his surplus seed. It was burned, cast into the rivers, used to fill gullies and hollows and hauled away at no little expense. But since the discovery of the uses of cotton seed meal, the demand for the seed has grown to great proportions. The South is dotted with cotton seed oil mills, and what was once regarded as refuse now brings nearly $100,000,000 a year to the South. This would be a magnificent asset were it not for the fact that the oil mills demand the heaviest and richest of the seed, leaving only the poorest for the planter to put back in the ground for the planting of his next crop. The fierceness of competition is such and the prices paid for seed are so large that within the last five or six years the planters have impoverished their seed supply to the utmost limit. Poor seed brings a poor cotton yield. Increased acreage is no remedy, even if it were possible under present conditions to extend the acreage much beyond its present limits."

It is news to us that the smallness of the crop is due to poor seed. We have thought it was due to poor land, poor cultivation and unfavorable weather. Can some of our practical farmers give some light on this subject?

ASHBURNHAM, ONT., TESTIFIES TO THE GOOD QUALITIES OF CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

Ashburnham, Ont., April 18, 1903. I think it is only right that I should tell you what a wonderful effect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has produced. The day before Easter I was so distressed with a cold and cough that I did not think to be able to take any duties the next day, as my voice was almost choked by the cough. The same day I received an order from you for a bottle of your cough remedy. I at once procured a sample bottle and took about three doses of the medicine. To my great relief the cough and cold had completely disappeared and I was able to preach three times on Easter day. I know that this rapid and effective cure was due to your cough remedy. I make this testimonial without solicitation, being thankful to have found such a God-sent remedy. Respectfully, E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., Rector of St. Luke's Church, To Chamberlain Medicine Co., This remedy is for sale by Dr. S. J. Welsh and C. N. Simpson, Jr.

Probable.

When Uncle Joe Cannon was a youngster in North Carolina he was taken to the circus in a neighboring town by an old family servant called "Uncle Eph." In one of the cages was a large ape, and Uncle Eph stood before it a long time gazing into a face which seemed strangely like his own. At last he found his tongue, and said, "How is yer?" There was no response.

"How is yer?" asked Uncle Eph again. Still no response.

The old darkey looked at his counterpart admiringly. "Dat's right," he said. "Dat's right! Don't say a word, else as sho' as yer do, dey'll put a hoe in yo' hand an' set yer ter work."

Killed His Brother's Widow.

Jealous because his brother's widow, Mrs. Florence Lee, intended to marry another man, Samuel W. Lee, aged 30, of Kansas City shot and killed the woman in her rooms in Holmes street, and then made a tragic effort to end his own life. Soon after his brother died, a year ago, Lee became attentive to Mrs. Lee and repeatedly urged her to marry him. Wednesday when he intercepted a letter to the woman from a man whom she admitted she intended to marry, a quarrel ensued. After vainly trying to persuade her to marry him, Lee fired twice at the woman. Both shots took effect in Mrs. Lee's breast, but she managed to reach the door and tried to escape. Lee, pursuing, fired twice more at the fleeing woman, who fell dead on the stairway. Lee then fired two bullets into his own breast and was trying to locate his heart for a third shot when neighbors broke into the room. Escaping from a rear door, Lee fled down the alley. Before he was captured and overpowered he cut his throat with a knife. He will die.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a seal is on the wrapper of every bottle of Scott's Emulsion.
