The commonest excuse for al-most every omitted duty is, "I didn't have time." And on the other hand we frequently hear it said, "We have all the time there whom she met at Newport. The is," which is true. The former story was confirmed by Mr. Car. statement is not often true. It is used because it sounds plausible; it is not used by those who Heaver in New York about a year are careful either in the use of ago," he said. "Mr. Heaver was words or who value the exact

> There is an ethical element in Ethics is the science of duty. It has to do with everything that concerns us as moral agents Everything we do is done in two elements: time and space. In so far, then, as we are concerned with time it has no ethical significance. All must accept this. It needs no proof.

It is not enough to say with Bulwer Lytton that Time is That is also true many But it is only a commercial view. We are very apt to think of eternity as sacred, because, I suppose, we also think of God at about the same time. But time is no less sacred. God has just as much to do with time as with eternity. Eternity is but time grown large beyond our "Time is eternity, Pregnant with all eternity can give.

The easiest way to appreciate the ethical value of time is to begin by practicing the business man's motto, "Do it now." Promptness is a virtue, Many things might as well not be done at all as not done promptly, at the right time. We say much about opportunity, but we forget A strength tonic that brings that it is the time element which rich, red blood. Makes you strong, makes opportunity so critical healthy and active. Think of trying to run a railroad without punctuality and exactness!

The ethical element of time re minds us also of appointed times
-engagements. Unless an engagement is kept by both parties to it, one robs the other of some time, and thereby, it may be, keeps him from some other duty as well. Any waste is wrong and time is no exception. And there is a penalty for this waste of time it is in the weakening rans living in Mecklenburg coun of character. For we all show ty has been taken. There are 594 what we are by the way we use veteraus in that county. Wonder time; that is, whether we recognize its ethical element or not.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.
