Philadelphia is said to be the most the city and State, that they have seemed not to care and take the whole thing as a matter of course. But the latest deal of the corrupt aldermen was so monstrous that even Philadelproposition was to lease the gas plant, which the city itself owns, to a private company for seventy-five years. The company bought enough aldermen to pass the measure, but fortunately for the city, the mayor was too good a man to stand for it and he vetoed the lease. With the dogged to do what they set out to do, the aldermen were preparing to pass the measure over the mayor's veto if possible, and a great fight was prevented by the withdrawal of the proposition asking for the lease. A big gathering, led by Charles Emory Smith, the other day adopted the following reso-

"Resolved, that we, the citizens of Philadelphia, without regard to party or place, do hereby before God and man, pledge our life, liberty and sacred honor to the complete overthrow of despotic methods in municipal affairs and the restoration of American principles for which our fathers fought, and which shall ever be our glory while we remain worthy to be called their children."

Think of what must be the situation when such resolutions become necessary! The shackles of corruption are too strongly riveted to be broken at once, but if the Philadelphians can realize what a situation they are in and get well ashamed of it, something will have been gained All honor to the honorable mayor!

What is known as simultaneous chess is a very popular recreation of the masters. In this as in blindfold chess one man plays many games, but with all the boards in sight. O. S. Bernstein of Berlin recently engaged seventy-five boards at one and the same time. Pillsbury has engaged as high as fifty. The strain the mind is not so great as in blindfold chess, and the master, walking around and around circles of boards, is able to engage them, one after another, with comparative Nevertheless, a highly specialized mind is necessary for a successful performance. Naturally such a mind concentrated on one board displays the most precise foresight, for not only does the master know fairly well in advance just the kind of moves he will make throughout a game, but his knowledge of its technique enables him to divine the kind of moves his opponent will make. It comes very near to mind reading.
