Regular services at the Baptist church next Sunday. Subjects—11 a. m.: "Slowing Up"; 8:15 p. m.: "People Who Live Among Pots Need Not Get Black." Sunday school at 4:30 p. m. The public cordially invited to all services.

Mr. H. M. Mullis, a well known citizen and farmer who lived about five miles southwest of this place, died very suddenly last Wednesday night about the midnight hour. He had been right sick for a few hours on Sunday before his death, but was much better Monday and Tuesday and part of Wednesday. He was taken very ill Wednesday night and lived but a short time.

Heart failure was the cause of his death. Mr. Mullis was a member of Hermon Baptist church. His remains were buried at Waxhaw Baptist church Friday. He is survived by a wife and nine children. He was a successful farmer and a good citizen.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Mr. W. S. Blakeney got a letter Saturday saying that the Jefferson Improvement Club had elected him an honorary member and also appointed him on a committee to meet the railroad people in regard to the extension of the Charlotte, Monroe and Columbia railroad, which is to be constructed from Jefferson to Monroe. The Jefferson folks evidently don't intend to lie idle and do nothing for the improvement of their town. They seem to have a working club in fine order, a thing which every town that desires to do more than merely wobble along must have.

Dr. J. R. Jerome of Georgeville, Cabarrus county, was over last week with his brother, Mr. T. J. Jerome, and while here purchased a farm near town. The tract is the Burr-ell Brook old place, a mile and a half south of town, consists of 160 odd acres, and was bought from Mr. J. R. English; consideration, $3,500. Dr. Jerome contemplates giving up the practice of medicine on account of his health, and should he do so he will likely build and move to this farm next fall.

The Jackson Club is making arrangements to get into its quarters in the new Shute building. There will probably be a house warming soon, maybe on the third of next month. In the meantime every business and professional man in town should seek membership in the club. It is a business institution and designed to help in the upbuilding of the town and also to give an opportunity for pleasant social intercourse to its members.

Messrs. J. E. Eiford, W. M. Niven and J. E. Dees will open a marble yard in Sanford on August 15th. The two latter are cutters of fine skill and one of them will go to Sanford and one will remain in Monroe while Mr. Eiford will go backward and forward. Mr. Eiford returned from Sanford Saturday where he went to complete arrangements. He has already secured a building.

The difference between the several country telephone switchboards and the Monroe exchange was settled last Thursday. Representatives from each side met and entered into a written contract that all the exchanges should be connected with the Monroe board free, as heretofore, for a space of five years. This was satisfactory all around and no new exchange will be put up.

Misses Wilma and Osee Long, daughters of County Commissioner W. G. Long of Goose Creek, return Thursday from the Asheville Normal and Collegiate Institute. The former has just graduated with the honors of her class, and in addition writes the class will in class day exercises.

The directors of the Monroe Hospital have completed the purchase of the Ashcraft and Stewart hospital equipment, and just as soon as a trained nurse can be secured the hospital will be ready for work. It will be run for the present until other quarters can be secured in the same building.

The children of the Baptist congregation gave an entertainment last Tuesday evening that was very creditable to them and to the skill of Mrs. W. A. Lane who trained them. A good audience enjoyed the entertainment.

During the thunder cloud late Saturday afternoon lightning struck the old Methodist church building, situated in front of Griffin's stables. The ceiling was ripped up, a blind knocked off and window panes thrown out.

Now that the country phone connection has been restored, we hope our country friends will ring up and tell us any bits of news that may be current in the neighborhood. Also town friends.

A Tribute to the Memory of Mrs. George H. Atkinson from the Viriam Society of the Monroe Presbyterian Church.

Death has invaded our little band and taken from us our beloved manager, Mrs. Atkinson.

Words are inadequate to express our loss. We are as sheep without a shepherd, so sadly do we miss her gentle teachings and loving words of encouragement. May they be indelibly impressed upon our young hearts, and may we endeavor to follow the beautiful example set us by her, is our prayer; while we humbly submit to the will of Him who "doeth all things well."

LOUISE MORROW, KATHLEEN HALE.

Marriage of Thiss Crowell and Mr. Sikes Tomorrow Evening.

A marriage of much interest to people in different sections of the State will be solemnized at St. Luke's Lutheran church tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, when Mr. John Cuthbertson Sikes will lead to the altar Miss Maggie Harwood Crowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Crowell.

At the appointed hour the bridal party will enter the church in the following order: Misses Lizzie Sikes, Maud Sikes, Be Fairley and Nell Laney ribbon girls; Mr. C. B. Crowell of Raleigh with Miss Irene Bennett of Norwood, Mr. Dixon Sikes with Miss Pat Adams, Mr. Oscar Kochitzky with Miss Faye Bennett Gaddy, Mr. J. H. Beckley with Miss Mary Simpson, and the groom elect with his best man Mr. Albion Dunn of Scotland Neck. Miss Kate Fairley maid of honor followed by the little ring bearer, Master Frank Wolfe Dillon and the little flower girl Miss Hannah Blair, the bride elect with her brother Mr. W. C. Crowell. Just before the bridal party enters Miss Ashie Gaddy will sing "Because God made three in one," and Miss Annie Sanders will preside at the piano. The impressive ring service will be read Dr. G. D. Burnheim.

A reception will be given the bridal party at the home of the bride on Jefferson street, after which the bride and groom will leave for Baltimore, New York and other Northern cities.

On account of the limited space in the church only those who have cards will be admitted.

Miss Sallie McLean of Maxton and Miss Irene Bennett of Norwood arrived last night to be present at the wedding.

The young people are among the most popular in town. Each has scores of friends. The bride to be is a young woman of most lovable character, pretty and accomplished, of gentle manner and charming characteristics, loved by many friends and admired by many acquaintances. The groom is a young lawyer and business man of high standing, and a son of the late John C. Sikes. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College, and is a well educated and talented young man. He is as clever as can be and has a large circle of friends in a business, professional and a social way.

Notice.

The only cases to be called and tried at the special term of court, July 16, 1906, will be the Anson county lynching case and cases where the defendants are in jail. E. A. ARMFIELD, Clerk.

Talking With The People.

BILL ABRAHAM of Buford came to town the other day grunting heavily. This was so unusual a thing for the cherry philosopher of Buford that his friends were anxious. They discovered that he had climbed a sycamore tree the day before, fallen out, and broken a handful of ribs. Getting this much information was easy, but they stopped. They couldn't bear, why he climbed the sycamore tree.

The man Kendall, who turned State's evidence in the case of the lynchers in Anson and was a part of the mob that killed Johnson, evidently believed in keeping up appearances. On the day after the hanging, Kendall, we are informed, went to the home of the widow of the man who had been lynched, conduced with her, took her to the cemetery in his buggy, and while there at the burial of the man he had helped put out of the way, was called on to pray. He is said to have responded very feelingly and "put up a powerful prayer."

WHEN the showers began to fall and the stuff began to grow, before the rain got too monotonous, everybody was talking of how beautifully cotton was growing off. Even Capt. Henry Green got enthusiastic. Coming in from one of his rills he said the cotton along the railroad was so pretty and the land was in such good fix for working, it made him want to get into a cotton field one more and go at it like he used to. Our latest information on this subject is that he didn't need to have much enmity for the grass. However, we pass this subject over to the editor of Our Home for a full elucidation in the column of industrial news of the paper.

"THE time is on hand when the white women have got to do their own work and they had as well know it," said a citizen the other day. He continued and expressed the view that the schools ought to begin to give manual training. There is ample demand and ample room for something of this kind in our graded schools of the towns. The county schools do not need it so much. The tendency has been toward the school course too much with everything that comes along. But we will reach a sane basis after a while. A graded school course embracing eight or ten years could well make room for some manual training without sacrificing any mental training or culture. We do not believe in so-called practical training to the exclusion of mental training, discipline and culture. But there is ample room for both. The public school authorities are trying to do something by requiring agriculture to be taught and suggesting school gardens. A country boy does not need to be taught in school how to hold a plow, for he knows, but he does need to be taught why he plows. The day may come, and should shortly, when the girls can be taught in the schools how to sew and how to cook. Of course, some fellow is going to bob up and say that all the girls reared in the country know how already. If they do, they know more than the girls anywhere else. Less higher arithmetic, geography and dictionary, all of which are useless to nine tenths of the school children, could well be made up for in some useful manual training.

We believe that the backbone of the negro schools should be manual training.

THE talk about the desire on the part of the lawyers to get weak brethren on the juries, recalled a joke which the neighbors once had on a now prominent member of the local bar. It was before he became a lawyer. He had been summoned as a juror in a capital case, along with one of his neighbors. As the work of selecting the jury grew tedious, the neighbor remarked that they had as well go home as it didn't look like they were going to be called. "Yes," said the lawyer to be, "let's go, they will not take any sensible men on that jury." But his name was the very next one called, and they accepted him!

It is expected that the tournament will be one of the biggest events of the Fourth of July celebration here. This is a new event and will be naturally looked forward to with great interest. The knights, clad in the beautiful regalia as in the days of old, will make a spectacle, especially if some of them happen to be prior riders and fall from their mounts. The only man in these parts who ever sat a horse in a tournament is Dr. J. W. Stephenson—and it was a mule. That was in his young days in Alexander county. The rules of that tournament were peculiar. They provided that the rider who took the rings in the slowest time, instead of the quickest, should have the right to place the wreath upon his lady's brow. Thus, each fellow was interested in making his opponent's horse go fast and his own slow. Therefore, instead of putting steel and scourge to his own steel, he busied himself in belabouring his opponent's horse with a long hickory withe. But, instead of bringing a fast and fine horse to the charge, Dr. Stephenson rode the slowest old mule he could find in the county. That mule was used to hickory wites, and was of the kind that merely draws up a little or skews around when hit. He never thought of going faster. All the beating that the other fellows could do never bothered him, and his rider leisurely picked off every one of the rings, and was the knight who that day crowned the lady fair.

DR. GRIFLIN of Buford is 77 and not a pessimist. Last Saturday, when everybody was talking about the grass talking things, he said that while there was some grass on his place he had seen it ten times as bad.

LITTLE EMMLEY FLETCHER is another boy who deserves a place in the worker's column. None of the hands of his grandfather, Mr. E. M. Griffin, are half so anxious to be up and to the field of morning as he. He is eleven years old and his inclinations are straight to the farm. Emmley is one of the new farmers of the South who go in for work by machinery. Each day now when the weather permits he drives his four big mules to the field, gears them to a fourteen-disc harrow and drives with the best of the men all day. Mr. Griffin says no hand can cut more in a day than Emmley, and the pretty part of it is that he likes his job and goes at it like playing.

MR. T. P. DILLON'S furniture store is such a hospitable place for chicken cranks that Mr. A. M. Crowell has given it a suitable name—Shanghai Roost.

MR. JOHN Q. GRIFLIN, the good humored philosopher of east Monroe township, was in town yesterday. When some one mentioned the security of labor, Mr. Griffin made a remark that hits the bull's eye. "It is not so much the security of hands," he said, "as their worthlessness when you get them. If you have a half dozen in the wheat field and one breaks his cradle, the whole bunch will stop and wait for him to fix it. And as for plowing, why, I can take a bucket of water and make a field too wet to work!"

ONE of his neighbors sends in the following word picture: "E. D. Worley, the active grocer, sitting on his front piazza Sunday morning nursing his baby and singing, 'How Tedious and Tasteless the Hours!'"

For the Legislature. I intend to nominate myself a candidate for representative of 1 Union county at large in the Democratic primary. NEY MCNEELY.

MONROE BOTTLING WORKS.

Blew Up Horse With Dynamite.

Yesterday a well-to-do farmer, Solomon James, while driving out from the city, was made so angry by his horse balking just on the edge of town, near the Holiness church in South Greensboro, that he got a stick of dynamite, touched it off under the animal and blew the horse up. The horse's head was entirely severed from the body by the blast, and the body was terribly mangled, though the buggy was not damaged except the shafts were splintered and broken by the rude tearing of the horse's body from between them.

BEYOND the Rockies Lies the Ruins of Frisco: the great West in mourning, proud America in tears; the world in sympathy with the homeless thousands, millions of dollars flowing to a stricken city; what a liberal people we Americans are. But it was something else I wanted to say, and I must first admit that my building is not as high as the Rockies nor as broad as the great West; nor does my trade reach across America, and probably has not been heard of around the world; nor am I receiving millions, but I am getting part of it, and the price of my goods will prove that I am one among the liberal. So don't forget that I keep a full stock of Heavy and Fancy Groceries and Country Produce, the very best goods at the very lowest prices, and by fair and honest dealing we expect to build a trade in Monroe that will stand. We are here to stay, but before we settled in your lovely city we visited several towns and counties looking for a location, and actually stopped a few days in Charlotte, but what is Charlotte by the side of Monroe?
