I would stay here always if I could. I only wish that I could I love my dear old country, this dear old country, this dear South-land, endeared by so many hal-lowed memories. These are my people and I love them as perhaps they will never know. Their devotion, their love, their reverence for the memories of my husband and daughter touch my heart very deeply. I read with interest all the sweet and beautiful things said about them. I watch the beautiful celebrations held. I note how much is done to honor the memory of my husband and teach their children to do it too. I can never forget all the homage that these dear devoted people did my husband while be was living; how the old veterans loved him.
