Dr. J. E. Ashcraft has bought the W. C. Wolfe house on South Church street and will make it his home soon.

Anything under the sun to buy or sell gets in the eyes of the people if you put it in our special notice column. That column is read like local news.

Mrs. W. C. Wolfe of Sandy Ridge township will sell her personal property at auction at her home on Thursday. Mrs. Wolfe and children will move to Albemarle to live.

Mr. R. L. Thompson, of Sandy Ridge township, will have a sale on November 30, and will move to Anson county to manage a large farm for Mr. T. J. Shannon.

The local passenger trains which go from here in the morning to Chester and Charlotte, and return in the afternoon, will be taken off next Sunday.

In giving the names of the directors of the Monroe Insurance and Investment Company last week, the name of Mr. J. R. Shute was inadvertently omitted. See the company's ad.

Messrs. J. F. McManus and R. F. Knight have bought the grocery business of Mr. C. H. Richardson and will continue the business at the same stand and carry a full and up-to-date stock of goods.

Mr. W. C. McKelvie, who has been practicing law in Hutherfordton for four years, has located in Monroe. He is a good lawyer and will no doubt make a fine success in his home county. His office is in the law building.

The late cabbage crop in this section was a failure and the kraut makers are having to buy their cabbage for this purpose. Seven car loads of this vegetable have lately been sold on this market and more are on the way.

No services were held in the Baptist church Sunday, on account of the illness of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Thomas, who is suffering with rheumatism. Neither were there services at the Methodist church, the pastor being at conference.

The Journal was mistaken last week in giving the names of the magistrates and the constable elected in Huford township. The magistrates are L. A. Helms, A. M. Eubanks and W. P. Plyler. The constable is Mr. D. J. Melton.

Mr. J. M. Austin has bought the interest of his partner, Mr. Medlin, in the Five and Ten Cents Store and will continue to operate the business at the same stand. Mr. Austin is a straight, clever young man, worthy of trade and confidence.

A sale of lots is in progress today at the Fox place, in Chesterfield county, the present terminus of the Cheraw and Lancaster railroad. The new town is named Pageland. This is the point where the road would branch to Monroe if the Monroe line were built.

Mr. Horace Clark, assistant cashier of the Savings, Loan and Trust Company, is preparing to again become a country gentleman. He has bought five acres from Mr. F. H. Wolfe on the Willoughby road near the latter's home, and is preparing to build and live there. Mr. Bishop Clark will build his house, which will be a nice modern cottage.

Some time ago Mr. J. T. Cox, carrier on No. 7, reported that the section of his road over which Mr. T. L. Hinson is overseer, was in fine shape. We are informed that Mr. C. E. B. Parker, who was lately overseer of this section, before Mr. Hinson was appointed, also did fine work and turned his road over in splendid fix.

John Heron Williams, the negro boy who was sentenced to a term of fifteen years in the penitentiary at the July term of court for the killing of another boy, named Withers, at a colored school house in Marshville township in March, died of pneumonia while working on a railroad near Wilmington, where he with other convicts had been sent by the authorities, a week or two ago.

The bulletins of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station are very valuable to farmers. The October bulletin contains a report of the farmers' institutes and the lectures given; the September number is devoted to cotton. These may be had by any farmer free who will send his name and postoffice to S. L. Patterson, Raleigh. Send a postal and request that your name be put on the list for the bulletins each month free.

Mr. H. E. Barrier, of Tennessee, was operated on for appendicitis at Salisbury yesterday. He and Mrs. Barrier were on the way to Monroe to visit the parents of the latter, Major and Mrs. L. D. Andrews, when an acute attack set in and they were compelled to stop. The children were sent to Monroe with the nurse and Mrs. Barrier remained with her husband. A long distance telephone message says that though the case was a very serious one, Mr. Barrier is doing very well.

Mr. C. C. Moore, president of the North Carolina division of the Southern Cotton Association, will speak in the court house tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Moore was in Atlanta last week attending the executive committee's meeting of the national association, which he reports as an enthusiastic one. The plan is to form a holding company to buy cotton when the price goes too low were discussed at that meeting, and Mr. Moore wants to talk to the people of this county on the subject. He is particularly anxious to have a good representation present. He writes The Journal that he would like to meet five hundred farmers tomorrow. He ought to have them. The farmers will never know what great help the association has been to them in securing a fair price for their cotton. Mr. Moore wants the co-operation of all the farmers in securing even better things for the future.

The Southern Express Company is found of having "old hoss" sales here—uncleanned packages that have accumulated for a period of six months at the various stations. A lot of really valuable packages were sold here Saturday. Col. W. P. Kendall was the boss buyer and got a regular run of luck, having secured two good watches, two hats for women, several valuable books, two fourcolarettes, a lantern, cigars, and so on. Several parties got $10 sets of books for fifty and sixty cents; and some got boxes of decayed flowers at the same price. When a jug was put up there was lively bidding, the crowd evidently believing that it had come from Wadesboro, but it turned out not to be full of bug juice.

Rev. J. M. Harris, lately pastor of the Presbyterian church at Jefferson, S. C., moved to Matthews last Wednesday. A manse will soon be built by the congregation at Matthews. He will preach at Bethlehem next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and at Unionville next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Uncle Stephen Barrett asks The Journal to say that his son James, aged eighteen and a half years, died Thursday night, and he desires to say that both white and colored people were very kind to the boy in his illness, for which the old man is very grateful. The dark skin of Uncle Stephen covers the heart of an honest and hardworking man, and if even half of the colored population would take pattern after him there would be little race troubles.

The Upholstering and Repairing Company, with shop next door to the Five and Ten cent store, is preparing, under the management of Messrs. J. D. Parker and H. B. The Marriage of Mr. Sikes and Miss Gaddy.

The correspondent of the Raleigh News Observer thus describes the marriage of Mr. V. D. Sikes and Miss Fay Gaddy, which occurred last Wednesday evening: "One of the most prominent social events of the season, and one that has been looked forward to with the highest interest by the many friends of the contracting parties, was the marriage of Miss Fay Gaddy and Mr. V. Dixon Sikes, which took place at the First Baptist church this evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. C. A. G. Thomas, the pastor, performed the ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with potted palms, ferns and cut flowers. The bride party entered in the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march skillfully rendered by Mrs. J. C. Sikes, one of last summer's brides, who was dressed in white radium satin and pearls. The procession was headed by four little ribbon bearers—Mabel Lane, Velma Horn, Marcella Deering and Estelle Monroe, attired in white organdie and white kid slippers, extending shield pink ribbons, suspended from garlanded columns, down each aisle. Next came ten little chain girls—Lizzie Sikes, Marie Annett Fletcher, Janie Sanders, Maud Sikes, Wilma Green, Margaret York Houston, Mary Heath, Carson Yates, Caroline Morrow and Octavia Houston, in pink organdie dresses with shoes and bandeaux to match, carrying a chain of white and pink chrysanthemums. Coming down the middle aisle, they divided at the altar, half going to the left and half to the right, forming a semi-circle on the rostrum and making a beautiful background for the bride couple. They were followed by the bridesmaids—Messrs. James Stewart, Frank Austin, Walter Laney and John Sikes. The bridesmaids and groomsmen came next, each maid walking alone followed by a groomsmen alone, seven of each, including the maid of honor and best man, the bridesmaids being attired to represent the colors of a rainbow: Miss Bessie Simpson, in lavender crepe de chin, painted with violets, over tulle. Miss Fairley, in Green organdie and lace over silk. Miss Alice Stack, in yellow organdie and silk. Miss Pat Adams, in blue organdie and lace over tulle. Miss Florida Morris, in white organdie and silk. Miss Alice Seales, in red silk over slip, each maid carrying an armful of chrysanthemums, tied with ribbon, to match the color of her dress. The groomsmen were Prof. J. A. Bivins and Messrs. James Garland, O. W. Koehltitzky, W. C. Stack and G. W. Henderson. At the altar, the bridesmaids went to the left and the groomsmen to the right. The maid of honor, Miss Ashe Gaddy, sister of the bride, came carrying an immense bouquet of pink carnations, and attired in a lovely creation of pink chiffon over silk and wearing a picture hat of the same shade. She was followed by Mrs. J. M. Belk, the dame of honor, handsomely gowned in point d'esprit and lace over tulle carrying a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The groom, with his best man, Dr. E. S. Green, Jr., advanced to the altar awaiting the bride. Two little flower girls, Pattie Ashcraft and Hattie May Belk, preceded the bride down the middle aisle scattering chrysanthemum petals. The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Mr. Bennett Gaddy. She wore a tailor-made suit of rich brown chiffon broadcloth, her traveling dress, and carried an exquisite bouquet of bride roses. Following came little Alice Leak, of Wadesboro, bearing the ring on an embroidered white satin pillow. Before the ceremony, the melody, "With my thoughts," was performed on the organ, and Mrs. James Griffith, sang, "Because I love you dear," and Mrs. Frank Laney, "Why I love you," both with fine effect. After the marriage service the bridal party passed out while the wedding march from Lohengrin was being played. The bride is a daughter of the late Captain R. B. Gaddy and is one of Monroe's most popular and accomplished young ladies. She is a gifted elocutionist and combines with her accomplishments rare charms of manner and disposition. Mr. Sikes is a young business man who has won the highest esteem and confidence of his neighbors and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Sikes were the recipients of many handsome presents. They left for Florida tonight, in which State they will spend two weeks, visiting Palm Beach, Isle of Palms and St. Augustine. They will be at home at the Gloucester Hotel after November 28th. To Mrs. J. C. Fletcher too much credit cannot be given for her efforts in arranging the plans for the ceremony and in decorating the church.

Clothing. "This all wool overcoat, dress coat and vest, worth at least $8.00, only cost me $4.75, at J. H. Bennett's." Only 9 minutes' walk or 3 minutes' run northwest of court house, Monroe, N. C.

Spent another week bowing down to the gods of high prices, have you? Some people will worship them forever. But there is no reason why you should not get out of the bonds of iniquity and the gall of bitterness and come on here and get goods cheap. Low prices and good goods are the missionaries that are bringing in the converts to us, and every week the number at the morning bench gets larger. Come on up.

The Kendall Grocery Co. I want to buy all kinds of country produce, and will pay the top and a little over. S. B. Doster.

Cuthbertson-Craig.

On yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alice L. Cuthbertson, near Wolfesville, the marriage of Miss Margaret Howard Cuthbertson to Mr. Judson Columbus Craig, of Lancaster, was solemnized. Rev. George H. Atkinson, pastor of the Monroe Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in his most beautiful and impressive manner. The marriage was a very quiet home affair, only a few relatives and intimate friends of the couple being present. The beautiful and charming bride, gowned in a pretty and very becoming blue broadcloth, tailor-made suit with a hat to match and carrying a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns, was met by the groom at the foot of the stairway, and together they marched, unattended, into the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Miss Fannie Shelly. The groom was dressed in the regular conventional black with white waistcoat. Taking their position under a beautiful arch of pure white chrysanthemums and ivy, with a background of potted plants, ivy and yellow chrysanthemums, the ceremony that made them man and wife was performed amid an impressive scene that will linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. During the ceremony "Meditation" was beautifully and softly rendered by the organist. The parlor was tastefully decorated for the occasion in large white and yellow chrysanthemums, ivy and potted plants. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party came to Waxhaw, where the happy couple took the 5 o'clock train for Lancaster via Monroe and Charlotte. They will arrive at Lancaster some time today (Thursday), where a delightful reception awaits them at the home of the groom's parents. The will make their home in Lancaster, where the groom is in the mercantile business, being a book-keeper and also a stockholder in one of the largest and best known mercantile firms of that place.

The Patriot's Prayer.

In 1760 David Miller, a Hibernian Irishman, left his native land and came with his wife and five children to America. They settled on Mountain creek, near the Broad river, five miles from Hutherfordton. During the Revolution he warmly espoused the Colonialist cause against the British. He was noted for his originality and fervor. In the war he was a soldier and acted as chaplain. In Dr. Maurice Moore's life of General Edward Lacy we first read forty years ago the following quaint Scotch-Irish prayer, when he was a Presbyterian elder in 1780: "Good Lord, our God, thou art in Heaven. We have reason to thank Thee for the many favors we have received at Thy hands and the many battles that we have won. There is the great and glorious battle of King's Mountain, where we killed the great General Ferguson and took his whole army, and the great battles of Ramsen's Mills and Williams' and the ever-memorable and glorious battle of Cowpens, S. C., where we made the proud Colonel Tarleton run helter skelter; and good Lord, and if we had not suffered the cruel torments to burn Billy Hill's iron works, we would not have asked any more favors at Thy hands. Amen." The above prayer was read by the orator, Senator Daniel, of Virginia, at the King's Mountain centennial, October 7, 1880. The owner of Billy Hill's iron works in York county, S. C., was the grandfather of General D. H. Hill. Big lot of nice vanilla wafers, at 15 cents a pound. John R. Simpson & Co. Coming. Fifty boxes of oranges from W. H. Belk's Florida grove expected every day. Will sell cheap when they come; home-made, so to speak. John R. Simpson & Co. There is hope for every man.
