Neighborhood Favorite.
Mrs. E. D. Charles of Harbor, Me., speaking of Electric Bitters, says: "It is a neighborhood favorite here with us." It deserves to be a favorite everywhere. Its action on the blood, as it is impossible unless the kidneys are healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and cures all forms of kidney or bladder disorders. A FLORIDA PARADISE.
Mr. C. W. Laney Describes the Spot Where the Garden of Eden Was Situated, and Also Makes Some Remarks on the Conditions of the Country in General.

There are still some people in this world who had rather believe the weather bureau than the ground hog.

I am writing from Georgiana, Fla., situated on Merritt's Island between the Indian and Banana rivers, opposite Rockledge, on the east coast of Florida. The Indian river is 1 1/2 miles wide and the Banana 5. The island is about 1/2 mile wide and extends over 100 miles in length. It is the most delightful place I have found in years of travel. It is a place of great natural beauty, and the soil is more fertile than in most sections of Florida. The island is thickly settled in most places, and beautiful residences and nice, cozy cottages dot the shore, with green lawns spread in front of each down to the river's brink. Wide-spreading live oak, stately pines and palmettos, orange, grape fruit, tangerine, lemon, lime, guava, kumquat and various kinds of ornamental trees shade the grounds. The birds are twittering in the branches, the leaves rustling, the duck quacking, the geese cackling, the eagles screaming, the fish jumping, the oars splashing, the laughter pealing. It is a luxury for the poor as well as the rich. The society on the island is good. A great sense of peacefulness prevails. Every farmer has an orange grove, with pineapples and other citrus fruits. Everybody takes life easy; no overwork, no worry. All, however, seem to be prosperous, contented and happy.

What Everybody Wants.
Everybody desires good health, which is impossible unless the kidneys are healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and cures all forms of kidney or bladder disorders. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once and prevent Bright's disease and diabetes. English Drug Company.

Well, Mr. Editor, I see from Mr. Bryan's recent Washington speeches that he will, in the event of his election (of course he will be nominated), continue the Roosevelt policies. I have often remarked that Roosevelt was more Democrat than Republican. But, sir, Bryan is the man. He is undoubtedly the foremost man in the country today. All parties acknowledge his honesty, his great ability, his genius, his perseverance, his chivalrous courage, his indomitable spirit, his devotion, his growing seriousness and sense of responsibility. He will undoubtedly be the Democratic nominee and will beat Cannon out of sight. Taft, I think, will get left in the Republican convention. If not, then he surely will at the polls. Watch the prediction. CHAS. W. LANEY, Georgiana, Brevard Co., Fla.

I suppose the climate on the east coast of Florida is as nearly perfect as any climate in the world. A great many Northerners spend the entire summer here in order to escape the sultry heat of Northern climes. The sun comes down pretty warm, to be sure, but there is scarcely an hour in the day when there is not a delightful breeze stirring, coming either from the Atlantic or the Gulf. I have traversed a great deal of the United States in the last seven years—west, east, north and south. In many sections of this big country the conditions and environments surrounding the poor people are such as to preclude hope, but here, land is still cheap and a few acres in intelligent and industrious hands will support a large family. Any man with pluck and patience can successfully establish himself here. Better conditions are to be found only under a new heaven and with the fertility of a new earth.

Of interest to women.
To such women as do not seriously of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions, which seriously tax their strength, as well as burning mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife, would be relieved, seldom have to be employed. It is the "Favorite Prescription" which is so generally used in the home. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless. Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a structure of known constituents, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection, it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended. A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, postpaid, and absolutely free, if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

On my way to Florida last fall I made several stops in Georgia. I found the farmers very bitterly opposed to foreign immigration and denouncing Governor Smith for his estimate of Georgia's cotton crop. I think the farmers are wrong in opposing immigration. There can be no doubt that a large percentage of foreigners coming into this country are by example and contact a cause of hindrance to the betterment of society, and whose presence in the country is already a source of unmeasurable evil. But all of the Western, Southwestern and Southern States are endowed with territory too great for their population. It is necessary that a good class of immigrants be encouraged to settle in such sections in order to build up the waste places and reap to the fullest the riches of these highly privileged sections of country.

Everywhere I have travelled labor is scarce or hard to command, caused in many instances by the unwillingness of the greater part of the people to work. The necessity of a better class of labor is urgent, but because of this it will not do to take immigration without regard to kind. People destined to live in close and continued contact with the people of a country, also influence that country for better or worse. Our forefathers were immigrants, and there are still people in the different countries of Europe anxious to come who are just as good by birth, education and practice as anybody already here. The foreigner should not be excluded from the Southland, but his physical and moral fitness for citizenship should be ascertained across the "branch."

A great change for the better is taking place in the South. The people are waking up. Some one has said that "a nation awake to its moral obligations must endure, progress and prosper." If this be true, then great things may be expected in the near future from the Southern States at least, where the moral wave is uppermost in this country.

Some time ago while in the Journal office, Mr. J. W. Chaney noticed one of the boys using a very frayed old mallet, and remarked that a shop like this ought to have a first class mallet. The other day he walked in again and laid down a new one that he had made as a present to the office. It is of hickory wood and beautifully turned. Mr. Chaney is not only a first class farmer and stock raiser, but he has on his farm a wood shop thoroughly fitted up, in which he and his sons turn out work as good as can be found anywhere.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

The patrons of the Marvin school district will vote on the special school tax on the 29th of this month, and it is believed that the local tax proposition will carry in the district by a good majority. The patrons of this district are among the most progressive and wide awake people of Union county.

Probably the largest porker ever raised in Union county was slaughtered on Tuesday last week by Mr. J. W. Howie of the Pleasant Grove neighborhood. It tipped the beam at 800 pounds, net, in the presence of County Commissioner Thos. J. Gordon and Messrs. A. M. Howie, S. B. Stephenson and other representative citizens of that part of the county. The tusks measure about one foot in length and resemble a young ram's horns. Parties who saw the monstrous hog say it looked more like a young elephant than had been slaughtered than it did like a porker.

The Enterprise says that the many friends of Sheriff J. P. Hunter of Lancaster, who has been at Mount Pleasant for some time undergoing treatment for cancer of the face, will regret to learn that his condition does not improve.

The Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer says: "While playing in front of the fire Friday, the clothes of the two-year-old child of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Barrett of Peachland caught fire, and but for the prompt assistance of Mr. Marcus Lee, who, fortunately, was in the yard at the time, the child and its mother would probably have been burned to death. He heard the screams of mother and child and rushed to their rescue. One of Mrs. Barrett's hands was right badly burned, but the child was not seriously hurt."

Take a young girl: She may prefer poultry, or a small garden spot for her own, or a young cow and calf. Give her a chance. Teach her how to produce and give her the proceeds. See how quickly she will accumulate, and will lay the foundation for an income of her own.

I know a boy whose home is near a small town. When fourteen years old, his father gave him two yearlings and taught him how to break the young oxen. For fear some unscrupulous person might take advantage of the lad's lack of experience, the father exacted of him a promise that he would not sell nor trade, nor would he make a contract of any kind, without first having consulted the father.

This boy worked about one of the stores to pay for two old ox wagon wheels with an axle. He made a tongue and secured for the cart body a large dry goods box. He was soon doing neighborhood hauling. When his oxen were two years old the boy sold them for $25, added to which sum he put the money earned from hauling and bought a colt, for which, I am reliably informed, he has recently refused $125.

Suppose that the boy's father had been one of the indulgent kind; had lavishly purchased for the lad two ponies and a new wagon. The boy would likely have put in his time hauling his boy and girl acquaintances around the neighborhood, having a good time and showing off his team. This father taught his boy self-reliance, developed his creative and inventive qualities, and I fancy that the boy will remain well satisfied on the farm. Thus early in life we do well when we teach our boys thrift and good judgment. We sorely need our boys on the farm. Let us all do our utmost to keep them there, contented.

GIVE THE CHILDREN SOME WORK OF THEIR OWN.

A Sense of Ownership and Responsibility, With Some Help From Their Parents, Tends to Stimulate Thrift and Self-Reliance and Fondness for the Farm.

In line with the suggestions made in our first issue for the new year and following up the strong appeal of Dr. Hays in last week's paper, urging parents to turn with more diligent care than ever before to the diligent home-training of their boys, we are glad to print the subjoined article of Mr. Falconer of Mississippi. It presents a phase of home training that is of the greatest practical usefulness in developing the character and capacity of the children. It is good for the very young to attend to it is a powerful restraint from mischief, and it is good for developing capacity—because such a work calls out and puts into exercise the ability to manage well. So far from discouraging and forbidding the boys and girls to have some work of their own, parents should judiciously aid and instruct them in individual enterprise so far as it is in harmony with the work and interests of the family as a whole. But we will give the article of which we made mention at the start.

Every child on the farm over a certain age, say fourteen, for instance, but depending entirely on the child, should be given some working responsibility; and should share, in however small an extent, in the earnings from the joint labors of the family.

Take a young girl: She may prefer poultry, or a small garden spot for her own, or a young cow and calf. Give her a chance. Teach her how to produce and give her the proceeds. See how quickly she will accumulate, and will lay the foundation for an income of her own.

For the boys: Set aside for each a small bit of land on the farm, the size, of course, to suit the age of the boy. Teach them what to plant and how to cultivate their little farms, and how to dispose of their products to the best advantage. If there are several boys, the rivalry will prove wholesome and stimulating. Of course they should not neglect the general work for their own.

I know a boy whose home is near a small town. When fourteen years old, his father gave him two yearlings and taught him how to break the young oxen. For fear some unscrupulous person might take advantage of the lad's lack of experience, the father exacted of him a promise that he would not sell nor trade, nor would he make a contract of any kind, without first having consulted the father.

JUDGE HARGIS SHOT BY SON.

The most infamous figure in the Feuds which have disrupted Breathitt County, Kentucky, for thirty years is shot and killed by His Own Son Following a Quarrel.

Former County Judge James Hargis, for many years member of the State Democratic executive committee, accused of complicity in many killings and a prominent figure in the feuds which have disrupted Breathitt county for several years, was shot and instantly killed in his general store here about 3:30 p. m. today by his son, Beach Hargis. The son fired five shots in rapid succession at his father, who fell dead while his clerks were waiting on customers. The exact cause of the murder has not been learned, but it is supposed to have been the result of differences which have existed between father and son for some time. The two men are reported to have had a severe quarrel several nights ago, when the father, it is alleged, was compelled to resort to violence to restrain his son.

Young Hargis, it is said, had been drinking heavily of late. He came into the store this afternoon and was apparently under the influence of liquor. Judge Hargis, it is said, spoke to his son about drinking and a quarrel resulted.

Father and son stepped behind a counter, when the son, after a few minutes' conversation, drew a revolver and fired five shots. Four took effect, Judge Hargis falling dead. The young lady stenographer and the customers in the store fled in fright.

Young Hargis was arrested and placed in jail. He was raving like a maniac and the officers were compelled to drag him to jail.

Judge Hargis has been for years a prominent figure in Kentucky political and criminal circles. He has figured in the courts in the mountains for years on account of the murders of Dr. Cox, Attorney Marcum and "Jim" Cockrill. Judge Hargis was the political leader of the Democrats of the tenth district and was regarded as the "boss" of Breathitt county. For years Hargis and Marcum had the temerity to oppose Hargis in a law case. From that date he was a marked man.

Judge Hargis had been on trial at various times for complicity in the murder of Marcum, "Jim" Cockrill and Dr. Cox, but had been acquitted on all the charges. He was recently forced to pay a judgment of $8,000 to Mrs. Marcum in connection with the death of her husband.

Judge Hargis disposed of this, the last of the cases in which he had been involved, when he paid the judgment of the court. Mrs. Marcum had sued Judge Hargis and others for $100,000, alleging that they caused the death of her husband.

The Hargis-Cockrill feud had its inception in a political contest. The Hargis had long been dominant in Breathitt county, where they conducted a general store and a lumber business and were generally active. The brothers, James, Alexander and Albert were good business men and accumulated a fortune.

The trouble with the Cockrills arose when the latter opposed the Hargis at the polls. Feeling was bitter, when one day Benjamin Hargis, a younger brother of Judge James Hargis, met one of the Cockrill boys in a "blind tiger" near Jackson and was killed by his enemy.

In the fall of 1902 Dr. Cox, the guardian of the Cockrill boys, who lived on the outskirts of Jackson, was shot as he entered his gate on his way home one night by assassins concealed across the way. John Smith, John Abner and others of the alleged Hargis band were accused of the crime, and in a confession made by one of them, Judge Hargis was charged with having hired them to kill Dr. Cox. From this time on the story of the Hargis-Cockrill feud was written in blood. The next to fall was "Jim" Cockrill, the town marshal.

Shortly after the murder of Cockrill, James B. Marcum, the attorney for the Cockrill boys, created a tremendous sensation by publicly declaring in Lexington that he was a "marked man" and that he had
