How the Public Pays for Watered Stock.

crowded car bumping along Twenty-eighth street, the next time my ribs are impaled in the subway crush, the next time I hang to a strap in a Broadway car, the next time I am defrauded on a railroad or a sleeping car, I shall, if I am fair and just, utter no complaint against the syndicate, nor revile the traction management, nor curse the railroad company, but seek some quiet spot and sedulously kick myself. For in connection with a similar incapacity on the part of my fellow citizens, my vast inability to manage my own affairs is responsible for all this, yes, even for the tortures of the weary shop-girl standing in the cruelly crowded car, even for the confiding stockholders that lose their investments, even for the watered stocks that sweep over the country. Elsewhere in the world civilization proceeds without these troubles. What is wrong with us that it is attended by them here?

Where did the gentlemen get it? They got it from us and by means of our own wittiness, comports, brethren. For do you not suppose we can take those fleecing fingers from our pockets if we try?

Another Old North Carolinian.

Lots of people remember the famous Noah Rabby, who while an inmate in a poorhouse in Maine claimed for years to be 121 years old, and to be a native of North Carolina. Another citizen of this State who has gone abroad claims to be an old 'un. Mrs. L. Kincaid, who lives at Pine Hill, near Fort Worth, Texas, is said to have celebrated her 132nd birthday last week. She is said to be the oldest white person in the world. She is further said to have been born in Halifax county, North Carolina, in the year 1776, and to have lived there 100 years before she went to Texas to grow up with the country, with her family. She has a daughter who is aged 98 and a granddaughter who is 63 years old. She enjoys good health, walks about with a cane, has a family bible to show her age correct, saw Col. George Washington and talks fluently of things she remembers as happening 125 years ago.

The Park Bill.

Although the outlook for the passage of the Appalachian park bill was very bright a few days ago, it now looks as if it would be killed dead. Speaker Cannon has opposed it from the first, and while he is said to have withdrawn his opposition some days ago, he has now announced that the bill shall not pass this congress, and what he says is law. Congressman Hackett of the eighth district, has come out against the bill on the ground that it is unconstitutional. It has been sent to the house judiciary committee, where it will likely be pigeonholed. Congressman Yates Webb is on the committee, and he will try to keep it from dying. The impression is general that Mr. Hackett is playing mighty small politics. He is a Democrat who ought to be kept at home.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headache, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily started or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weakness and overstrainments that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neurotic or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not respond.

No medicine extant has such a long and successful record of cures in such cases as Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong reputation in the eyes of the people as this. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing are invited to consult Dr. Pierce's Medical Advice, printed on each bottle wrapper, free. All correspondence to be held as strictly private and necessarily confidential. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Advice (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

Death of South Carolina Senator.

Senator Asbury C. Latimer of South Carolina died at Providence Hospital in Washington at 9:15 a. m. last Friday, of peritonitis. He had been at the hospital since Sunday, when he underwent an operation for appendicitis. It was then discovered that he was suffering with a far more serious ailment. The bowels had become twisted and his condition was found to be such that surgeons held out little hope for his recovery. He rallied, however, and his progress was satisfactory until 7 o'clock, when he steadily began to grow worse. At midnight it appeared that recovery was impossible.

The members of the Senator's family were with him when he died, having been informed that there was little hope that he would survive the night. Colonel Hand sell, sergeant at arms of the Senate, at once made arrangements for the removal of the body to the Latimer home at Belton, S. C.

Mr. Latimer was 57 years of age. He was one of the most earnest and conscientious committee workers Congress, being a member of the committee on agriculture, immigration, manufactures, public buildings and grounds as well as others of less importance. He was especially interested in good roads and probably did more to promote the national movement for government building of good roads than any other member of Congress. He was the author of the Latimer good roads bill.

Local Items of Interest

Mr. Mike Hudson of Monroe has been appointed a student in the naval academy at Annapolis. Congressman K. N. Page made the appointment a few days ago.

Mr. W. A. Love took a big boiler, one hundred horse power capacity, out to his mill at Unionville last Tuesday. It took fourteen big oxen to pull the boiler.

Mrs. Richard Sneed of the Marvin neighborhood died right suddenly Sunday night, February 9th. About two o'clock Sunday morning she had a stroke of paralysis and died about seven o'clock the next night. The remains were buried the next day at Belair church. She was about forty years of age and is survived by a husband and eight children. Mrs. Sneed was a good woman and her husband and children have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

The home of Mrs. Julia Morrison of Morven was the scene of a most distressing accident Monday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Morrison's aged mother, who was helpless on account of a recent fall, being burned to death. Mrs. Morrison and her mother, Mrs. Jane McLean, who was about 90 years of age, lived together. Late Monday afternoon the daughter went to the home of a neighbor, leaving her mother on the bed, which she was not able to leave on account of injuries received in a fall some months ago. Returning some time later Mrs. Morrison was horrified to find the bed clothing on fire and the dead body of her mother lying on the floor behind the bed, where she had fallen in trying to escape from the burning bed.

Mrs. Garrison Medlin received a message a few days ago stating that her cousin, Mr. W. S. Henby, died last Friday in Memphis, Tenn., from injuries received by falling from a street car a few days before. Mr. Henby was a native of Vance township, this county, and was a son of the late Mr. Thomas Henby. In early life he took up printing as a profession and soon reached high mark, becoming editor of the Charlotte Chronicle. From Charlotte Mr. Henby went to Chicago where he published a hardware trade journal winning signal success in that field. About three years ago he went to Memphis and took the editorship of the Journal of Commerce and was at the head of that publication when he died. Deceased was about 47 years old and unmarried. He was a man of bright mind and a gentleman of high type. Messrs. D. J. Henby of Charlotte and J. D. Henby are brothers and Mrs. A. J. Williams of Matthews and Mrs. M. E. Conder of Indian Trail sisters of the deceased.

Tan Assassinated White Bishop Was Preaching.

While Bishop Strange, who was holding a mission at Williamson last week, was delivering an eloquent discourse on "Salvation" in the Episcopal church at night, three pistol shots were heard and the ushers of the church rushed out to the gate and found Mr. E. B. McGlawhorne, who had been shot in the chest and seriously wounded by some unknown person.

Mr. McGlawhorne was conscious and said to his son, who was among those who rushed out, that some one arose in the darkness and with the words, "You are the man I have been looking for," shot him down.

Mr. McGlawhorne was carried to his house, where every effort was made to save his life, but he died next morning.

The assailant left no trace and the authorities have no idea of his identity.

Russian General Sentenced to Death.

Gen. Stoessel, who commanded Port Arthur and surrendered it to the Japanese on January 1, 1905, after one of the most fearful sieges of modern times, has been sentenced to death by a Russian court martial for surrendering the fort, which his accusers claim could have been held against the Japanese six weeks longer. The world does not question the bravery of this man, who when his trial began announced to the court that if it was found that his action had been a mistake he deserved the death sentence. But it is characteristic of Russian methods that the sins of somebody else shall be visited upon other heads. The court recommended that the death sentence be changed to imprisonment for ten years.

Coddled Him But Wouldn't Touch Her.

Rev. Edw. Fulenwider, at the Lutheran church Sunday, uttered some plain remarks about the purity of the home, and his sermon served to remind a man of a conversation with his wife that will apply illustrate the working of a double standard of morals, one for men and one for women. The man questioned the propriety of admitting a certain young man into a certain home, on the ground that he had blasted the life of a young woman. His wife pointed out that the young man in question moved in the best circles.

"But they wouldn't think of admitting the young lady," objected the husband. "In fact they would not wipe their feet on her."

"Oh, but that's different," was the feminine reply.

The Great Feats of Wade Hampton.

not been seen by Mr. Teal. They entered the store a short time later and pretended they wanted to buy a crate of eggs. Mr. Teal, all unsuspecting, had laid his rifle on a barrel behind him, and Mr. Moore stepped between him and his gun, telling him he had a warrant for his arrest as he did so. Both detectives at once seized Mr. Teal and a terrible struggle ensued. Of course the first thing the detectives wanted to do was to secure Mr. Teal's pistol, and this Mr. Moore did almost at once. The struggle continued for quite awhile, until finally Mr. Teal broke away from his captors and took position behind the counter in the store. He maintained his place here for some time, but finally agreed to surrender himself without further trouble. Mr. Moore, during the first part of the struggle, struck Mr. Teal on the head with his (Teal's) pistol, inflicting a slight wound, but one that bled profusely. Monday Mr. Teal was taken to Monroe and placed in jail, where he will remain until he can be gotten into the State Hospital at Morganton. Mr. Teal expressed himself as preferring to be carried to Monroe to remaining here."

The Troubles of Negroes in the North.

In the March American Magazine the rise of Hughes. All sorts of new and illuminating personal facts are brought out. In conclusion Miss Tarbell presents the following view of what Governor Hughes stands for:

"He certainly has a passion for democracy. Governor Hughes is no mere bureaucrat, intent simply on doing the day's work well, without any idea of its relation to the tendencies of the times. He is a man keenly alive to the unrest of the nation, and keenly convinced that there are real reasons for that unrest. He believes that grave abuses have grown up under our present system, which if it is to stand must be corrected. All of his effort is directed toward this correction. Charles E. Hughes is engaged in a passionate effort to vindicate the American system of the government.

"The means he employs are simple, direct and understandable. They are based entirely on a serious faith in the people. The whole substance of his theory of action hinges on this faith: Do everything in the open—make everything clear—force every man to make good or make way for a successor. To men who prefer to be fuddled rather than enlighten the people, who believe in the secrecy and scheming, the Hughes programme seems childish—until they come in contact with it! Then, as in Albany last winter, their best laid plans shrivel up and disappear.

"If the Hughes way of working could be carried into national politics, there is every reason to believe that it would be as effective and as wholesome as it has proved in State politics. All that this article aims to do, however, is to point out what is most significant in his record of the last three years, that it may serve as a basis of judgment as to what to expect from him in the future. This much seems certain—another term of him as Governor of New York State would be a blessing to the whole country; he would be admirable in the Senate; he would be a strength on the Supreme bench. There are plenty of honorable places for Charles E. Hughes. He should be kept in one of them. Mr. Lincoln's famous reply to Gen. Grant's many bitter critics, 'I can't spare this man, he fights,' may well be paraphrased for Gov. Hughes, 'We can't spare this man, he works.'"

Edison 61 Years Old.

Thomas A. Edison, the wizard, was 61 years old on the 11th, having been born in 1847 at Milan, Ohio. He is the world's most famous inventor in electrical realms. At 14 years of age he was left to himself, and became a newsboy, then telegraph operator, and at 21 was the most expert operator in America. He began improving the telegraph instruments, made money enough to establish a factory in New Jersey, and there for many years he has been turning out inventions that have startled the world.

On his birthday he worked all the time and forgot he was three score and one that day. He is engaged now on plans for building houses of concrete which will last a hundred years and be so cheap that anybody can have one.

PROPOSED PROHIBITION LAW.

What It Will and What It Will Not Do.

The State Organizer of the Anti-Saloon League.

I. WHAT IT WILL DO.

It will abolish every licensed whiskey and brandy distillery in the State. It will abolish every saloon and dispensary in the State. It will stop the wine traffic within the State. For wine can be sold only at the place of manufacture in quantities of two and one-half gallons or more and not shipped anywhere in the State. It will stop the sale of all those chemical mixtures by whatever name known that will produce intoxication. It will place under the most stringent and binding regulations pharmacists and physicians, who may handle intoxicating liquors for medicinal purposes only. It will allow the officials of any county or town to regulate or prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors by pharmacists in the drug stores.

II. WHAT IT WILL NOT DO.

It will not prohibit the manufacturer from making his wine and shipping it outside of the State. It will not stop the sale of those medicinal preparations and essences that may have alcohol in them to preserve them or to hold the medicinal agents in solution, such as camphor, vanilla, etc. It will not repeal existing laws. Counties like Union, which already have strict prohibition laws, will not be effected one way or the other. It will not prohibit the sale of wine to ministers or church officials for sacramental purposes. If this law fails to be ratified by the people at the polls on May 26th, 1908, it will not affect the present status of any existing prohibition law in the State. In other words, the dry territory will not be changed.

We are sure when you have studied this law you will agree with us that it is fair. Under this law, Greensboro's voting wet would not make it wet, and Salisbury's voting dry would not make it dry. Under local option Greensboro has voted dry, and as a locality she must remain so until the locality as such votes wet, while Salisbury has voted the other way. This vote on "the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" in North Carolina is quite a different thing from local option. Again, this law is right. For the influence of liquor is never local. Salisbury or Wilmington citizens, while controlling the sale of the traffic, do not control the dangerous and damaging influence of this traffic. This influence is felt for hundreds of miles around. Every citizen in the State has a right to self-protection against the influence of this traffic, now centered at a few points, and the only way of protection is the abolition of the traffic throughout the State.

What Rev. Walt. Holcomb Said.

Last week it was stated that Rev. Walter Holcomb, son-in-law of Sam Jones, had been indicted by the grand jury at Cartersville, Ga., for alleged improper language in the pulpit. The press correspondent who sent out the news from Cartersville has sent out over a column trying to smooth out the matter. He said there was nothing to it, that nothing wrong had been done by the preacher, and then said what Mr. Holcomb said in the pulpit, to wit: "Say, you woman back there weighing about 400 pounds, with your rump turned towards me making so much noise, please give me your attention for a minute."

It will be remembered that there
