As to the very general belief that Mr. Rossevelt will side-step the truth when he gets in a pinch, we have no very definite opinion. The charge is made a often and so explicitly that one is almost compelled to believe it. Yet it is abhorrent to think of such a thing being true, and for one we shall never believe it until forced to But we can't explain the fact in the cases, therefore we suspend judgment.

Remembering the fact that Mr. Roosevelt regards himself as "a practical man," and his political philoso phy is to get the best he can for his views within his own party, surrendering when it is necessary and laying for a new start, it is easy to understand the following comment from the Charlotte Observer:

"Comprehending that to restore prosperity to the Republican campaign fund is rather more urgent : duty, in the view of the managers. than to restore it to the country, the New York Evening Post gets at the leading cause of the White House's suddenly restored good behavior The party managers learned in 1904, observes the Evening Post, what a fine talent for raising money the President has, and they are call ing upon him to make use of it again this year. "We really have no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt hushed up more on this account than any other. For the same reason, he may remain of the stump. The 'malefactors of great wealth' are doubtless coming across now pretty much as usual.
