DOWN WITH THE DOGS!

Worthless Canines Have Destroyed the Sheep Industry and Cause Frightful Suffering from Rabies.

The dog question is beginning to engage the attention of the people more than ever before. The increased number of human beings who have been bitten, some of whom died, by rabid dogs, and the ravages the worthless canines commit on property and game, together with the utter uselessness of them, have stirred the people to determination to get relief. Heretofore cowardly lawmakers have not dared to tackle the question of dog tax: the time is coming when they will not dare not to tackle it. Below is an excellent article on the subject from the Winston Sentinel:

We are apt to rate luxuries by their rarity than by their abundance and so it happens that our most costly luxury, because of its being regarded as no luxury at all. We cannot reason ourselves into believing that the dog is our most expensive luxury, even though we are willing to admit that our chief motive for keeping him is the pleasure rather than the profit we get out of him.

This serious arraignment of our humble canine friend does not apply specifically to either the town dog or to the country dog, but to that dog wherever he is, that is neglected and inadequately cared for by his owner, must prey upon the public and therefore become not only a costly nuisance, but a constant menace and peril to the community.

It is this class of dog that has multiplied so alarmingly, since the close of the war, and whose destructiveness has been in the same ratio as its increase. To this dog, the property of the small tenants, white and colored, who paroled themselves out on the larger estates soon after the war, we now owe the final extinction of the sheep-raising industry in North Carolina and Virginia. This valuable industry languished in common with many others after the war, but it is safe to say it would have revived and been made even more productive but for the starveling dogs that preyed on the flocks until there was no alternative for the flock owners but to quit the business.

It is this same uncurbed pet, far more than to the shot of the marksman, that we owe the rapid decrease in the number of birds that made the fields of North Carolina and Virginia the finest game preserves in the world. A telling proof of this is shown in the following illustration: On a large estate of which the writer has personal knowledge, there are four negro settlements and each settlement is the proud possessor of one or more skeleton mongrels or curs of low degree. These ill-fed, unkept creatures are constantly prowling in search of food, robbing nests of all kinds and even attacking young fowls and grown hens. That many partridge nests are destroyed by them is attested by the childless mates that call Bob White so blithely all the spring and early summer and are still childless in the fall. The owner of that estate has one dog, an Irish setter, that is kept strictly within bounds and rarely allowed during mating season to follow his master even for a walk. This is a sample of the conditions that prevail in a large portion of Virginia and North Carolina.

If the destruction of the sheep industry and the killing out of game birds were all, that would still be enough to call for drastic legislation in regard to the dog nuisance, but the greatest hardship and heaviest loss resulting from this class of dog is the terrible curse of rabies, for which he is solely and directly responsible. The well cared for dog never develops rabies; the outcast starveling that somebody owns, but nobody cares enough for to feed, is the originator and disseminator of this frightful disease. And herein he becomes doubly destructive, endangering not only human life, but causing actual financial loss by biting cattle and stock and even fowls.

Within four miles of the mouth of the April caused the loss of milk cows, work horses and hogs that mounted up into the thousands. Happily the State provides Pasteur treatment for rabies, which is free to persons unable to pay, and at a minimum cost to those who are able. In this respect our State leads most of her Southern sisters, but as beneficent as is her action toward her citizens cursed with rabies, she cannot reimburse those whose cattle and stock have been bitten and this loss generally falls on the worthiest and those least able to bear it.

The remedy for this untoward state of affairs is available and we may have it as soon as the legislature takes such needless predatory dogs out of existence. A man, white or colored, who does not value his dog sufficiently to pay the required tax on him certainly will be the one whose dog is prowling and trespassing on his neighbors, as if trespassing should not be as deserving of punishment when done by a dog as when done by any other agency.

The young fowls preyed upon by dogs of this kind, the flocks of tame as well as wild half grown turkeys scattered and destroyed by them, are simply incalculable, and if the turkey raising industry is not to play out as did sheep raising, the starveling cur must be taxed out of existence.

A tax that would be prohibitive of this kind of dog would prove most valuable and beneficial, but the hint of such a tax has always been a stumbling block to legislators. They have always been more afraid of it than any other much needed public measure, but the

20 Years With Heart Trouble

"Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has cured me of heart disease of over 20 years' standing. I was so bad that I could not do my work, and could scarcely draw a full breath without fainting or smothering. The doctor told me he could do no more for me; then I commenced taking the Heart Remedy. I shall never forget that night. I slept better than I had before in months. I kept right on getting better, until I was perfectly well."
MRS. LAURA RUSSELL,
Logan, Iowa.

When the heart action is weak, it fails to pump the blood through the lungs with sufficient rapidity. Then the lungs do not absorb the proper amount of oxygen, although they may be taking in a normal amount of air. The result is shortness of breath, smothering spells, difficult breathing, oppressed feeling in chest. Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, and in this way increases the circulation.

time for fear or favor in the enactment of wise and necessary laws is passed. If a man cannot face his constituents and say, "I voted for a dog tax because I knew such a tax was needed," he is a poor precursor for a legislator and the sooner he tries to serve his country in some other capacity the better.

Germany has stamped out rabies by requiring all dogs when going at large to be muzzled. England by the same means stamped out for three years, then repealed the muzzling statute, and again the United Kingdom is a prey to rabies. The money spent by the State in taking care of her citizens who have rabies, together with the loss to individuals from mad dogs biting cattle, stock and even fowls, would almost support a school in each county.

This state of affairs calls for speedy and drastic legislation, and the law once in force should be rigidly enforced by county and city officials who could do it without any additional cost to the State.

Cashier Loses on Futures and Leaves.

J. T. Holleman, who for two years has been cashier of the Bank of Anderson, and who for four years was assistant cashier, has been found short in his accounts approximately $35,000 and has left for parts unknown. In a cash drawer of the bank he left a letter addressed to President B. F. Mauldin, in which he made a clear-cut and complete confession, saying that he lost the money in speculating in cotton futures. Rather than face his friends he said in the letter he would flee, and this he did on Sunday morning when he left Anderson supposedly on his annual vacation.

The people of Anderson are severely stunned for there was no man in Anderson who enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people more than did Mr. Townes Holleman.

The board of directors issued the following statement today: "The board of directors of the Bank of Anderson make the following statement in regard to the shortage of J. T. Holleman, in his accounts as cashier, which came to the knowledge of the officials last night. After carefully looking into the affairs of the bank we find the amount will be about $35,000 and inasmuch as the capital stock is $150,000, and the surplus $225,000, making a total of $375,000, to which is added the liability of the stockholders $150,000, making a total available for creditors of $525,000, the public can readily see that the standing of the bank is not impaired and that the business of the bank with its well known ability to accommodate its customers will not be lessened. The loss will be charged off tomorrow when the bank examiner ascertains the exact amount."

One in Every Eight Women Past 35 Dies of Cancer.

Baron J. Hendrick in the July Medicine.
In all probability, cancer is the worst physical scourge with which we have to deal. It annually destroys half as many lives as tuberculosis, but it is an even greater menace, because, whereas the mortality from tuberculosis steadily decreases year by year, that from cancer steadily increases. The actual facts even medical men themselves hesitate to discuss. How many realize, for example, that in England, of all women who have reached the age of thirty-five years, one in every eight dies of cancer, and one in every eleven men? Yet the latest official report of the Registrar General of England coldly declares that this is the present situation. Whether the same figures apply to the United States cannot be determined with available statistics; but as living conditions and medical practice represent about the same standards in both countries, the probability is that they do.

TROUBLE OF "TYPHOID MARY"

Woman Confined by New York Health Department on Ground of Continued Typhoid Fever.

"Before God and in the eyes of decent men my name is Mary Mallon. I was christened and baptized Mary Mallon. I lived a decent, upright life under the name of Mary Mallon until I was seized by the Health Department of the City of New York, two years and four months ago, locked up in a pest house and rechristened 'Typhoid Mary,' the name by which the world has ever since known me."

Dramatically raising her hands, Mary Mallon opened her lips for the first time yesterday to tell the public through the World the story of her incarceration in the pest house at North Brother Island, although she has never been sick a day in her life and has every appearance of being in perfectly good health, in spite of an imprisonment which would drive most people insane.

The confinement of two and a half years, which by the refusal of Justice Eklander last week to re-lease her seems to indicate the life she will live until she dies, has lit the changed Mary Mallon from the stout, jovial cook who was loved by the children in every family in which she was employed. She is still jovial and, if anything, a little stouter. She is still loved by the children, for, in spite of the fact that the Health Department swears she scatters typhoid bacilli everywhere she goes, Mary Mallon is permitted the freedom of the island, and the doctors are glad to have her nurse the children who are there with every kind of contagious disease.

Not only does she nurse them but she prepares their meals. She is allowed to mingle freely with all the other patients on the island, and she is employed by both doctors and nurses to do their finer pieces of laundry for them. Doctors and nurses on the island frequently go to her room and eat the good things she has cooked.

Apparently doomed to life imprisonment on a barren island in the East River, although she has committed no crime, Mary Mallon feels that there are two kinds of justice in America. She feels that she has not been given the benefit of the "reasonable doubt" which is allowed even murderers. She feels that she has been flung into prison without a fair trial, denied the privilege of seeing her lawyer and given no chance to clear herself from an imprisonment without precedent in the annals of crime or science in this country.

"All the water in the ocean wouldn't clear me from this charge, in the eyes of the Health Department," Mary told the reporter. "They want to make a showing; they want to get credit for protecting the rich, and I am the victim. It is a huge bluff, and nothing more. Dr. Soper, in his report which brought me to where I am, mentions seven or eight cases where typhoid occurred in families where I had worked. He did not mention the families I worked for in which there was no typhoid. He did not see fit to mention the family I always lived with in the Bronx when I was out of work, and where I slept with the children without ever giving them typhoid.

"Will I submit quietly to staying here a prisoner all my life? No! As there is a God in heaven I will get justice, somehow, sometime. A few more years of this life and I will be insane. With what do I occupy my time? Oh, I get up in the morning, fix my room, eat my breakfast, and then wait until it is time to go to bed again. Often I help nurse the other patients on the island and often the children will have no one else take care of them when they are sick. The doctors and nurses often come to see me and eat meals in my room which I have cooked. Does that look as if they were afraid of me? Does that look as if I carried death with me everywhere I went?"

"Typhoid Mary," as the Health Department has christened her, is a large, fair-haired woman of forty. Her face indicates character. Her present quarters are the second she has occupied on the island.

"When they transferred me from the first," she said, "they put some sick children into my room without ever disinfecting it. Does that look as if I were a living death? Dr. Soper says in his report that the secretions from my body are examined every day, but it is not so. The examinations are only once a week and sometimes not then. But every time the Health Department examines me I send specimens by a friend to a specialist in New York. The Health Department report always comes back stating that the typhoid bacilli have been found. From the same specimens my own specialist, who is at the head of his profession, reports that he had found none.

"I have been told that all I had to do was to apply to Dr. Darlington and promise to leave the State and live under another name and I could have my freedom, but this I will not do. I will be either cleared or die where I now am."

Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it. Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength. You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly. When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you. It would bankrupt us. The dollar bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.
