Fowler-Hill.

Correspondence of The Journal. The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hill of the Grace Chapel community was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday evening when their daughter, Bessie, became the bride of Mr. Lonnie S. Fowler. The house was decorated in lovely flowers of the season, the color scheme of pink and green being carried out.

At the appointed hour, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the bride, gowned in white silk, carrying an armful of pink roses, entered the room on the arm of her brother, Mr. James Hill, who gave her away. The groom was accompanied by his brother, Mr. Tom Fowler, Rev. Mr. Stover, the pastor of the bride and groom, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Charles Long presided at the piano, rendering several beautiful selections.

Those present besides the immediate family of the bride were the families of Mr. A. J. Fowler, Mr. Charles Long, Mr. Tom Fowler, Mr. J. E. Wager, Mr. Baxter Williams and Mr. Will Simpson and Mr. Van Williams.

The bride is a popular and talented teacher of the county and the groom is a prominent stockman and farmer. They will make their home at Mr. Fowler's country place two miles out on the Concord road.

Can a Republican Vote in the Democratic Boxes at the Coming Primary?

The following letter from the Attorney General to Colonel Wilson G. Lamb, chairman of State Board of elections, answers the above question: Replying to your inquiry of this date, I beg to advise that under the State-wide primary law an elector who declares that he regularly votes the State and county Democratic ticket should be allowed to participate in the Democratic primary and vote in the state and county boxes.

Such an elector cannot vote in the National box of either party, as the law does not contemplate that in the primary one shall vote a divided ticket, but of course, he will be permitted to do this in the general election.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) T. W. BICKETT,
Attorney-General.

DOUAUMONT PLAIN HELL, SAYS TROOPER

Wounded Frenchman Compares It to Crater of Very Active Volcano. Paris Dispatch, May 26.

The first wounded man to reach Paris from the Douaumont sector turned up in a hospital train reaching La Chapelle suburban sanitary depot this morning. He is a young Sergeant named Sarrot, who has been attached to a machine-gun section of his regiment.

"Yes, I've been there," he informed The World correspondent with a joyous smile—his wound isn't very serious—"right in Douaumont Fort itself. I wouldn't have known it if some one hadn't told me, for it looked more like a heap of stones and gravel than a fort.

"When the yells 'En Avant!' echoed along our trenches, I saw the second company climbing out of the comparative darkness of the trenches into the blazing sunlight and running off up the slopes toward Douaumont. Another company followed, and then we came along with our machine guns on our backs.

"Lord, but it was hot! The sun and the weight on my back occupied so much of my attention I almost fell into the first-line German trench. It was carpeted with bodies—not a single living thing in it. You bet I envied those chaps who had only a rifle to carry. The fellows ahead were singing the Marseillaise, and I remember trying to join them and failing because I was so out of breath.

"The fort itself was—well, just plain hell. So many shells were falling it was like walking into the crater of a very active volcano, and besides there were those damn German quick-firers. As soon as we thought we must have mowed down every last man in the whole of Germany, another wave of them would break over us from another corner. Maybe it's still going on, for somebody discovered I was wounded and sent me back."

RENEWS WEDDING VOW TO DEAD WIFE

Sworn Document Placed in Coffin at Funeral in Strange Family Ceremony. Atlantic City Dispatch, May 24.

Mourners at the funeral of Mrs. Annie Willis, twenty-eight years old, this afternoon saw a strange ceremony performed by W. Henry Willis, her husband.

When the coffin was about to be closed he placed in his wife's hands a sealed letter containing his oath to continue his contract of marriage. He was carrying out a custom followed by his family for six generations. Willis has been married three times and says the first two unions were unsuccessful, but the last brought him great happiness. The letter reads:

"To God and Mankind: Oh, Lord, Our Heavenly Father, in Thine eyes and those who have chosen to be present at this service to my beloved wife, Annie A. Willis, I desire to show my true devotion to the one Thou hast joined so cleanly to me, and hast taken away from me.

"Annie, my beloved and devoted wife, I am here in the presence of God and thee to show my true and sincere devotion toward thee, to cast flowers of true love upon thee.

"I have placed your wedding ring upon my finger as a binding tie to remain thy husband until death.

"I pray I may be laid beside thee when God shall call me to that eternal rest with thee, my love. Kisses. Your devoted husband.

"W. HENRY WILLIS. Amen.

"Sworn to and subscribed before me this 24th day of May, 1916. William F. Moise, Notary Public."

Persuasion indicates a strong will, and obstinacy a strong won't.

DEFEND THE BOB-TAIL

Statesville Man Will Have His Hair Cut As Pleases Him. Statesville Landmark.

Regarding article in Tuesday's Landmark, relative to bob-tailed hair cuts, signed by one J. C. Ewen, right here I want to go on record as favoring the Ewen-styled bob-tailed hair cuts vs. the unshaved neck called feather-edge.

The truth of the matter is, this is a free country (outside of your home), but there is not a day passes that a certain Irish Yankee does not "rag" me about my bob-tailed hair cut. It may be all right for Germany to tell us what we shall do but when it comes to the Irish, then I draw the line.

So far as style is concerned, the feather-edge is the style. However, I suppose there are many like myself that prefer the old-style hair cuts instead of the kind that start somewhere down your spinal column and gradually taper off to the top of your "bean," giving your head a kind of turnip appearance, with hair on it.

I tried the feather-edge one day, but one time was enough, the fact being that the Lord did not have a feather-edge hair cut in mind when he modeled my head, or rather ears. Take and cut all surplus hair from the back part of my head until you get to the summit of my emporium of thought, and my ears take on a most conspicuous and prominent part of my anatomy. In other words, I look as though it would be dangerous for any one to say "shoo"—I might fly away.

There is nothing looks better than a good hair cut with a clean-looking shaved neck.

President Wilson is today honored because he has stood out for our freedom of thought and we are going to do likewise. If Mr. Ewen wishes his head to resume the shape of a hairy turnip, that is his business. If I wish to have mine cut rounding with a little hair to protect the roots of my ears, that's my business and not his or that Yankee Irishman's.

Not So Good.

Statesville Landmark.

A witness in Iredell court, asked about the character of one of the parties to a suit, said his character wasn't so good. Asked on what he based the idea that the man's character wasn't good, the witness answered that he had the reputation of not paying his debts. Many a man who doesn't pay his debts would have no difficulty in proving a good character in court, and the Landmark doesn't recall that it ever heard this falling assigned as evidence of bad character, nothing else appearing. But without reference to this particular case, for we know nothing of the parties involved, this paper holds that one who makes it a practice to fail to pay his honest obligations isn't straight and therefore his character isn't good. The witness had the right view, whether he was right as to that particular case or not. But if every man listed in the dead-beat class should be put down in the courts as a man of bad character, a big bunch would fall in the character test—and they should fall.

A girl hasn't any use for a man who is too cowardly to propose.
