AN IMAGINARY VACATION

How the Man Enjoyed the Vacation He Had Never Taken in Reality.

(Statesville Landmark.)
The man who sits at a desk and handles important looking papers was asked if he had taken his vacation yet. The day was hot and the man was hot, yet he smiled pleasantly, leaned back in his chair and said, "Yes!" He said he had just returned from a two-weeks' stay in the mountains and expected to leave next week for the coast.

It was a surprise, for he is a man who rarely spends a week at a time from his work. He is one of those unusual men who work all the time and yet have the rested look of a man of leisure—a man just back from a while spent out of doors in cool meadows and green fields. Then he explained his vacation. He did not have time to leave the office but he kept imagining that he would find time. So he planned a delightful trip to the mountains. He took his fishing tackle, several books that he had wanted to read, and a few of the necessities of life and proceeded by train, by automobile and—about to a certain tumble-down shack which was located on the bank of a stream in the mountains miles away from towns, offices, telephones, trains or newspapers. There he spent a leisurely two weeks, fishing for the most part, eating a bit—and reading. Early in the morning he was cooking his breakfast by a camp fire and watching the sun rise among the mountains. In the heat of the day he was fishing in a little old canoe that drifted down the creek among the trees. In the evening he was watching the wood-folk go to bed or get up—for the night, as the case might be. And always he was by himself, no other person to be seen all day. And he did not have any mail, not one piece of mail.

Of course it was all imagination. The man was in reality in his office all through those hot days, dictating letters, listening to the jingle of the telephone and attending to business generally. But he said he was greatly refreshed, if it was only imagination that refreshed him.

Furthermore, he is planning a trip to the coast, a trip which he will not take this summer. He will spend long days out on the rocks with just himself and the rocks, the sky and the sea. Lots of people who take long vacations and leave their imagination at home, don't get half the fun out of life that this man does.

U-Boat Commander Courteous and Hospitable.

Captain Cyrus W. Crooks, master of the American bark Christiane which was sunk by a German submarine August 7, near the Azores, was entertained as a guest on board the U-boat, and over a glass of wine was told by the German commander that he "hated to sink American ships." Captain Crooks related the incident on arrival at an American port on board an Italian liner.

The American captain said he was bound home from London when his ship was sunk. Not being armed, he surrendered to the U-boat. "We left the Christiane in two life boats," Captain Crooks said, "and I was invited by the U-boat captain in excellent English to bring three of my men and come aboard. We were taken into the officers' cabin, and after giving me a receipt stating that my ship had been sunk, the commander ordered luncheon served, including wine."

"He kept up an interesting conversation while we were eating, and more than once declared he hated to sink American vessels and only did so because we were at war with his country."

"Another thing that appeared to worry him was stories he had heard of sinking of lifeboats by submarines. 'I really can't believe those stories,' he said, 'and so far as I am concerned no lifeboats will ever meet such a fate from my ship.'"

"We spent two hours on the submarine while the Germans removed from the Christiane all the supplies and sunk her with bombs. The captain then escorted us to our lifeboats, gave us the direction of nearest land and bid us a courteous goodbye. The submarine was about 400 feet long and carried two six-inch guns. The name signed to the receipt I have is Capt. J. Erlinger, Ponta Delgada."

Race Clash in Pamlico County.

J. W. Boomer, colored, is dead, M. W. Gaddy, white, is in St. Luke's hospital New Berne, with a serious bullet wound in his body. Will and Allen Boomer, colored, are in the Craven county jail charged with the shooting of both men and feeling at Arapahoe, Pamlico county, is running high, all the result of the killing of one hog, valued at less than $10, says a New Berne special to the Charlotte Observer.

Boomer, so reports from Arapahoe, riding in his automobile, ran down and killed a hog owned by Mr. Grady. The latter asked him to pay for the animal and when he refused had a warrant sworn out for him and he was cited to appear before a magistrate. The trial was held and the finding of the court was against the negro, who was ordered to pay Boomer, so say reports from Arapahoe and daughter were witnesses against Boomer and at the conclusion of the hearing he intimated that they for the dead animal. Mr. Grady's colored the negro and the shooting was on.

Will and Allen Boomer, sons of J. W. Boomer, are charged with the shooting. It is alleged that they shot at Grady and killed their father by accident. Feeling against them was so strong that they were taken to New Berne for safety. Since then the feeling at Arapahoe has been so tense that a race riot is feared. Two automobiles loaded with negroes visited the town at night. The negroes were asked their business and refused to state it. They were ordered to leave and refused. Then a battle followed, many shots being fired, but it is said nobody was hurt.

Get the Children Ready For School.

School teachers of the State are telling parents to get their children ready for school now. Their advice is: "If your children must be vaccinated before they can enter school, have this done at once, so that any discomfort or illness they may suffer from vaccinated arms may be over with before school begins. 'Nothing is more annoying to the teacher,' they say, 'nor does the class as a whole a greater injury than irregular attendance on account of sickness during the first weeks of school.'"

Public health work, particularly medical school inspection, has made the teacher the guardian angel of the children's health while they are under her charge. Teachers are realizing this responsibility when they advise: "Parents should know that their children have no contagious or infectious diseases or have been directly exposed to them when they start them to school. If they are not sure and if any communicable disease, as diphtheria, measles, whooping cough or scarlet fever, is prevalent in the community, the family physician should be called in for his advice. If the children have been exposed to any disease they should be kept at home till their physician advises it is safe to start to school."

"It is only by keeping sick children away from school," say the teachers, "that school epidemics can be avoided and the health of the children, as well as that of the community, can be best safeguarded."

Mountain Sheep Work.

With the agreement of Mr. S. T. Henry of Spruce Pine, Mitchell county, to allow his 1,350 acre farm to be used for experimental work with sheep by the North Carolina Experiment Station, and with the appointment of Mr. W. R. Radford of Yancey county to take charge of this work, the Animal Industry Division has begun its campaign for the production of more sheep in the State and for further study of all the problems affecting the industry on the farm. Mr. Radford is a graduate of the class of 1917, and specialized in animal work.

It is the purpose of the station to develop a system of range sheep husbandry to determine the practicability of the industry for the State. Along with this will be experimental work conducted for adaptation to the small average farm, where 50 to 40 sheep are maintained. Mr. Henry's farm will be divided into a system of seven or eight sheep corrals, each of which will accommodate from 150 to 200 head. Fifty breeding ewes will be purchased this year, as a first unit of the work, and 50 lambs will be bought next spring as a second unit, additional units of the same number to be bought as the land is cleared, pasture provided and other necessary feed grown for the maintenance of the flock.

The work will be conducted for at least a period of five years, and longer if satisfactory arrangements are made.

Tries to Break Into Prison Camp.

Declaring that he had been a sailor on the German steamship Vaterland, Herman Friese appeared at the office of United States Marshal Webb in Asheville and demanded that he be interned at the detention camp at Hot Springs. The case was referred to an immigration official who happened to be in Asheville, but the official said he could do nothing for Friese. The German insisted that he be interned and seemed to regard it a privilege of which he was being deprived. He said he had been in Colorado and more recently had been at work at Lake Toxaway. He declared that his wages had been unsatisfactory and that his food was in no way equal to that served at the camp.

Possibly this German had heard the stories—which are not true—that the interned Germans at Hot Springs are maintained in luxury—fed on the very best food and each man given an individual bed and room.

In Durham Superior court last week Logan Meadows was convicted of store-breaking and larceny and sentenced to the State prison for ten years. A few weeks ago Meadows, who was serving a 25-year sentence in the State prison for killing a man, was pardoned by Gov. Bickett. He hadn't been out of prison 24 hours until he broke into and robbed a store.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Back-ache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then set fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overworking kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Six men and a woman are in custody in Chicago, suspected of complicity in the murder and robbery of two messengers as they were about to deliver the weekly payroll of $9,600 to a Chicago manufacturing company. The robbers opened fire as the messengers approached the gates and fled with their booty in automobiles.
