In All They Have Raised More Than Fifteen Hundred Bushels This Year — Mr. Hagler Loses Fine Horse.

Correspondence of The Journal.

Wingate, Dec. 4. — The rain on last Thursday prevented us from holding a Thanksgiving service at Meadow Branch and Macedonia. We will take our offering for the orphanage the second Sunday morning. Don't forget to be ready. We must make a fine offering this time. No people on earth are more blessed than we. We all have good homes, healthy children, good looking wives, fat horses, fat hogs, full cribs, and many have good bank accounts, so get ready. Let us do something like we ought to. If you are going to plead poverty, don't do so to the Lord. Let it be somebody else, not the one who knows.

Uncle Joe Bivens went to Bethel Thanksgiving day in spite of the rain. They had a short service and raised more than six dollars for the orphanage.

Boyce Sherrin has been promoted to second lieutenant. Good for Boyce. He is a Wingate boy. Well, all of the Wingate boys are doing fine at Camp Jackson.

Prof. Broadus Jones and Prof. Clyde Jones were home last Saturday evening. They attended the teachers' meeting at Charlotte and came on from there to see home folks for a little while.

Joel Hargett came up from Camp Jackson last Friday and remained until Sunday evening. He says that he likes camp life a little better than he expected.

The play given by the students of the Wingate school last Wednesday evening was quite a success. A large crowd attended and the play was as well rendered as any we have seen since coming here three years ago. The conduct was far better than we have seen here. Usually some small boys stay out doors to blow automobile horns, make all the noise they could, and disturb things in general, but they behaved pretty well this time. We hope it will continue this way.

Is it not a strange thing that people will make a blessing a curse? Yet this has always been true. In the years long ago, the Israelites made a curse out of the greatest blessings they ever had. It was the brazen serpent. They used it at first to cure the deadly bite of the fiery serpent, after it had served its purpose they made an idol out of it. One of the famous kings of Israel had to destroy it, calling it "Nehushtan", nothing but brass. A blessing was turned into a curse. Well, we are doing much worse. Take the gift of speech. Are we not making a curse out of it when it was intended for one of the greatest blessings man has ever had bestowed upon him? It is nothing to hear men swear, backguard, lie, ridicule, or criticize. It is awful to think that men will turn such a blessing into such a curse. The very idea of men allowing their better judgment to leave them enough so that they will abuse their fellow men, speak rudely about their families, and ridicule them in such a way that they cannot look them in the face when they meet on the streets. Yet this is done daily. It goes even into our churches. Brethren speak so badly about each other that they feel so mean while they are in church that they go away from the house of God saying that the preacher was too dry today when the trouble was with the hearers. My friend, don't allow your tongue to ruin your joy. Curb your tongue. Better not speak at all than to speak evil of your fellow man. You will have to meet him some day. If not in this world, it will surely come in the future. You had better make sure your words. The safest man on earth is the man who guards his tongue. The meanest wretch on earth is the fellow who sees the wrong in everybody, and is always telling people about it. Take the most out of thine own eye, then shalt thou see clearly.

Miss Mary Perry returned from the hospital last Saturday evening. She is getting on nicely now. She did not have to stay in the hospital but eleven days.

Prof. Marcus Dry spent Saturday night in Wingate. He was returning from the teachers' meeting in Charlotte.

Milton Austin, one of our Austin Grove boys in Camp Jackson, is confined in a hospital at that place. We hope he may soon be out and home again.

Dr. I. S. Funderburk of Mount Croghan was in Wingate Saturday evening. He was on his way to Charlotte for a patient. He returned Sunday morning.

Miss Hope Watson, who is now teaching in the city school of Gastonia, was home for Thanksgiving. She returned Saturday.

Mr. Jesse Williams was in from Waxhaw last week. He is so quiet about his coming that it is hard to keep up with him.

We go to the State Convention at Durham today. Rev. R. M. Hagler is going with us over there. We are expecting a great meeting this time. Will report it in next Tuesday's issue of The Journal.

Glenalpine wants a nice pig. If anyone can put him in touch with some one who has pigs to sell, he will greatly appreciate it.

The morning service at Meadow Branch will be conducted by the pastor. Subject of the morning sermon, "Repairing the Torn-Down Altar". The evening subject will be, "How

May I Know I am a Child of God?

Be sure to be present if you can. We desire a large crowd Sunday morning. Don't forget that the offering will be taken for the orphanage as we did not have any service Thanksgiving.

Prof. and Mrs. Carroll went to Turkey, N. C. Thanksgiving to visit his parents. They returned Sunday, making the trip of one hundred and eighty miles in a Ford. They came in on good time.

Mrs. Mattie Graves of Pageland has been visiting Mrs. Tom Perry for a few days.

Mr. B. B. Howard and family of Concord visited Glenalpine last Sunday. Mrs. Howard is an old student of ours. Mr. Howard is a very highly esteemed friend. It was quite a pleasure indeed to have them in our home for a little while.

Messrs. Z. V. McIntyre and L. J. Smith are the champion corn raisers in this section. They together have made more than fifteen hundred bushels this year.

Mr. Joe Hagler lost a fine horse last week. It was the only one he had. This comes as a very heavy loss as he is a young man just starting out in life. There is a committee out soliciting help for him. Help him if you can.

Miss Odessa Black spent Thanksgiving with Miss Zula Stegall near Charlotte.

Several new students are in school this week. We welcome them all.

Miss Phronie Perry and Miss Ethel Webb have a very full school at the Snyder school house. They now number about one hundred and twenty. This is entirely too many for two teachers.

Mr. Raymond McIntyre was in town yesterday visiting home folks. He has a good job at Badin now. Many of our Wingate boys are at work there.

The largest Sunday school normal class was organized at Wingate yesterday afternoon. The ministerial class begins work next Monday.—Glenalpine.

AMERICA'S NEWEST PLAN FOR RAISING MONEY FOR THE WAR

Sale of Thrift Stamps for 25 Cents and Savings Certificates for $82.40 Begins Today.

Washington, Dec. 2.—America's newest plan for raising war funds and encouraging habits of thrift will go into operation tomorrow with the opening of sales of war savings stamps and certificates at postoffices and banks. The campaign is to continue for a year in expectation of receiving the $2,000,000,000 maximum authorized.

The smallest unit in the war savings plan is the thrift stamp which costs 25 cents; the largest is the war savings certificate, which costs $82.40 and is redeemable in five years at $100, at the rate of 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly. Officials in charge of the progressive campaign expect millions of persons, including children and families of small means, to invest regularly in the stamps as a means of helping the nation win the war and laying aside money to be returned to them later.

Every postoffice in the country has a big supply of the stamps and shipments were rushed to the banks today so that the sale might open with a rush tomorrow. By the end of the week arrangements will be made to supply millions of other agencies, such as retail stores, schools and savings societies.

Allotments for each state and the six districts into which the country has been divided for organization purposes will be announced tomorrow. Every state director they will assign a certain portion of expected sales to each country, city, town or other subdivision, on the basis of about $20 for each person. The competition between states or subdivisions is counted on strongly by those promoting the movement to stimulate interest.

And They Obeyed.

Benjamin Franklin was once dining with a party of distinguished gentlemen in Paris, when one of them said: "Three nationalities are represented here this evening. I am French, my friend is English, and Mr. Franklin is American. Let each of us propose a toast." It was agreed to, and the Englishman, who was accorded first honors, arose, and in the tone of a Briton bold, said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to all the nations of the earth." The Frenchman was rather taken aback at this, but he proposed: "Here's to France, the moon whose magic rays move the tides of the world." Franklin arose, with an air of quaint modesty and said: "Here's to our beloved George Washington, the Joshua of America, who commanded the sun and moon to stand still—and they obeyed."

REV. MR. WALSH BEGINS WEEKS MISSION AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Taking His Text From Job, He Addresses the Audience to Consult the Great Physician When in Spiritual Need.

Rev. T. Tracy Walsh, pastor of the church of the Good Shepherd of York, S. C., began a week's mission at St. Paul's Episcopal church here Monday night at 7:30. Before taking up his subject for the evening he explained that a mission was the same as a revival and that the only way to make it a success was to pray every day, come every day, and bring some one with you every day.

His text from the evening was from Job, the second chapter and fourth verse. "All that a man hath will he give for his life."

He said that man would do anything to prolong his physical life, but would neglect his spiritual life. At the first symptoms of bodily illness we consult a physician, yet thousands of men and women go through life without going to Christ, the Great Physician, who cures all diseases of the soul. Man will exercise his body to keep it strong and healthy, yet he will not exercise his soul by reading the Bible and praying that it may keep strong and healthy. We will go out of our way to avoid a disease where there is a contagious disease yet we will stay in an atmosphere charged with disease germs that attack the soul. "All that a man hath, yet we will not sacrifice a small thing for our spiritual life." Man is only placed on earth to prepare for his eternal life and we should always place the eternal above the temporal. "For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?"

The services will continue throughout the week, morning services at 10:30 o'clock, and evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to be present.

THE WAR SITUATION.

The Result of German and Bolshevik Conference Still in Doubt.

Extremely hard fighting, with the Germans using great forces of infantry in mass formation, is taking place along the southwestern and southeastern sections of the Cambrai salient. In the region of Connelien, La Vaquerie and southward to Vendhuile and northward toward Masnières, battles waged with great fierceness throughout Monday, but with the Germans nowhere successful in breaking the British front. At La Vaquerie they again succeeded in penetrating the village from which they were ejected previously, but a strong counter-attack again turned the scales in favor of General Byng's forces, who threw out the enemy, inflicting heavy casualties on him.

Although the Germans in their offensive have been using men reckoned at 20 divisions, the British have been able at several points to regain some of the ground they lost in the initial attack which was delivered with a suddenness similar to that of Byng's bid drive toward Cambrai. Sunday night they had gained the eastern edge of the village of Villers-Guislain and driven out the Germans from La Vaquerie. They held this latter position until Monday morning, when they were compelled again to cede it to the enemy, only to take it again later in the day. Southwest of Bourlon village, at the west of Cambrai, the British also have recovered lost terrain.

The German war office asserts that 4,000 British have been made prisoners during their drive and that 100 guns have been taken from them. A large number of the guns, already have been recaptured. The four days' battle is described as the most sanguinary one that has taken place since the days of Verdun and the first battle of Ypres.

Artillery duels are in progress between the French and the Germans north of the Chemin-des-Dames and in the Verdun sector. An attack by the Germans north of Flibrey, in the latter region, was entirely without result, the Germans being driven back by the French, suffering heavy casualties and leaving prisoners behind them.

Likewise on the Italian front, the fighting is mostly by means of big guns, the duels being intense on the northern line in the hilly region between the Brenta and Piave rivers.

No details have yet been received concerning the negotiations between the Germans and the Russians for an armistice, although the German grand headquarters announces that an armistice already is in force on sections of the Russo-German front. In addition to Austria-Hungary accepting the proposals of the Russians for a cessation of hostilities, Bulgaria also is to open negotiations with Russia with the same object in view.

Meanwhile the international situation in Russia remains acute. Infantry and machine gun detachments have been sent against the general staff headquarters at the front, where refusal met the Bolshevik regime's demand that proper arrangements be made by the commander-in-chief with the Germans for an armistice.

The inter-allied conference in Paris has ended. Colonel House, head of the American legation, in the closing address, declared that there had been coordination and unity of purpose reached which promised greater results for the future and it was in deep conviction "that by this unity and by concentrated effort we shall be able to arrive at the goal which we have set out to reach."

CHRIST DOESN'T WANT US TO KEEP OUR RELIGION A SECRET

Christians Should Join the Church, Says Rev. J. E. Abernethy in Sermon That Marks the Beginning of His Fourth Year Here.

Rev. J. E. Abernethy began his fourth year's work as pastor of the Central Methodist church here Sunday morning by preaching an eloquent sermon to a well filled church. His text was from St. Luke, the 17th chapter and 20th and 21st verses: "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation. For lo, the kingdom of God is within you."

Mr. Abernethy said that people had been asking when would the kingdom of God come since the time of Christ, and that this question was fully answered by the text.

Some people expect the kingdom to come in glory with the songs and music of angels, some expect it to come as a great political power, this is what the Jews expected and the main reason why they reject the religion of Jesus Christ; while others expect it to come as a great revolution and establish itself by force of arms. There is no foundation for any of these expectations as the Word expressly states that the kingdom of God is not of this world, but in the heart of man.

He said that the text was often misinterpreted; some saying that if the kingdom of God comes without observation then we need no revivals, others saying for the same reason we can have no consciousness of salvation, while still others thinking that as the kingdom of God comes without observation then they should keep their religion a secret and therefore will not join the church. These interpretations of the text are all wrong. Pentecost was a great revival. Many passages of Scripture prove, with the experience of thousands, that we are conscious of salvation if truly saved. And those that think that Christ wishes us to keep our religion a secret are in error for does not the Word say that if we confess Christ before men he will confess us before his Father who is in Heaven?

Then there are many erroneous beliefs about the manifestations of the Kingdom of God. For instance, the Catholic thinks that the Pope is God's supreme agent on earth, and just the opposite of the Catholic is the heretic who withdraws from the world to live their religion. Then there are those who think that they can divide their life into sections, a secular and a religious side, and try to live them separate and distinct. A man cannot live this kind of life and be a true Christian.

Religion is a science and is different from all other sciences and arts. One cannot practice two sciences at the same time, but one can practice the science of religion in connection with any worthy science. Neither can you practice two arts at the same time. A man cannot practice medicine and teach school at the same time, but he can practice the art of religion as he goes about either of these arts.

Religion can be comprehended and practiced in any honorable place by every one from the ignorant street sweeper to the college professor. A man may have a secular job and yet be a devout Christian, just so the position is an honorable one. If he longs to live as Christ lived and make the world better and happier by his living there will be a place in Heaven for him, although his job may be making chicken coops.

In conclusion Mr. Abernethy said that we all thought of what a beautiful place Heaven would be and longed to go there some day, but the main thing was to build a Heaven in our hearts, a consciousness of salvation, and we would finally attain that longed for place.

Congress Again Convenes in War Session.

The second session of the sixty-fifth congress began yesterday at noon with the brief routine sessions marked by the receipt of appropriation estimates for next year's war and ordinary expenses aggregating the vast sum of $12,599,000,000.

Today at noon the senate and house will meet in joint session at 12:30 p. m., to hear President Wilson deliver his address. Guidance of the President in the work ahead is awaited by tacit agreement. Congressional leaders tonight admitted that his recommendations, awaited with profound interest by the world, virtually would outline the session's program.

Speculation as to the nature of the President's address centers largely upon whether he will recommend declarations of war against Germany's allies. General belief is that he will not, at least for the present, and that congress will follow his desires. Sentiment for such action is widespread, however, and individual members probably will introduce war resolutions. One or two senators were prepared today to offer such resolutions, but were prevailed upon to withhold them.

The tax is 50 cents on considerations between $100 and $500 and 50 cents for each additional $500. This is equivalent to a tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent on the equity. No stamps on mortgages.

ESQ. JEMRY LANEY AND A CIGAR

A Spark From the Soothing Weed Came Mighty Near Ruining His Coat.

To the Editor of The Journal:—It has been quite a while since I wrote anything for The Journal, and I have about got out of practice. However, I will endeavor to try again. There have been several things that have occurred that I would like to have said something about, but my reticence has obliterated nearly everything that impressed me.

Among some of the things that has happened in the past year I recall one incident in particular that gives me a back-set about writing, and it makes me tremble to think about it. I drove out of town a year ago smoking a cigar that my good friend, John Beasley, gave me. I started out smoking like a dignified gentleman. The wind was blowing briskly, and about two miles from town my left side began to get hot. I did not understand the heat, and ran my hand around under my coat, and behold! I found that my coat was on fire, as I burnt my hand pretty bad. I got out of that coat as soon as I could, and put out the fire. It seems that a spark had blown off my cigar into one of my pockets, causing a blaze. One of my pockets was completely burned up, and it was the best coat I had. I hid that coat when I got home, and you may be certain that I didn't tell Mrs. Laney. She doesn't know anything about it yet, as that coat is now in the hands of a pressing club for repairs. So Mrs. Laney when she reads this, will learn about my experience for the first time. That old burnt coat has kept me out of The Journal for a full year.

Some time ago I had the pleasure of uniting in marriage Mr. J. F. Courtney, and Miss Sarah Yow. I met them in the public road, and married them while they sat in their buggy, and sent them on their way rejoicing.—J. C. Laney.

Marriage of Miss Gathings and Mr. Latta.

Miss Rebecca Gathings, daughter of Mrs. Nora R. Gathings, and Mr. W. W. Latta of Greensboro were quietly married Saturday evening at 6 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Lindsay of Charlotte. Mrs. Latta was accompanied to Charlotte by her aunts, Misses Alma and Thelma Rivers and Miss Rusha Taylor.

Immediately after the ceremony there was a wedding supper at the Selwyn hotel where the bride and groom are stopping for a few days, having had to postpone their bridal tour to Florida because of the illness of the groom's mother, Mrs. R. D. Latta of Greensboro.

The bride is a charming and accomplished young lady and the groom is a well known traveling salesman, holding a responsible position with the Liquid Carbonic Company of Atlanta. The couple will make their home in Greensboro.

Drop Something in the "Melting Pot"

To the Editor of The Journal:—When the Christmas days come we folks at home will sit before the fire and enjoy the presents and companionship of our loved ones. We will go to the Christmas trees or maybe help eat the big fat gobbler at the home of a friend. But while we stay at home and enjoy the Christmas cheer, scattered throughout the camps in the United States and France there will be Union county boys whose hearts long for the Christmas times at home. All these boys cannot be allowed to come, but friend, you can help send them some Christmas cheer by taking that old watch case or that broken silver spoon or bracelet and placing it in the "melting pot" at Bude's the next time you come up town. The money from the sale of articles thus contributed will be used to buy every Union county boy in the army a Christmas present.—A Friend.

Bryan Predicts Federal Prohibition.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Ratification by the states of a prohibition amendment to the federal constitution within two years was predicted tonight by William Jennings Bryan, speaking before the opening session of the annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. With 26 states already dry and prohibition territory spreading in others Mr. Bryan said a federal amendment before 1920 seemed certain.

Nearly 1,000 delegates representing every state are here for the convention which will continue until Friday. The national officers are preparing to devote their energies to the fight for passage by the house of the amendment resolution already passed by the senate. They profess confidence the house will act favorably before Christmas.

In his speech Mr. Bryan declared the action of the President in ordering a reduction in the alcoholic contents of beer was a great step forward for prohibition. The failure to suspend the manufacture of beer entirely because it would put the country on a whiskey basis, he said, meant that there would be but one argument in the future on the prohibition question and that congress should lose no time in saying there would be no further conversion of foodstuffs into beer or whiskey.

Immunity For the Spy.

(From the Rochester Herald.) All the trouble in the French cabinet has been due to its reluctance to hurt Germany's spies. Uncle Sam can profit by that, if he will.
