NO NEW FLAYERS TO BE MADE FOR PERIOD OF WAR

Great Ford Plant at Detroit Will be Devoted Entirely to War Work—Stocks of Ford Parts to be Kept on Hand.

Washington, D. C., September 9th.—No more Ford pleasure automobiles are to be manufactured until after the war. The endless stream in which they poured in from the big Detroit plant of the one time pacifist but now ardent fighting man has been completely shut off. The last "Bliver" rolled from the assembling ways in the Michigan motor capital last Friday evening.

The next "Who knows when," said Mr. Henry Ford to a World reporter who journeyed down here with him Monday evening from New York. "Certainly not until the Germans have been licked and an end has been put to this Kaiser business."

Although the production of the pleasure machines ceased three days ago, the fact has not been previously announced. From three thousand and two hundred machines daily the output was gradually reduced, and more war work was assumed by the Ford plant, until at the last only five hundred were being made each day.

TOO MUCH PLEASURE.

"I am proud to say now that I and my men are one hundred per cent for the war," said the ex-Peace Seeker as he walked across Washington from the Congressional Limited to his hotel. "At the present time I think there are quite enough if not too many pleasure cars in existence. It isn't the time to think of pleasure anyway."

For the benefit of the owners of the Ford machines, who may need parts thereof the manufacturer announced there is a large reserve stock of these and they will always be obtainable. Whatever Ford cars are manufactured from now until the end of hostilities will be for the use of the Government, for trucking, transportation of men and supplies, or for ambulance purposes.

On the way down in the train, Mr. Ford chatted about the various sorts of war work his plants in Detroit and elsewhere are now engaged in.

WAR IMPLEMENTS MADE.

One of the most important instruments of warfare being made at the main establishment is the Eagle, or miniature destroyer for chasing submarines. "We have two of these in the water," he said, "and three more ready to be dropped overboard, and twenty-one more well advanced in construction. The first one has already had steam in here and ought to have her speed tried in a couple of days and then go into service. In a short time we will be turning out Eagles at the rate of two in every three days."

Equal at least in importance are the Liberty motors for airplanes which are being produced in the Detroit Ford Plant. Last month six hundred of these, complete and tested, were turned out.

These are of the twelve cylinder four hundred horse power type. Two thousand cylinders for the Liberty are being completed there daily and put into use by all manufacturers of the motor.

Gun caissons are being produced by the thousands at the Detroit plant. There, too, are made all the dies for the machines which press out the "tin hats" our soldiers wear in the trenches. They are finished in the Philadelphia plant. The extensive Long Island City works have been turned over entirely to the manufacturers of gas masks. The Boston Plant is in operation by the Government and the one in Chicago soon to be taken over.

FARM TRACTORS MADE.

In addition to this long list of purely war appliances the manufacturer is turning out thousands of farm tractors.

There are more than thirty thousand Ford employees now engaged in war work.

"We have five thousand stars on our service flag, for those who have actually gone into the Army or Navy, but we really should add thirty thousand stars for now we are all in the game," declared Mr. Ford.

RUSSIA HAS A STRONG

HOPE OF A REPUBLIC

Wants the Help of the Allied Nations—Has New Government Recruiting Men, But Needs a Nucleus of Disciplined Soldiers.

(By the Associated Press.)

Archangel, Thursday, Aug. 29.—More entente allied troops are needed to aid in forming a screen behind which a new Russia may be formed to join Russia's wards in the war on Germany, Nicholas Vasilovitch Tschalkovsky, president of the new "sovereign government of the northern region of Russia," told the Associated Press today.

It was the first interview accorded by the president to a representative of the foreign press and M. Tschalkovsky frankly discussed the history and aims of the new government.

"We want to restore the eastern front against Germany, together with our allies," M. Tschalkovsky said. "We thought the only way to do so, in addition to the agitation of our own people, would be to have a firm military basic screen to work behind and to protect us from immediate attacks by the Germans and the bolsheviks."

"We understand perfectly well under the circumstances and demoralization that it would be impossible to restore our own army in a short space of time, without having the nucleus of a disciplined force upon which we could rely in case of necessity."

"Therefore we require a screen in the shape of some Allied force. We have some but we need to move quickly and therefore we certainly need immediately a number of Allied troops."

M. Tschalkovsky explained that the Government does not rely exclusively on the troops of the Allies.

AMERICANS AND JAPS WANTED
"We have our own forces," he said. "In the short space of a few days, with the aid of the Allies, we recruited in Archangel alone over one thousand men. What we want is Allied assistance and with that we are confident of success. We naturally expect American aid. We need soldiers, food and agricultural machinery from America and if the Japanese finally decide to come from the East, they are welcome, too. We should like Americans to come with them."

He explained that the Government plans to extend its authority as its troops progress, joining all the elements opposing Germany and forming a new eastern front.

"We decided to begin the Government in the north because we felt that the Allies could best help us there."

"As at present formed, our Government includes the provinces of Archangel, Murman, Vologda, Viatka, and the northern part of Novgorod. Perhaps Yaroslav and Kostroma will join us," M. Tschalkovsky continued.

WILL JOIN WITH SIBERIA LATER.

"The idea of our Government was born in Moscow. We include all groups except the extreme left and the monarchists. Siberia already has a similar Government and soon our groups will form regional Governments, in central eastern and southern Russia. We are ready to join in some sort of federation and then call a constituent assembly."

"All the members of our Government were members of the former constituent assembly, which was elected by the people. We call ourselves a sovereign, instead of provisional, Government because we believe in the need of firm authority. We have no personal ambitions."

M. Tschalkovsky said he feels the Russian people are capable of a republican form of Government, despite the general illiteracy, and cited the success of the village Governments.

"The leaders of our groups, including myself, were in constant danger of arrest, and had many narrow escapes before the Allies came to our aid," he said.

BLOW ON EYE OF ALLIED AID.

"Some of us came to Archangel early in July and launched our plans. I cut short my usually long beard and remained in hiding in disguise. We raised about six hundred soldiers, with officers, and struck on the night of August first. The Allies came the next day."

M. Tschalkovsky, venerable and with the white beard of the typical Russian, was born in Viatka province in 1850. His father was a land owner and he is a distant relative of the emperor of the same name. As a student in Petrograd, he engaged in revolutionary propaganda. He fled to America, where he lived from 1875 to 1879, and then went to England, where he was a refugee for twenty-eight years. He returned to Russia in 1907 and was arrested. He was tried, together with Catherine Bresskovskaya, "grandmother of the Russian revolution," and was acquitted, while she was convicted.

M. Tschalkovsky later visited America again on a lecture tour. Since he has been in Russia, he has been directing co-operative societies, which he believes will prove the real basis of a new commercial Russia.

The president said the Government needs some immediate financial aid principally to restore currency, of which Archangel virtually was depleted by the bolsheviks.

"Later," M. Tschalkovsky concluded, "we shall want more substantial assistance, but we have three hundred and fifty million rubles in exportable goods needed by the Allies to trade for money. First of all we want bread."

Dora Kaplan, the Russian revolutionary, who attacked Premier Kenehin has refused to disclose the names of her accomplices or to give any information regarding the attack, says a dispatch from Moscow to the Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger. She said that she recently arrived in Moscow from the Crimea.
