MISS HEATH DESCRIBES INTERESTING LONDON SIGHTS

Visits Cambridge, Westminster Abbey, Caledonia Market, King's Chapel and Other Places of Interest to Americans.

The Imperial Hotel, 1000 Rooms Turkish Baths, London, W. C., December 4th, 1918. Dear Allen and Lessie:—I don't know just how much my "Diary Style" letter is going to appeal to you all, but are on my list for the 5th...

It is said that London is one of the healthiest of the larger cities of Europe, but I feel that I would have to be shown the statistics in proof...

We have spent today in Cambridge, going up early, about two hours ride, and back tonight at 8:30. It is a city of 50,000, no street cars, quaint winding narrow streets, and of course, the thirty colleges, which make up Cambridge University...

Dec. 5th.—As Westminster Abbey was closed when I was in London in 1911, I went thro this morning. We were fortunate to get with a party of American soldiers and sailors and really saw everything...

Mr. Gregory's letter of resignation dated January 9, and the President's reply, cabled from Paris, the next day, were made public Sunday night at the white house. The attorney general's letter disclosed that he had long considered retiring from office and had discussed the matter with the President before Mr. Wilson went abroad.

This afternoon we spent on Regent street, the 5th avenue of London. We did as one often does in New York—just simply walked up and down and then up and own again and "window shopped."

World's Best Known Statesmen Assembled at French Foreign Office to Exchange Views and Arrange For Procedure of Conference.

The supreme council of the peace congress, consisting of President Wilson and the premier and foreign ministers of the four great powers...

The conference opened promptly at 3 o'clock. From the offices of M. Pichon, the vista was over the gardens of the foreign ministry. The desk of M. Pichon had been pushed back and a large table of Flemish oak substituted. A large marble statue of the republic, surmounted by a cap of liberty, looked down on the assembled statesmen...

The sympathy of all the people goes out to the wounded soldiers as they pass through our city, and we wish to give them our very best service. Mrs. Ellie Wilson and Mrs. Joel Myers and others have sent milk to the hut for this purpose...

ATTORNEY-GENERAL GREGORY RESIGNS FROM U. S. CABINET.

Reason — President Wilson Has Agreed to His Retirement on March Fourth But Has Not Named a Successor.

Thomas Watt Gregory, attorney general of the United States since 1914, has resigned because of "pecuniary responsibilities" and will return to his practice of law.

Mr. Gregory's successor has not been appointed, and there has been no official intimation as to who he will be. In speculation today the names of Frank L. Polk, counselor of the state department and acting secretary while Mr. Lansing is in Europe, and Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois were mentioned.

SUPREME COUNCIL OF PEACE CONFERENCE NOW IN SESSION

World's Best Known Statesmen Assembled at French Foreign Office to Exchange Views and Arrange For Procedure of Conference.

The supreme council of the peace congress, consisting of President Wilson and the premier and foreign ministers of the four great powers, Great Britain, France, the United States and Italy, met at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at the French foreign office for the first formal exchange of views and to make arrangements for the procedure of the conference tomorrow, at which delegations will be present.

This meeting was chiefly interesting in its personal aspects—bringing together for the first time in contact of the world's best known statesmen, who are now the guiding figures of the congress.

The conference opened promptly at 3 o'clock. From the offices of M. Pichon, the vista was over the gardens of the foreign ministry.

Canteen Notes.

The sympathy of all the people goes out to the wounded soldiers as they pass through our city, and we wish to give them our very best service. Mrs. Ellie Wilson and Mrs. Joel Myers and others have sent milk to the hut...

carriages were passing, and, you bet, I thanked him. I think that I have mentioned the fact that we have to have ration cards, to get meat, sugar, etc. We buy the sugar, if we wish that, but when we get meat, the waitress tears off the coupon...

SOME NOVEL EVENTS IN LIFE OF MR. ROOSEVELT

Illustrate Amazing Energy and Versatility That Built Up His Fame — Always Impatient of Ponderous and Slow Functioning of Congress.

Here are some of the stories that have been told of Theodore Roosevelt and that illustrate his amazing energy and versatility:

At the beginning of his first administration as President he insisted on frequent target practice for the navy. He requested and received one very large appropriation for ammunition, and Congress expressed amazement when he demanded almost immediately more money.

When he was asked what he intended doing with the additional sum he said: "I shall use every dollar of that too within the next thirty days in practice shooting. That's what ammunition is made for—to burn."

When President Roosevelt was graduated from Harvard and went home to New York, he decided, as thoughtful men often do, to devote part of his energy and ability to the work of the church.

At several of the services he failed to bow when the rubric required such a posture. He waited to kneel, as those who noticed him watched with chagrin. If they had left him alone he would have learned. These people were ill-bred in those manners which win men and make men souls.

"His love for children, especially for those who have not so good a time as others, is as instinctive as his championship of all that needs a life. I doubt if he is aware of it himself. He does not recognize as real sympathy what he feels rather as a sense of duty."

"Yet I have seen him when school children crowded around the rear platform of the train from which he had been making campaign speeches, to shake hands, catch the eye of a poor little crippled girl in a patched frock...

"Tomorrow!" the President exploded. "Gentlemen, if Noah had had to consult such a committee as this about building the Ark it wouldn't have been built yet."

Capt. George A. Lung of the Medical Corps of the Navy was in Washington while Col. Roosevelt was President and accompanied him on several trips, during which he says a great deal of the President's intimate character was revealed to him.

When the Kaiser visited the flagship Louisiana and saw the President's Louisiana and saw the President's photograph hanging in a conspicuous place and, upon leaving, he grandly presented a photograph of himself and said that if he had any preference as to where it should be hung he would select the spot President Roosevelt's picture adorned.

The following taken from a recent issue of the New York World adds further to the glory of the Thirtieth. American troops were the first to break the Hindenburg line, according to the Daily News, in its comment today on the report of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig on the operations from the end of April last to the close of hostilities.

At the end of the Colonel was all in. So was I. But the President exclaimed, "Great, bully!" I said, "This exercise ought to be made a test for promotion." The Colonel thumped his hands together and shouted, "By George, I'll do it!"

Office of the Postmaster General, Washington, Dec. 31, 1918. To All Officers and Employees Throughout the Postal Establishment: I desire to express to all the employees of the Postal establishment my appreciation of the splendid way they have performed their duties during the past year.

There is an abundance of fine comedy in "The Make-Believe Wife," the new Paramount photoplay starring Billie Burke, which will be shown at the Strand theatre Wednesday. Miss Burke declares that her role in this picture is an excellent one and that she believes it to be one of the best of her career as a motion picture star.

The world league, if organized, will start its career unalterably opposed to any more world's series.—Arkansas Gazette. Germany set out in 1914 to make itself the most hated and feared of nations. It's still the most hated. —Anaconda Standard.

Fifth Liberty Loan Will Probably Open April 6th.

Opening of the fifth Liberty Loan campaign April 6, the second anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany, is under consideration by treasury officials, but no decision has been reached.

Whether the interest rate will be higher than the four and a quarter per cent borne by the last issue depends partly on the movement of the market price of Liberty bonds during the next two months.

AMERICAN TROOPS BROKE THE HINDENBURG LINE

Haig in His Report Gives Credit to 30th and 27th Divisions for "Smash" on Sept. 29 That Routed Germans—Dummy Tanks Scared Foe.

The following taken from a recent issue of the New York World adds further to the glory of the Thirtieth. American troops were the first to break the Hindenburg line, according to the Daily News, in its comment today on the report of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig on the operations from the end of April last to the close of hostilities.

North of Bellegrave the 30th American Division, Maj. Gen. E. M. Lewis, having broken through the deep defenses of the Hindenburg line, stormed Bellincourt and seized Nouray. On the left the 27th American Division, Maj. Gen. O'Ryan, met with very heavy enfilading machine gun-fire, but pressed on with great gallantry as far as Jouy, where a bitter struggle took place for possession of the village.

At the moment when the final triumph of the Allied cause is assured, we and all others of the Allied and associated armies can look back on the years that have gone with satisfaction undimmed by any hint of discord or conflict of interest and ideals.

When the armistice was signed by the enemy," he says, "his defensive powers had already been definitely destroyed. Continuation of hostilities would have meant only disaster to the German armies and an armed invasion of Germany."

"So great was the effect produced by British tanks, he says, that in more than one instance when real tanks were not available results were obtained by the use of dummy canvas tanks."

FINE COMEDY IN BILLIE BURKE'S NEW PHOTOPLAY

Paramount Star Has Splendid Role in New Picture, "The Make-Believe Wife"—At The Strand Wednesday.

There is an abundance of fine comedy in "The Make-Believe Wife," the new Paramount photoplay starring Billie Burke, which will be shown at the Strand theatre Wednesday. Miss Burke declares that her role in this picture is an excellent one and that she believes it to be one of the best of her career as a motion picture star.

"I was immensely pleased with the part of Phyllis Ashbrook," said Miss Burke recently, "Fancy a woman who is engaged to one man, being lost in the mountains with a man who is the fiancé of the woman's best friend. They are caught in a storm and are obliged to seek refuge in an old cabin where they are forced by the elements to spend the night. Of course this situation has developed in motion pictures, but never just like that in 'The Make-Believe Wife.'"

With the exception of one regiment supplied with twenty-four 4.7's no American-made guns ever reached the American front in France, which only means the Germans knew when to quit.—Wall Street Journal.
