These are Monroe's youngest travelers. Two years ago Morehead went for a jaunt down the coast of South American countries as a member of a ship's crew. The possession of his birth certificate which showed that he was not 21 years of age was all that prevented him from being carried from a South American port as a member of the crew to Europe. Last year William crossed the pond on a boat carrying war supplies. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stack.

—Messrs. Malcom Hoover, Henry Crump and other Union county boys were passengers on board a troop train which passed through Monroe, bound South for a demobilization camp, Friday afternoon. One of the officers from this train came up town to get a shave and the train pulled out without him. He hired a jitney and beat it for Waxhaw in an effort to catch the train there. Whether he was successful or not has not been learned.

—As the 9:20 train from Charlotte passed through Matthews Saturday night a negro threw a rock through one of the windows of the train, hitting a passenger on the head and rendering him unconscious, while glass from the window badly cut another about the head. Dr. J. E. Ashcraft rendered medical aid to them upon their arrival in Monroe. About forty pieces of glass were picked from the head of one passenger. Mr. W. H. —Prof. W. C. Riddick, president of A. & E. College, Prof. Mann, professor of civil engineering at A. & E., and a corps of assistants arrived in Monroe last night to begin a survey of the Seaboard tracks and trestles between Monroe and Bostic to determine if they are of sufficient strength to permit the use of the big Malley engines on them. These men are sent to make the survey by the Corporation Commission at the instance of Mr. J. C. Sikes, who is representing a number of railroad men in the matter. Mr. Sikes contends for his clients that the use of the big engines on the track to be surveyed not only injures the track but endangers the lives of the trainmen and passengers. Prof. Riddick and his assistants will probably be engaged in the work about a week.

Maxwell—a car in which luxury and economy meet

It doesn't cost a fortune to buy a Maxwell. Yet it is a sum to command a man's best judgment.

You can pay more and get less. You can pay $100, $200, $300—even $400 more and find no more luxury than you get in a Maxwell.

It has every modern improvement, every modern device of cars costing many hundred dollars more.

And if you pay less you will get less. Less room, for instance. Less Comfort. Less power. Less wheel-base. Less ability. Less luxury.

In most things you buy, whether it be a hat, shoes, dining-room furniture, or a house, there is always a meeting ground between luxury and economy.

Maxwell happens to be that particular point in a motor car.

You get the luxury without the big cost; and the economy without being cramped for a place to put your feet.

It is true that a Maxwell will not give you excessive speed. But it will run years after a speed car has been sold to a second-hand dealer.

It will not snort with a terrific power roar but it will give you everything you ask on a hill.

You can start it quicker than a bigger car; you can change a tire in less time; you can beat a trail from one ocean to another in less time; you can run away from a bigger car in traffic.

Maxwell will cause you little worry, for it is built, like the mountains, to last.

And all of this is due to a plan worked out more than 5 years ago by Maxwell executives.

This plan was to build a very simple car, one easy to manufacture, one easy to drive and take care of, one that would be everlastingly efficient.

There was but one way to do this; and that was to put it into manufacture, never change the original design, constantly improve, and keep on making better and better.

This plan has worked well. In 5 years 300,000 Maxwells have been built—all on the original chassis plan.

Today you get a better Maxwell than a year ago; and trying to buy a last year's Maxwell very often is like trying to buy a family heirloom.

Part of the sum saved through the obvious economy of a 300,000 "run" is put into the luxury of the car. The rest goes into your pocket.

And $200 saved, as the Scotch say, is $200 earned—just as big in your pocket as anyone else's. $895 f. o. b. Detroit.
