MONROE MAN WAS CHOSEN CHAIRMAN STATE LEGION

John Beasley, an Enlisted Man, Will Head Organization of Soldiers for First Year—Major Hugh Hinde Gets Message of Condolence to President Through Convention.

(From the Raleigh News & Observer) The North Carolina State organization of the American Legion held its first convention in Raleigh yesterday, heard addresses by Governor T. W. Bickett and Col. Albert W. Cox, lunched at the Yarrowbough, adopted a constitution, elected an enlisted man permanent chairman, resolved at length and then adjourned to meet on the second Monday in September, 1920, in Wilmington.

John Beasley of Monroe was elected chairman; Walter Clark, Jr., Charlotte, vice chairman, and C. A. Gosney, Raleigh, secretary-treasurer. In addition to these constitutional officers, John M. Robeson, Wilmington, was elected chaplain and Francis O. Clarkson, Charlotte, historian.

The executive committee is composed of W. C. Rodman, Washington; John N. Josey, Scotland Neck; A. L. Parsley, Clinton; Cale K. Burgess, Raleigh; B. C. Brown, Chapel Hill; J. F. Hurley, Salisbury; Wade H. Phillips, Lexington; J. E. Hanlon, Fort Caswell; A. L. Bulwinkle, Gastonia; Richard Langhran, Asheville.

Five delegates and five alternates to the national convention in Minneapolis, November 10, 11, 12, were chosen by the twenty-four delegates and twenty-four alternates at large were left for the appointment of the new chairman. Those elected were C. M. Falcloth, Clinton; C. A. Gosney, Raleigh; Cyrus DeHogue, Wilmington; Wade H. Phillips, Lexington; George L. Lyster, Hickory. The alternate chosen were Richard Langhran, Asheville; D. J. Wicheard, Jr., Greenville; Wm. F. Scholl, Lenoir; R. G. Cherry, Gastonia; B. C. Brown, Chapel Hill.

Virtually all of the forty-one local posts of the American Legion in North Carolina were represented in the meeting which began here yesterday at 9 o'clock and ended shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. These delegates represented a total enrollment of 1,459 in North Carolina.

The first session was held in the House of Representatives where Col. Albert W. Cox delivered an address and where the constitution was adopted. Following the luncheon at one o'clock in the Yarrowbough hotel, given by the Raleigh Post of the Legion, Governor Bickett spoke, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to resolutions and the election of officers. But the convention did not adjourn before a resolution had been adopted expressing the appreciation of the legionaries for the fine work of C. K. Burgess, C. A. Gosney, and W. D. Terry, of Raleigh, for their unceasing efforts in the work of organizing the legion in the State.

Invitations were extended for the meeting of the convention in Wilmington, Charlotte, Fayetteville, and Asheville next year, but the committee appointed to recommend time and place of meeting selected Wilmington. The choice met the unanimous approval of the convention.

Major Hugh Hinde of Monroe asked for a suspension of rules to permit the introduction of a motion authorizing the secretary to wire a message of sympathy and condolence to the President. His request was granted, and the following telegram, written by Major Hinde, was forwarded to the President: "The organization of the American Legion of North Carolina, in convention assembled, desires to express their sympathy for the President in his illness, and their hearty desire for his rapid restoration to health."

BELGIUM KING PAYS HOMAGE TO WASHINGTON'S MEMORY

Albert Places Wreath on Tomb at Mt. Vernon—Bugle Sounded Taps as Royal Party Landed.

Belgium's monarchs paid homage Wednesday to the memory of Washington. At peaceful Mount Vernon, overlooking the placid Potomac, King Albert placed a wreath upon the sarcophagus of the nation's first chief executive. There was no more of pomp and ceremonial than when he visited the spots where the Grant, Lincoln and Roosevelt, but the simple ceremony was none the less deeply impressive.

Landing first from the barges which carried them from the Presidential yacht Mayflower, Vice-President Marshall, the members of the cabinet and their wives had preceded the Belgians up the gentle sloping walk which leads to the tomb, awaiting there the coming of the king. Albert led the royal party, followed by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold. His majesty uncovered as he approached the red brick structure in the face of which is a simple slab of white marble bearing the inscription: "Within this inclosure rest the remains of General George Washington."

Then he lifted the huge wreath of yellow and white chrysanthemums which rested against the wall and stepped to the gate held open by an aged negro guard, who looked as though he might have been a cavalier of the first President. Albert bowed at the entrance and then stepped within, placing the flowers gently upon the granite slab. Again he bowed, this time more deeply, and stepped backward from the portal. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold, and prince then made obeisance before the sarcophagus, but no American stepped within the tomb. There was no other ceremony.

The trip down the river was one of the memorable events of the Belgians' American tour.

As the Mayflower dropped anchor abreast Mount Vernon a bugler sounded taps and the band played the "Star Spangled Banner," while the military members of the party stood rigidly at salute. The impressive little ceremony was repeated when the yacht began the return journey.

Within the Washington mansion they viewed the relics of the great American with more than passing interest and her majesty, a student of art, described as "wonderful" Houdan's bust of Washington, made while he was alive.

Then they were escorted about the quaint old fashioned flower gardens, the kitchen, laundry and coach house.

DEATH OF MR. LESTER NELSON.

Died Saturday Night in Asheville After Long Illness—Mrs. Ward Laney a Sister of Deceased—Waxhaw Presbyterian Church Will Probably Call Rev. G. B. Thompson—Other Items From Waxhaw Enterprise.

Mr. James Lester Nelson, account of whose serious illness was given some weeks ago, died Saturday night at Asheville, following an extended illness of pulmonary consumption. The body was brought to Lancaster Monday morning and burial was at Tirzah church that day with services conducted by Rev. W. W. Hatchford. Mr. Nelson was a son of J. C. Nelson of upper Lancaster county. He was about 42 years of age. Until his health gave way three or four years ago he held the state agency for several large insurance companies for the state of Georgia. When attacked by the dread disease he made every effort to fight it off. He spent several months in the Catskill mountains of New York and in Western North Carolina. Last winter was spent at his home near Tirzah and he returned to Asheville in the spring. All the while he was cheerful and hoped to get well. His sister, Miss Adelaide Nelson, was with him when he died, having been summoned the week before. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and was the highest type of Christian citizenship. His death will bring sadness to a large circle of relatives and friends throughout this entire section. Deceased is survived by his father and one brother, R. H. Nelson of Timmonsville, S. C., and two sisters, Mrs. Ward Laney of this county and Miss Adelaide Nelson of the home.

The road from Waxhaw to the highway near Cureton's Store has been surveyed and work will begin on it soon. Several changes will be made in its course. An S curve will be used to lessen the grade on this side the R6ne branch and the new road will bear to the left on the beyond the bridge. The road will be straightened beyond the Jim Heath place and will tap the highway near the State line. That section of the highway in Union County will be relocated, probably some distance east of its present location.

Rev. George B. Thompson of Bristol, Tenn., preached here last Sunday at the Presbyterian church to good audiences who were delighted with his sermons. The impression generally throughout the congregation that we want him as pastor, and it is understood that a call will be made out for him next Sunday morning. A canvass of the congregation is being made this week to see if an increase in salary subscriptions can be obtained.

The schedule of the rural carriers from Waxhaw has been changed and now the carriers leave the office at nine forty-five in the morning instead of eight o'clock as formerly. This arrangement was all right when the Wilson time was in vogue, but now that the country is doing business according to the honored time of our fathers it makes the carriers mighty late on their rounds. Since the schedule of the "vestibule" has been changed to eight twenty the morning mail from the north can be delivered on the routes the same day and this largely compensates for the later delivery.

AN APPEAL TO THE FARMERS.

Chairman Price Asks For Co-operation in Cotton Association Drive. To the Editor of The Journal:—Will you let me say through the columns of your paper, that of all times this is the time for the farmer and business man or rather men of all occupations to rally with all their forces to the cause of the American Cotton Association. The association Cotton, more than any other force, caused the price of cotton to reach the 40-cent mark. We need the association to grow and become stronger to maintain these prices in the future. When the drive is put on for membership (which will be Nov. 10-15) let everybody in Union county rally to the call of the farmer and join the association. Also give a good liberal subscription to the warehouse. Now is that time. Why? Because we are able now. Later when the reaction sets in we may not be as able as now. We may not need the money now, but the day is coming when we will need it. So let's do the sensible thing, build now while we are able and not wait till we are caught napping. Surely we can benefit by the experience of the past. We are coming into our own. Let's apply good business principles to our business and help redeem this fair Southland of ours. So let's all do our duty. I appeal to every one to do his utmost during this drive. Let's make Union a banner county.—Respt., J. N. Price, Pres.

PEOPLE URGED TO WORK BY GOVERNOR BICKETT

Re-Construction Commission Issues First Statement After Meeting This Week in Raleigh — Must Practice Rigid Economy and Saving—Have Faith in God and Our Fellowmen.

Governor Bickett's preliminary statement for the State re-construction commission issued yesterday to the people of North Carolina says: "The State re-construction commission created by the general assembly of 1919, is impressed that the work before the commission falls naturally into two divisions: 1—The pressing necessity of the present hour. 2—The needs of the near future.

"The comprehensible work the commission proposes to do will be taken up by committees and reports will be made to the full commission. The commission will then make specific findings in regard to the several subjects under consideration and these will be given to the public. "The commission is deeply impressed that there can be no real improvement in the present situation until our people shall hark back to the homely virtues of industry, economy and faith in fellow men. We call attention to one of the most recent utterances of President Wilson: "Only by keeping the cost of production on its present level, by increasing production and by right economy, and saving on the part of the people can we hope for large decreases in the burdensome cost of living which now weighs us down." "Work—this is essential to increased production of the necessities of life—and increased production is the only way to curtail the present excessive high cost of living.

"We call your attention further to the most recent utterance of Mr. Herbert Hoover, who has studied the subject more profoundly than any other living man, and he says: "It must be founded, too upon the fundamental fact that every section of this nation, the farmer, the industrial worker, the professional man and the employer are all absolutely inter-dependent upon each other in this task of maximum production and the better distribution of its results. It must be founded upon the maximum exception of every individual within his physical ability and upon reduction of waste, nationally and individually.

"Economy—in the excitement incident to the war and the intoxication induced by much new money, economy has become a lost art and frugality a forgotten virtue. In the face of the crisis that now confronts us waste is a crime and improvidence savors of instant. The commission urges the people to practice the most rigid economy in personal expenditures, and the greatest caution in making investments. If one is not absolutely sure that an investment is sound, let him buy a liberty bond, and our judgment is that the dollar thus invested will in the not distant future greatly increase in purchasing power."

Mr. Wannamaker Examines Cotton Grown By Mr. Wolfe.

Several weeks ago The Journal told of "Wolfe's Mammoth Cotton," grown by Mr. Rosser Wolfe on his farm west of Monroe. When Mr. J. S. Wannamaker was here Mr. Wolfe showed him a stalk of 1775 unusual cotton and has since had the following letter from the Cotton Association President: "I have planted all the leading varieties of cotton for years, big, medium and small bolls. I examined a stalk of cotton grown on your place, while in Monroe, which you told me you had named the "Mastodian. This cotton produces by far the largest boll I have ever seen grown. I am convinced that it is the largest boll grown anywhere to-day. The stalk was well fruited and from all appearances it had a very thin foliage. It also had a very fine root system and should have a very healthy plant. Your cotton appears to possess great merit and should be thoroughly tested."

CORRESPONDENT GIVES SHORT HISTORY LONG STAPLE COTTON

Hundreds of Acres Planted This Year in Union and Lancaster Counties—Scapegoat's Articles Popular. Correspondence of The Journal.

Waxhaw, Rt. 5, Oct. 29.—Messrs. Hoyle Starnes and Horace Lathan, who are attending Rutherford College, spent a few days last week with their parents here.

School will open next Monday here. Prof. Notes requests that every patron be on hand. The compulsory school law will be discussed freely. Prof. Notes says he hopes to teach the best school of his life. Let us get together and help him. Mr. Virgil Hinson left Saturday for South Georgia on business.

Mr. R. C. Nisbet visited his daughter, Miss Edna, who is in school at Albenarle, recently. He certainly thinks that they are building some fine roads in the Oakboro section.

"How many people read Scapegoat's articles, you reckon?" a friend asked me a few days ago. So I began to ask those whom I knew took The Journal and found one in about a dozen who did not. Personally I have held a great interest in Scapegoat's re-hobeth items to the Enterprise. I represented Prospect and we had some right friendly quarrels at long range. I can say that Willie was always writing news that read good. It is hoped that more ex-soldiers of Buford township will be present at the next meeting of the American Legion Saturday week. The organization is a splendid one and there is no doubt that every member will certainly be fully repaid for the time he loses besides. It's the only ex-soldier organization in existence.

The cotton buyer who gave The Journal the information that the lint of Union county cotton was inferior to that which is grown in sand must be mistaken, as the Lancaster cotton buyers will bid at least 1/4 cent a pound more for North Carolina cotton than that which is grown in the sand. They say the lint is longer and stronger. Mr. G. R. Starnes gave us some history of the long staple cotton which is bringing 52 and up to 56 cents per pound. A friend sent Mr. John W. Stogner one boll from an experimental station. Mr. Stogner picked the seed from the boll and in the following year planted them. He gathered a few pounds, and again planted it, picking only the best bolls with the longest lint. He gave a few pounds to the late Fletcher Carnes. Mr. Carnes continued to experiment until a good lint and a good yield was secured and this year hundreds of acres were planted in Lancaster and Union counties from the seed of this one boll. I have one of the smallest bird nests that is built, that of the hummingbird. The inside of the nest is but little larger than an ordinary thimble. It is built of moss and is very hard to detect at any distance. I am going to take it to The Journal office on my next visit to Monroe and those who never saw one may get a chance to see it.

TEN PERSONS DROWN AS STEAMER MUSKEGON SINKS

Hit Pier When Hurrying to Shore to Escape Gale over Lake Michigan.

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 28.—Twelve persons were drowned this morning when the Crosby line steamship, City of Muskegon, formerly the City of Holland, while trying to make the harbor here, struck the south pier and was smashed to pieces, sinking in four minutes. Three of the victims were passengers, the remainder being members of the crew. There were about 25 passengers aboard the vessel, but most of them made their way to shore.

The City of Muskegon left Milwaukee last night in clear weather, but met a northeaster on Lake Michigan last night. The vessel was trying to make harbor here rather than turn back in the face of the gale, and crashed into the pier in the effort, sinking in four minutes.

The exact number of dead has not yet been determined, but it will be at least twelve and may reach twenty. The passenger list went down with the vessel, and it may never be known how many were lost. The bodies of four men have been washed ashore and the beach for miles is being patrolled.

The Sophomore class of the State College, Raleigh, has pledged itself to abolish hazing at the college in consideration of the reinstatement of the three sophomores dismissed two weeks ago for hazing.

SIX LITTLE NATIONS

Small Principalities of Europe That Still Cling to Independence—Drawn Out of Century-Long Isolation by War.

The six little nations, hidden away in Europe which have clung to their independence so stoutly through many centuries, Luxembourg, Andorra, Liechtenstein, San Marino, Monaco and Moresnet, were drawn out of their age-long isolation by the war, and now, according to Archer P. Whallon, who writes about them in an article called "Nations that never grew up," in the St. Nicholas, they are likely to be swapped about by the peace conferees before the map of Europe is finally settled. Mr. Whallon's notes on these six little nations run in part as follows: "Luxembourg is not very large, as nations go, having an area of 988 square miles, or, in other words, somewhat more than three-fourth the area of Rhode Island. It has a population of 250,000. Its iron mines constitute the source of its greatest wealth and furnishes employment for 8,000 people. The steel mills and foundries have an annual production of goods to the value of $28,000,000. The grand duchy of Luxembourg, its official title, is a constitutional monarchy, the present ruler being the Grand Duchess Charlotte.

"Next in extent of territory comes the Republic of Andorra, with 175 square miles nesting up among the Pyrenees, between the French department of Arize and the Spanish province of Lerida. This little nation has a population of about 5,500. Its executive authority, two "vigniers" are one by a Spanish bishop and the other by France.

"The principality of Liechtenstein, next in order, is but little more than a third the size of Andorra, having an area of 63 square miles. The population is given at over 9,600. Liechtenstein is 11 miles long, and from 1,200 feet to six miles wide. It is a mountain valley between Switzerland and the Austrian province of Tyrol, and a little south of the Lake of Constance. Liechtenstein has been more or less independent since 1719.

"On the allies' side of the fight, just where the oldest republic in the world should be expected to be, is San Marino. Of all the dwarf nations of the world, the little republic of San Marino, high up at an altitude of 10,000 feet among the Apennines, between the Italian provinces of Forli and Pesaro-Urbino, is the best known and has the most interesting history. The republic has an area of but 23 miles of mountainous soil, but its population numbers about 19,000 and it claims to be able to put in the field an army of 1,200 men, virtually all of the men and boys between the ages of 16 and 60. However, the standing army in peace time is a militia of 6 members.

"Considerably smaller in territory is the principality of Monaco. Located on the shores of the Mediterranean, surrounded on the land side by the French department of Alpes-Maritimes, between Nice and the Italian frontier, Monaco is a peninsula two and one-quarter miles long, with a width of from 165 to 1,100 yards, and having an area of eight square miles; but the total population is about 19,000. Within its limits is located Monte Carlo, the most notorious gambling resort in the world.

"Now at the end of the list, we have the smallest nation of them all, Moresnet Neuter, located four miles southwest of the city of Aix-la-Chapelle, bordering on Germany, Holland and Belgium, with a total area of only 1,400 acres."
