LOCAL INTELLIGENCE

Latest Happenings In and Around Monroe.

All women of the county are requested to contribute a basket of good things to eat for the soldier dinner Thursday.

Julian Carr Ammann, of Sea Grove, N. C., said to be a native of Union county, died at a Charlotte hospital early Friday morning. He was seventy-eight years old.

All boys who have Boy Scout uniforms will meet in front of the Lutheran church Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, to participate in the American Legion parade.

The hoisting of American flags over the homes of Monroe people next Thursday will be sincerely appreciated by the local post of the American Legion.

Charlie Harris, the negro who was arrested here several months ago for a murder he is alleged to have committed fifteen years ago, was tried in Augusta, Ga., recently and sentenced to 10 months service as jail janitor, according to reports here.

Any ex-serviceman who wishes to join the Melvin Deese post of the American Legion is urged to get in touch with any of the following members: J. Hampton Price, W. Frank Houston, Robert S. Howie, T. Olin McManus, Rufus E. Duncan, Carr Bowie, and Ben Eubanks.

At the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association yesterday afternoon it was decided to request the school patrons each to donate a cup towards Mrs. McGill's supplies. The serving of hot lunches is proving an unqualified success. Enamel pint cups with handles are preferred.

The following Marshville citizens were taxed with the costs last Saturday for violating the compulsory school attendance law: Messrs. L. W. Little, J. C. Austin, J. L. Griffin, B. F. Griffin, Neal Edwards, W. H. Griffin, B. G. Hinson, J. H. Gaddy, A. T. Austin, and Jesse Staton.

Mr. A. M. Secrest is attending the Buick dealers frolic at Onslow Hall, owned by Mr. C. C. Coddlingham of Charlotte, North and South Carolina distributor of Buick cars, in Onslow county. The dealers are spending three days in indoor and outdoor sports. The program says that discussion of business, politics or Buick's is prohibited. The hall, we are informed, sits on a high bank facing New River, three and one-half miles wide at that point. The woods are full of all kinds of game, such as quail, rabbits, squirrels, opossum, coons, foxes, wildcat and deer.

Of much interest to many Union county citizens is the announcement that over a million dollars is to be divided among members of the Woodmen of the World in the United States January 1. This amount represents "extra dividends" to be apportioned among members of the order whose policies are on the adequate rate basis, effective since last January, and in good standing up through Dec. 31 this year. There are in America now about 962,000 Woodmen. The division means that each member will get the equivalent of one monthly installment of Woodman insurance. The million dollar accumulation, according to officials, is indication of the excellent management of Woodmen affairs. The money will be distributed from National Woodmen headquarters, Omaha, Neb.

Paying tribute to the memory of his father, the late William S. Lee of this place, Mr. William S. Lee, Jr., of Raleigh, has presented the Trinity college library with a sum of money to be used in purchasing books dealing with Southern history. Details of the memorial come from Durham in the form of an announcement from Dr. W. P. Few, president of Trinity. The first payment has been paid, according to information received, and with this sum thirty volumes dealing with Southern history were purchased and are now on the library shelves at Trinity. Other volumes are in shipment, while the number will be increased with succeeding payments. Memorial book-plates with the words, "The William S. Lee Memorial Collection of Southern History" printed on them have been made and these are pasted in the books as they are received. The memorial was given to the library through Dr. W. K. Boyd, head of the department of history at Trinity.

Thursday will not be devoted entirely to frivolity, as some believe. Memorial exercises will be held in the court house at 11 o'clock, and Monroe ministers will return thanks for the great victory.

Confederate soldiers are requested to march in the parade Thursday morning along with the younger fighters, and they will also be accorded a seat of honor at the dinner table.

The city aldermen have set the Monroe tax rate at $1.20 on the hundred. Fifteen cents is for schools, 15 cents for general purposes, and 90 cents for special purposes. Residents of Monroe will pay a total tax of $1.80 on the hundred, the county tax being 60 cents on the hundred.

Robbers entered the Unionville garage, eight miles north of here, Saturday night and secured about $600 worth of automobile tires and accessories. Entrance was effected by cutting the hasp from the lock by a set of big wire pliers, at least this appears to have been the manner of entry. Residents of the village say they heard a truck approach the garage about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, and after stopping for a short while move on, but as it is not uncommon for parties connected with the garage to visit it late at night, this circumstance created no suspicion. The garage is owned by Luther Griffin and Fred Medlin. No clue has been discovered to the identity of the robber or robbers.

Capt. Turner B. Thompson, a well known Seaboard conductor, died at 7:45 this morning at his home on Church street after an illness of about ten days. Death resulted from a complication of diseases following influenza. The deceased was about 42 years of age, and was a native of Homer, Ga. He had been a freight conductor on the Seaboard for a number of years, his run at the time of his death being between Monroe and Rutherfordton. Mr. Thompson is survived by his wife, who was very devoted to him. Remains of the deceased were taken to his old home today for interment. Mr. Thompson was a gentleman of strong character, honest, clever, loyal to his friends, and very generous-hearted. His fellow conductors speak of him in the very highest of terms.

Rev. J. R. Warren, pastor of several Methodist churches in this county, who sold hundreds of War Savings Stamps during the war, and who prayed daily for victory during those crucial times, believes that the proper way to celebrate the signing of the armistice is to spend the day in prayer. The street dance is unalterably opposed by him, and during his Sunday service at Grace Chapel he said: "If any of you are preparing to attend that dance, the best thing for you to do is to go to your pastor and request your names to be taken off the church roll." His text was from the 22nd chapter of Genesis, 2nd verse. "When the Germans were advancing toward the English channel in the spring of 1818," said Mr. Warren, "I met the late W. S. Lee on the streets of Monroe. He wore a worried expression, and I asked him the cause of his evident bad state of mind. 'Mr. Warren,' he replied, 'the Germans are nearing the English Channel, and if they capture the Channel ports I fear for the safety of our boys. Their base of supplies would be cut off.' A few weeks later Mr. Wilson issued a proclamation calling upon the people to meet at their churches to pray for victory. Meeting after meeting was held in compliance with his request, countless prayers were offered, War Savings Stamps and Bonds were bought, and our brave soldiers, backed by the strengthened morale and prayers of the people back home, won the victory. Our prayers were needed then; is it not highly proper that we should celebrate the signing of the armistice by returning thanks to God?" Rev. Mr. Warren will conduct memorial services in honor of Luther Garland, who was killed in action, at the North Monroe church at 2 p. m. Thursday. He also announces that the revival services at Iceberlee will not be interrupted Thursday evening, but will be held at the usual hour.
