A large number of the young people of the town attended the performance at Gilead Church last Friday night. A goodly number of older people were present also. All pronounced the play a success and the trip altogether one of rare pleasure.

Friday and Saturday were tax listing days here. Messrs. J. P. Poteat, J. B. Yarbrough and H. W. Hageman are the list-takers. The books will be opened again next Tuesday and Wednesday, and another opportunity will be given those who have not already listed their property.

The growth and expansion of the University should be a matter of pride to every North Carolinian. Its efficiency, patronage and public favor it is second to none in the South. Its requirements are exact, its standard rigid, its tone of life high and manly. Its academic roll is the largest in the South, and in all its history it has never been so close to the people, and so able to serve them. Ambitions and needy boys should remember its motto is equality, opportunity and self-help.

We call especial attention to the advertisement of the Yanceyville Co-educational Academy in this issue. This school is in every sense worthy of the patronage of all who have a desire to prepare their boys and girls for future success in life. Prof. Simon, the principal, has achieved an enviable reputation as an educator in the past three years of his work at Yanceyville, and is tested by the large and constantly increasing patronage enjoyed by this institution. Prof. Simon has recently returned from a trip through the county in the interest of the school, and everywhere he met with flattering encouragement. The fall term begins Sept. 4th, 1899.

ALLISON ITEMS.

A terrible storm passed through this section last Saturday, the 10th, doing considerable damage to corn and tobacco and blowing down a good many trees and houses.

Mrs. Charlie Coleman has been right sick, but we are glad to say is improving.

Mr. John Allison, of Reidsville, is visiting his uncle, Mr. J. C. Allison, and sister, Mrs. Annie Mitchell.

Mr. J. C. Allison has been right sick for the past week, but is improving.

Mrs. Jack Mitchell and children have been right sick, but are better now.

Miss Mollie C. Allison, of Orange, is visiting her brother, Mr. J. C. Allison.

Miss Cora Allison is visiting friends and relatives in Orange.

Mr. J. C. Allison's two sons, Walter and Arthur, and their little sister Beulah, have been spending the past two weeks with their Grandma Mitchell.

Miss Em Jordan, of Yarboro, spent several days last week visiting friends in this neighborhood.

Mrs. W. K. Williams and Miss Lela Chandler left Monday for Bessemer City, to visit Mrs. William's aunt, Mrs. John Smith.

Quite a distinguished audience assembled at Gilead church on last Friday evening to see "The Deacon" played, which proved to be a success.

GATEWOOD LETTER.

The June day sun is streaming its flood of light over this grand old world of ours and altogether it is a glorious day. So buoyant with hope for the light young hearts that are beating so joyously over some future victory and success. This June has indeed been a most wonderful one. It has been the hottest, coldest one on record for a number of years.

We are glad to announce that Mr. Henry Thaxton is convalescent.

Mrs. M. Winston and daughter Miss Annie spent Monday with Mrs. J. M. Gatewood.

Misses Anna and Mary Sue Coleman, of Gatewood, are visiting the Misses Pinchback, of Blanche.

There will be two services at Providence church Sunday. The people in this vicinity will have a basket picnic at Park's Springs Tuesday, the 27th. Come over and join us. Quite a number are being vaccinated and fears are entertained that this pestilence will be quite prevalent this season. M. T. G.

[We suppose our correspondent refers to that dread disease, smallpox, in the above paragraph. However, if there's any danger of a picnic pestilence, by all means let'er spread.—Ed.]

MONUMENT ERECTED.

LEASBURG, N. C., June 15.
MR. EDITOR:—Please allow us space in your columns to announce to the friends of the late Rev. S. Lea, of Leasburg, N. C., that the monument to which quite a number of former pupils, friends and relatives heartily contributed has just been erected over his grave.

It is of variegated Georgia marble, six feet in height and the design is graceful and appropriate. Besides necessary dates, it bears the following inscription: "He served his generation cheerfully and faithfully." Respectfully,
W. J. PULLIAM,
H. T. CONALLY.

BISMARCK'S IRON NERVE

Was the result of his splendid health. His remarkable will and energy are not found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25c at R. L. Dixon's.

"THE DEACON"

Presented at Gilead Church. Last Friday Night.

The presentation of the comedy-drama, "The Deacon," at Gilead church, this county, last Friday night, was pronounced a success by all who attended. Its success was somewhat of a surprise to many who attended, as it is a fact not generally known that there are several "born actors" in that neighborhood. Some twenty-five or thirty young people of Milton attended the performance and all returned highly pleased with the trip.

It would be difficult for us to do justice to the several performers who were worthy of special mention. But the general verdict was that the laugh-provoking negro servant Pete (Mr. J. J. Chandler) and the old maid, Miss Amelia (Mrs. J. M. Long) were perfect. They kept the audience convulsed with laughter and the many close shaves of the mischievous Pete, who was forever playing pranks on the members of the household, were highly amusing.

Mr. N. J. Taylor, in the title role, showed that he had a proper conception of the character. "The Deacon," though addicted to the habit of imbibing too much lemonade "with a stick in it," showed true manliness of character in the closing scene when he forgave his only child, whom he had disowned for marrying against his wishes. The Deacon's courtship of Miss Amelia was not devoid of accidents and misunderstandings, and Miss Amelia's protestations of nervousness and alarm at the Deacon's advances were true to life. Her determination to refuse him melted away like thin ice when he "popped the question."

Miss Maie Rainey, as Daisy, Mrs. Thornton's servant, made a success and captured the audience from the start.

In the scene where Mrs. Darrah, the forsaken wife, stands face to face with her husband and is spurned by him as an object of bitterest contempt, real dramatic ability was displayed by Mr. Bryant and Miss Winston.

The performance was a complete success, all the other characters being well sustained. Want of space forbids special mention. A handsome sum was realized, which will be used to complete the church building.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Deacon Thornton, N. J. Taylor.
Matt Wheeler, alias Geo. Darrah, W. T. Bryant.
Reed, a friend of Wheeler, Giles Mebane.
Geo. Graef, nephew to Mrs. Thornton, E. M. McIver.
Parson Brownlow, B. B. Chandler.
Pedro, organ grinder, R. L. Mitchell.
Pete, negro servant, J. J. Chandler.
Billy, the Deacon's boy, J. E. Allen.
Mrs. Thornton, Mrs. N. J. Taylor.
Amelia Faucette, Mrs. Thornton's maiden sister, Mrs. J. M. Long.
Helen, Mrs. Thornton's daughter, Miss Martha Taylor.
Mrs. Darrah, wife of Wheeler, Miss Annie Winston.
Nellie, little daughter of Mrs. Darrah, Bessie Rainey.
Daisy, Mrs. Thornton's servant, Miss Maie Rainey.

STORY OF A SLAVE.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by R. L. Dixon, druggist.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS

You Can't Expect
Your boys and girls to go out into the world cultured and refined unless you help them lay the foundation upon which all civilization and progress rests. Those who neglect the duties imposed upon them in this regard by the demands of this enlightened age, or disregard the dictates of right, may regret in future years the opportunities they failed to embrace.
Careful and Systematic
Attention to every duty imposed upon them has won for the faculty the esteem and approval of their patrons. The School itself has a Beautiful and Healthy Location, which not only adds to the pleasure and health of the students, but inspires them to greater zeal in the prosecution of their studies. The past session was the most successful of the three year's work.
The Y. C. A. prepares boys for college and for business, prepares girls for college and for cultured Christian homes.
Among the many pleasures provided for the benefit of the students during hours for recreation are lawn tennis, croquet, baseball, horizontal and parallel bars. A graduate of our school can enter the Sophomore year in any college in the State without further preparation.
